...Will Laval Say?
A Flying Honeymoon,

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

JOHN FRANCIS NEYLAN, telephoning across the continent from San Francisco, says for Americans to remember:

"Britain has had her wonderful 100 years. She has pulled down her flag of gold, and our 100 years are starting. We regret the misfortunes of our British friends, but we need not take to a sick bed, financially, merely because they do.

"Our dollar is on top of the world, and all the efforts of Europe to pull it down will not succeed.

"England has walked out of the money championship as Gene Tunney walked out of the heavyweight championship.

"The United States and the American dollar have inherited the world. The new situation opens up possibilities that this country has never dreamed of.

"And every American with more heart than a newly-hatched leghorn chick should realize it."

FINANCE ASKS:

"What will Monsieur Laval, intelligent man of France, say when he lands, and what will he said to him?"

He will probably say he would like to have our French war debt canceled.

He will be asked perhaps:

"If the United States cancels your war debts, will you cancel Germany's reparations?"

To that he will reply, being a good patriotic Frenchman:

"CERTAINLY NOT. We made great sacrifices, lost much property, many lives. Germany must pay for them."

Those who know President Hoover even a little, think they can imagine what he will reply to that.

FOUR ABLE BANKERS, Howell, McCain, Ward and Rentschler, were at work yesterday organizing the $500,000,000 bank pool suggested by President Hoover. The pool will sustain weaker banks, intrinsically sound, but with assets on which it would be difficult to realize suddenly.

WHEN LAVAL COMES from France he will find waiting for him here, Charles Farnier, of the Bank of France, and Lacour-Gayet, head of the banks' economic section.

THE WORLD knows that Germany has paid to France 10,000,000,000 marks, $2,500,000,000, in reparations, and many sympathize with poor Germany.

The more sympathetic don't know that while Germany was paying $2,500,000,000 to France, she borrowed $3,750,000,000 from England and the United States, spending the difference in her favor, $1,250,000,000 on magnificent housing projects and many other improvements.

AS THINGS STAND, Germany has been able to spend $1,250,000,000 more than she paid to France.

Such "defeat" is not so bad.

The proud English-speaking races, as it turns out, are not such wonderful business men as they thought they were.

MRS. AIMEE Semple McPherson came with her husband to New York, where this is written, then flew to Boston to save souls, depression or no depression.

Mr. Cyrus H. K. Curtis' reporter described Aimee the soul saver as dressed in "an ensamble of powder blue."

How glorious to fly on your honeymoon to a nine-day revival that will send to Heaven many that were headed the other way.

YOU CAN IMAGINE how Mrs. Aimee, when she gets to Heaven, will surprise some kind lady angel who has been there a long time.

The angel will say:

"Now, darling, put on your wings; you know you are going to fly up here."

Mrs. Aimee will reply:

"I'm from Los Angeles, and flying is old stuff to me. I flew up to get married, flew to Boston to save souls, and at a rate of speed that would make you people open your eyes."

IT PAYS TO MAKE your city interesting. Conventions meeting in New York, from all parts of the country, in the past year spent $80,000,000, a good deal of money, even for New York.

In the same period New York and its local government spent SIX HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS—also a good deal of money, even for New York.

New Yorkers are interested to learn how some of their local statesmen acquire the sums that they deposit in banks, from small salaries.

One who deposited $630,000 said he got his out of "a big black box" and would not be more explicit. Another borrowed hundreds of thousands from friends, but couldn't tell who they were. All showed extraordinary financial capacity.

YOU READ in the paper:

"More gold goes to Europe."

Why should this country LET IT GO? We didn't allow exportation of gold at one period

TROLLEY CRASH INJURES 4

Four persons were slightly injured early this afternoon and traffic was delayed a short time when a coal truck collided with a Wilkinsburg street car at Forbes and Atwood streets, Oakland, ripping out three windows.

The accident occurred as traffic lights were changing.

Two of those injured were taken to Montefiore Hospital and later sent home. The others were taken to the emergency hospital of the Pittsburgh Railways Company in Sixth avenue.

Mrs. Elizabeth Reese, 64, of 2103 Braddock avenue, Swissvale, and Mrs. Elizabeth Archibald, 40, of 814 Mill street, Wilkinsburg, were those taken to Montefiore Hospital.

GIRL AND GUN VICTIM HELD AS BANDITS

Suspect Shot in Battle With Barbecue Man Near Death; Woman Caught in Auto

A gun battle which followed the holdup of the Littlewood Barbecue on the Clairton road near Clairton this morning ended disastrously for the alleged holdup man and his woman companion.

The supposed bandit, Harry T. Miller, 24, of 1906 Meadow street, McKeesport, was wounded probably fatally and his companion, Mrs. Jean Leckert, 25, of 931 Baldwin street, McKeesport, was arrested. The woman is the mother of a 9-year-old daughter and is separated from her husband.

Exchanging shots, Louis Ross, of 448 Brownsville road, Carrick, one of the proprietors, brought down the highwayman suspect, Miller, a bullet wound near the heart, is in a critical condition in the McKeesport Hospital. The girl was lodged in the McKeesport Police Station by County Detective James Reddington.

GIRL LEFT IN CAR

The barbecue is conducted by Louis Ross and his brothers, John and Fred. The brothers and Florence McCarthy, 19, of McKeesport, a waitress, and Frank Galaway, 22, waiter, were at the barbecue along with two men customers when the holdup was staged. Louis was behind the counter, Miss McCarthy and Galaway in the kitchen, the customers at one table and John Ross at another. Fred Ross was outside.

Miller, Reddington said, parked his machine in the rear of the barbecue, leaving Mrs. Leckert in the car. Entering the establishment he walked up to the counter and pointed a revolver at Louis Ross and said:

"Stick them up. Give me the money."

At this point, Galaway and Miss McCarthy emerged from the kitchen and the customers and

$5,000,000 TAX CUT DEMANDED ON CITY LEVY

Building Owners, Chamber Of Commerce Lead Fight On Waste of Public Funds

Demands that the burden of city taxation be lightened have been sent to Mayor Charles H. Kline and members of City Council by the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and the Pittsburgh Building Owners and Managers Association.

The Building Owners and Managers demand a $5,000,000 reduction in city taxes.

OFFER CO-OPERATION

Offers of co-operation in showing authorities where reductions can be made without impairing service to the public have been made by both organizations. Both organizations expect to have experts present when City Council considers the 1932 budget.

Mayor Kline has been told in a letter from the Building Owners and Managers that city taxes must be reduced by at least 5 mills on land if Pittsburgh is to keep pace with other cities. This would amount to a $5,000,000 slash out of the $28,700,000 budget of 1931.

The Building Owners also request an immediate hearing on the budget before department heads present their estimates to the Mayor.

OTHERS TO JOIN FIGHT

They offer their help in a careful consideration of operating costs and state in their letter to Mayor Kline:

"We feel the matter is of sufficient importance that most of the department heads should be represented (at the hearing) and also yourself."

The entry of the Chamber of Commerce into the fight for lower taxes is expected to throw the CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Al Capone sustained another crushing blow in court today at his trial for income tax violation when Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson ruled that the "confession letter" could be read to the jury.

It is a document in which Capone, through his Washington lawyer, admitted an income of $266,000 over a period of six years on which he did not pay a dime of taxes, and said he was desirous of settling with the government.

JURY NAMES 23 OTHERS IN FRAUDS

'Higher-Ups' Charged With Conspiracy to Register And Vote 'Phantoms'

A smashing blow at alleged election cheating was struck by the September grand jury today when it indicted three "higher-ups" along with 23 others, and urged sweeping changes in election laws to prevent ballot frauds.

George J. Schad, chairman of the County Board for Assessment and revision of Taxes; Charles J. McBride, secretary of the board, and Paul Walsh, son of Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh, who won the Republican nomination for constable of the First Ward, were named with three others in charges that a plot was perpetrated to assess, register and vote illegally a large number of persons in that ward.

FIRE CHIEF NAMED

Others charged with conniving in the plot were Samuel L. Ramsey, an employe of the Tax board, Frank Alpert, a subordinate assessor, and Saul Klein, district fire chief.

The election boards recommended for indictment were those of the Second District, Fifth Ward; Sixteenth District, Nineteenth Ward, and Fourth District, of Wilmerding. The vote in the Wilmerding district was thrown out by the return board because of fraud.

Today's indictments increases to 44 the total number named by the September grand jury in election fraud cases. 18 election board members having previously been indicted. All will be placed on trial as early as possible, according to Prosecutor A. T. Park.

The indictment charged that Paul Walsh procured a list of 922 names of purported First Ward residents and delivered it to Alpert at the direction of Ramsey. Many of these were phantoms, the grand jury found after examining more than 300 witnesses.

SUPPLEMENTAL LIST

These names were entered in a supplemental assessment list labeled 1-A book. Forged affidavits purporting to be signed by individuals whose names were placed on the additional book were filed, the grand jury found. A large number of fraudulent certificates carrying names and line

The Alderman's brother, Louis, of 3172 Beechwood boulevard, and M. M. Beck, of 5729 Darlington road, were killed in the accident. The car, driven by Alderman Goldstein, crashed through a guard rail and plunged 40 feet to the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks.

PAUL WALSH — GEORGE J. SCHAD — C. J. M'BRIDE — SAUL KLEIN

Chairman Schad and Secretary McBride, of the County Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes; Constable-Nominee Walsh, son of the police superintendent, and District Fire Chief Klein, four of 26 today indicted by the vote-probing grand jury.

Voided District Smashes Volpe Political Slate

The Volpes, dominant factors in Republican politics in Wilmerding for years, were given a crushing blow when Return Judges—George V. Moore and Elder W. Marshall—today threw out the vote of the Fourth District of Wilmerding.

Practically the whole independent ticket in the borough, was given the Republican nomination over the Volpe slate by elimination of the strong Volpe district.

Three independent candidates for Council, Gilmartin, Dick and Fox, were declared the Republican nominees instead of Kukerin, Dempster and Sullivan, backed by the Volpe organization. With a few votes on the Socialist ticket, the three Volpe organization councilmanic candidates are assured a place on the November ballot, while two of their men won the Democratic nomination for School Director. In the County Commissioner fight, the Wilmerding ruling made a net gain for McGovern of 731 votes over Armstrong.

BANKS COMPLETE ORGANIZATION OF $500,000,000 P

LEADERS SPEED HOOVER PLAN ON CREDIT

Satisfactory Responses Reported From All Parts Of U. S.; Articles Filed

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Moving with a speed unmatched in a project of such huge dimensions, the organization committee of New York bankers today had completed the formation of the $500,000,000 credit pool suggested by President Hoover for relieving the pressure on the nation's banks.

Incorporation articles for the giant undertaking were to be filed today at Dover, Del.

The pool will be known as the National Credit Corporation. It was to be authorized to issue up to $1,000,000,000 principal amount of debentures. The corporation will have a nominal capital of $1,200. This will consist of 12 shares of stock with par value of $100 each.

Satisfactory responses from banks already has been received, announced Mortimer N. Buckner, president of the New York Clearing House Association. He is chairman of the pool's organization committee appointed by Gov. Harrison of the Federal Reserve Bank.

Banks are asked to subscribe to the debentures in an amount equal to 2 per cent of their net time and demand deposits. The other half of the $1,000,000,000 may be raised later.

The aim of the corporation will be to lend funds to banks or banking associations. An announcement insisted banks were not to have the privilege of applying for cash from the corporation except in emergencies.

One or more groups or associations of banks is to be set up in every Federal Reserve district.

A meeting of the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association may be held today or tomorrow to discuss the participation of Pittsburgh banks in the $500,000,000 corporation to be formed under President Hoover's banking stabilization program. Although no formal call for the meeting has yet been issued, announcement of the meeting is expected today.

Important questions to be discussed will be the amount of the participation and the possibility of local representation on the board of the stabilization corporation.

CRUSHING BLOW DEALT CAPONE

G. Clawson read the communication to the jurors. The letter, held to be virtually Capone's confession of guilt, is said to be the crux of the government's case upon which it hopes to send the gang chieftain to prison for a long term—possibly 32 years.

Judge Wilkerson today warned the jurors they must not allow anyone to communicate with them in any way. He told the jurors that any person who sought to communicate with them would be involved "in serious complications." He instructed the jurors to report any such attempts to the court.

Meanwhile, Capone, who has outlasted five chiefs of police in Chicago, and survived innumerable crime drives and reform crusades, began to realize that in Uncle Sam he is at last confronted with a powerful and implacable adversary.

LAVISH LIVING CITED

As the trial continued today the government began its parade of witnesses to set forth Capone's lavish manner of spending money at his five-room suite in the Metropole Hotel here as well as his substantial expenditures in Florida.

Capone made a payment of $50,000 for his palatial home in Florida, it was disclosed by one of the witnesses. Another witness, McRamsey Smith, desk clerk at the Metropole, in Chicago, told how Capone and his "mob" lived in grand style, paying as high as $1,500 "for rooms."

Waiting to be called and under guard in a downtown hotel are men who, shoulder to shoulder with Capone, engaged in various illegal enterprises in Chicago and its suburbs. Among them is Johnny Torrio, who "quit the racket" and relinquished his gangland throne to Capone.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The possibility of an agreement between France and the United States to lead the world in reducing armaments, while further extending the holiday on intergovernmental debts, was discussed in official circles today as reports poured in indicating President Hoover's "prosperity program" had strengthened American banking interests.

If Mr. Hoover and Premier Laval, of France, can reach an "understanding" on debts, reparations and disarmament late this month, it was generally felt, the whole world will be started on its way to business recovery. The prospects of remedying the world's economic ailments even overshadowed the buoyant response given the President's financial program by American banking interests.

Navy Plans to Cut Personnel by 3,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Slashes in the Navy's enlisted personnel of about 3,000 men and some 800 from the Marine Corps have been virtually agreed upon by the Navy Bureau chiefs in a tentative economy program to comply with President Hoover's instructions, it was stated in reliable quarters today.

The program also calls for laying up approximately one-fifth of the fleet in a rotation-overhaul plan which would keep 20 per cent of the fleet in drydock or overhaul stations at all times.

Laval to Occupy 3 Guest Chambers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Three guest chambers are being prepared for Premier Laval during his four-day stay in the capital.

The first night he will sleep at the home of Walter E. Edge, American ambassador to France. The second night at the White House, then at the home of Secretary Stimson and the last night at the Edge home again.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Oct. 9.—The Potters National Bank and the Dollar Savings Bank will be merged Tuesday under the name of the Potters Bank and Trust Company, it was announced today.

AKRON STARTS TEST CRUISE

AKRON, O., Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Gliding into the air as the sun peeked over the horizon, the U. S. S. Akron, largest of the world's lighter-than-air craft, began her sixth test flight at 6:45 a. m. today.

The giant ship was expected to remain aloft until sundown, during which time tests of various engine combinations, water recovery and deceleration were to be made. The craft was equipped with a complete new set of propellers for her eight engines on the flight.

Nosing skyward in the still and brisk air, the ship circled the field and headed toward the downtown section of the city. It was believed she would take her sixth voyage over the northwestern part of the state, in the vicinity of Toledo. All of her previous flights were staged over Northeastern Ohio and Pennsylvania.

during the war. We had it, wanted the world to know we had it, and we kept it.

The timid say:

"If you refuse to export gold, the world will say that you have gone off the gold standard."

Let the world say what it likes. It will not lack respect for a nation that has $5,000,000,000 in gold locked up, back of its dollar.

OLD BRITANNIA is flat on her back, because she allowed the ingenious Frenchmen to draw out her gold, hundreds of millions in a week.

Why not admit that our friends abroad are smarter than we are, brilliantly efficient in extracting gold from other nations, and at the same time say to them:

"You are not going to get OURS, because we are going to keep it."

LABOR CENTERS ON DRIVE FOR 2.75 BEER

Brew Similar to Canada's Favored; Fight for Full Repeal to Be Sidetracked

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Organized labor's demand for 2.75 per cent beer crystallized today at the American Federation of Labor convention and committeemen indicated resolutions for outright repeal of the Eighteenth amendment probably would be sidetracked.

Matthew Woll, chairman of a labor committee working for congressional sentiment to change the Volstead act, explained that 2.75 per cent beer would be of the same strength as the Canadian draft brew sold here, and not the "dishwater" some delegates had thought. He said:

"By 2.75 per cent beer I mean about 3.10 per cent by volume. Just like the ordinary Canadian beverage. I am not referring to bottled beer or the stronger ales."

President William Green, who also favors legalization of 2.75 per cent beer; W. J. McDonough, head of the building trades union, and other leaders indicated most discussion of resolutions dealing with alcohol would take place behind closed doors of the resolutions committee. However, leaders of the anti-dry wing, girded for a possible battle on the convention floor shortly.

The committee is expected to report favorably on that section of the executive council's report favoring 2.75 per cent beer. The committee also is expected to report non-concurrence on resolutions advocating repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and repeal of Volstead act.

The committee on resolutions awaited a report on the Hoover dam contract of the Six Companies, Inc., which was attacked bitterly at hearings. Delegates characterized the project as "a $700,000,000 outrage" and referred to "inhuman working conditions."

DISARM EUROPE, BORAH SAYS

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—An offer to give serious consideration to the cancellation of American war debts if European powers will reduce German reparations and disarm, was made today by Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, chairman of the powerful Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He said:

"If Europe is willing to reduce reparations and disarm, we could afford to consider cancellation."

This announcement was viewed as Senator Borah's answer to the President's plan for a two-year extension of the moratorium on inter-Allied debts which he opposed. Borah told Mr. Hoover he opposed further concessions to the Allied Powers on debts until they took concrete action in cutting reparations and armaments.

At the time the President proposed his one-year moratorium on reparations and war debts, Borah agreed in order to give Europe time to reflect on its action. He now demands that Europe "get going" toward disarmament.

Chinese Dealers Ban Japan's Goods in U. S.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, director of the Chinese Trade Bureau, has announced a boycott of Japanese goods in the United States by the Chinese Merchants' Association.

Dr. Hsieh said punishments ranging from a $50 fine to ostracism would be imposed on all Chinese merchants in the United States breaking the boycott. He announced that orders for Japanese products totaling $750,000 had been cancelled.

$5,000,000 TAX CUT DEMANDED

weight of many civic organizations behind the demand. The attitude expressed by many businessmen and home owners is that public officials have forgotten, in many cases, that they are public servants.

The Chamber of Commerce resolution states that greatly reduced income from real estate makes it imperative that needless expenditures be cut by the city and county and by the Board of Public Education.

WILL EXPOSE LEAKS

The conviction that the cost of local government could be materially lessened if the same policy of economy and insistence on full service for compensation received practiced by private corporations were used by public officials.

The Chamber of Commerce plans to have trained representatives at the budget sessions. It is known that the Building Owners and Managers have been quietly making a complete study of the budget, and are prepared to show city officials numerous leaks where public funds have been squandered.

Reduction of the city payroll by the use of "stagger" system of working hours instead of making wage reductions is the latest proposal made by administration councilmen in their deliberations regarding ways to reduce taxes in 1932, it was learned today.

SEES BIG SAVING

This system would give work to every employe but lessens the hours of each individual. A prominent city official admitted the subject has been discussed informally as it is recognized that there are more employes than needed in many city departments.

The spokesman said he was opposed to a wage cut, but that he believes a very large sum can be saved by the "stagger" system until business conditions improve. It was admitted in administration circles that the Mayor's majority in Council is now fully cognizant of the fact that the taxpayers are in earnest in their demands for tax reduction.

U. S. PLANS MOVE TO END CRISIS IN MANCHURIA

League Council Also Urged To Act as Peril of Tokio War With China Grows

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—The American government is preparing to make a definite move in the Manchurian situation, and indications are it will seek to mobilize world opinion against further Chinese Japanese hostilities.

Increasing seriousness of the Manchurian conflict between Japan and China caused President Hoover to discuss the situation with his cabinet today and almost simultaneously the urgent meeting of the League of Nations Council was called for next Tuesday in Geneva.

No statement was made after the Washington cabinet meeting, but the American State Department is keeping a close watch on the hostilities.

20 WARSHIPS ON SCENE

The meeting of the League Council was decided upon at the request of China, which has protested military action of Japan in Manchuria.

Japanese naval reinforcements brought the Nippon fleet in Chinese waters to 20 ships carrying, in addition to regular crews, landing forces totaling 700 men.

The anti-Japanese boycott in China became tighter than ever as the nation learned of the bombing of the temporary Manchurian capital, Chinchow, by Japanese planes.

A formal warning from Japan to China, which will be presented tomorrow, demands suppression of anti-Japanese agitation. Otherwise, the note says China will be held responsible for the consequences.

CHARGE WAR PLOT

Japan sent two high officials representing the War Department and the Foreign Office, respectively, to co-ordinate civil and military authority in Manchuria, in an effort to eliminate all friction.

Japanese headquarters at Mukden, Manchuria, described in a communique an alleged plot by Chang Hsueh Liang, deposed Manchurian governor, for a military uprising against the Japanese regime.

The situation in Manchuria has grown worse since the occupation recently by Japanese troops of the South Manchurian Railway zone. The troops were sent there, Japanese officials said, to protect the Japanese-owned railway from damage from Chinese soldiers.

Belief was expressed De Bosis, who is the son of Mrs. Lillian Vernon de Bosis, formerly of Syracuse and St. Louis, was masquerading in Corsica under an English name.

Radio Fans Laud Programs Without Advertising

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—A departure in radio advertising programs, virtually eliminating commercial features and urging listeners to read the newspapers for advertisements, has been inaugurated here with a flood of commendation from the radio public.

The innovation was sponsored by the National Sugar Refining Company of New Jersey. After two years of radio advertising in the customary manner, the company recently announced at the beginning of its usual half hour musical broadcast over NBC:

"In tonight's program we initiate an innovation in radio. We have done away with our commercial advertising announcements. We realize that as you listen in on our program you wish to be entertained."

It was then suggested that listeners interested in the company's product read its newspaper advertisements.

Since then, the company has merely announced its sponsorship of the program at the start, with no interruption of the musical numbers for commercial announcement. At the time of pause for station announcements attention is called to the fact that the firm's advertisements appear in the daily newspapers.

Company officials said today their radio plan had attracted favorable comment from listeners in all parts of the country and that many letters of commendation had been received.

Movement to Put Morrow Widow in Senate Grows

RIDGEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 9.—(AP.)—The "Mrs. Morrow for United States Senator" cry, raised by members of the Women's Republican Club, of Ridgewood, gained momentum today as persons prominent in New Jersey politics approved the suggestion.

Mrs. E. B. Thornton, president of the Ridgewood organization, wrote in behalf of the club to Gov. Larson asking him to appoint Dwight W. Morrow's widow to his unexpired term, as "she represents the highest type of American womanhood."

Mrs. Morrow helped her husband conduct his senatorial campaign last year and often spoke over the radio and at club rallies.

If appointed Mrs. Morrow would be the second woman to receive such honors. Georgia sent Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton to the Senate for 22 hours on the death of Senator Thomas F. Watson. It was an interim appointment only and Walter F. George succeeded her after she had made one speech in the Senate.

RLD WATCHES EDISON'S HOPELESS FIGHT FOR LIFE

WIZARD SMILES TO ENCOURAGE WIFE

BULLETIN.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 9. — (INS.) — Thomas A. Edison had lost a little more ground today in his long, brave battle against encroaching death. His physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, found the inventor in a stupor from which he was only aroused with difficulty.

Dr. Howe said that the stupor was not a coma and that Edison might live for some days yet.

By DOROTHY ROE

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 9.—A great man is dying.

Thomas A. Edison, the 84-year-old wizard who has had a hand in practically every great modern invention, commands the admiration and sympathy of the entire world as he lies fighting his last battle. And the world has gathered at his door.

The 19-acre estate in Llewellyn Park, where the Edison family has lived for 45 years, is the scene of constant activity since the famous inventor was stricken. And the air of suppressed excitement, the click of telegraph instruments, the procession of cars that whir through the winding roads of the shady grounds, form a dramatic contrast to the calm of the wide-spreading acres in other times.

GROUNDS GUARDED

The garage on the estate has been made headquarters for the press, where a score of metropolitan newspapermen and women keep watch night and day. A network of telephone and telegraph wires mar the beauty of the fine old trees which have been Edison's particular pride.

Special policemen patrol the grounds and guard the entrance to the park.

But Edison himself knows nothing of the bustle of activity that surrounds him. He lies quietly, stoutly fighting his fight, and it does not occur to him that he can lose.

FAMILY AT BEDSIDE

The entire Edison family of four sons and two daughters were gathered at his home today. The last to arrive was Mrs. Marion Oser, of Norwalk, Conn. The others have been here for a week. Charles, Theodore, Thomas, Jr., William and Mrs. John Eyre Sloan.

Mrs. Edison remains in constant attendance on the aged genius. She is the only one who can rouse him from his increasing coma. He fails to recognize the others who come into his room, but when Mrs. Edison speaks closely into his ear his eyes flutter open, and he smiles a message of courage to her.

Identified, police say, as the man who seized two nurses as they entered the Pittsburgh Hospital Nurses' Home at 500 Lincoln avenue, last night, Albert Stern, 55, a Negro, of 220 Shetland avenue, was held today by East End police. He was arrested later in the vicinity of the home by Precinct Detective Edward Sweeney.

Miss Katherine McCloskey and Miss Rose Barthon, nurses, complained to police that they had been seized by a Negro. The man fled. After Stern's arrest police took him before the two women. They identified him as the assailant, the officers reported.

'SCARECROW' SNUBS KIN

DENVER, Oct. 9.—(INS.)—The mystery of Denver's "scarecrow man" was partially solved today. Physicians declare, however, that the malady which affects the man who stands with arms outstretched, making no motion and staring straight ahead, in a Denver hospital is as much a puzzle today as it was a week ago when a passing motorist first noticed the strange figure standing in a field near Holyoke, Col.

Wesley said:

"Hello, Charley."

The "scarecrow man" made no move and uttered no sound.

Physicians believe him to be suffering from amnesia and aphasia. Such a condition, they say, could be caused by a great fright.

MILLVALE CURBS 'ARMY' DRIVE

Burgess E. B. W. Pfischner, of Millvale, has refused the Salvation Army a permit for a tag day in the borough tomorrow, but declared solicitors with proper credentials will not be molested.

Adjutant W. B. Fowle, Army special effort secretary, said:

"I have been connected with the Army in Pittsburgh for more than 15 years and this is the first time any permit for Army solicitation ever has been refused by any burgess anywhere in Pennsylvania."

He added that the tag day would be held.

Burgess Pfischner said:

"We have our own relief organizations in the borough. The consensus of opinion is these are working to satisfaction.

"If solicitors wear Army uniforms or have proper credentials they will positively not be molested. My idea is to have our own relief agencies do the work because they are thoroughly familiar with the situation of the needy."

Austrian Parliament Re-elects President

VIENNA, Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Wilhelm Miklas today was re-elected president of Austria by the Parliament to serve until 1938. The vote was 109 to 93.

To retain Miklas in office without a general election, it was necessary for Parliament to suspend the Constitutional provisions for election of the President by direct vote of the people.

FLIERS PERILED ON AUTO TRIP

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., who Monday completed the first non-stop airplane flight from Japan to the United States, came to Seattle yesterday and were greeted by cheering thousands.

En route to Seattle from Wenatchee, Wash., where they landed after their record trip, they narrowly escaped injury when their automobile was swerved from the highway to prevent striking a motorcycle patrolman.

Another machine following the airmen's car overturned down a steep bank. R. Kamura and I. Okazaki, representatives of the Japanese newspaper Asahi which is to pay the fliers $25,000 for their flight, suffered slight cuts from broken glass.

CLARA TO STAR IN NEW FILM

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Clara Bow is coming back into the movies, December 1, as a redhead—not the platinum blonde she became just before retiring, a few months ago, to rest from a rather tempestuous career.

Sam E. Rork, independent producer, returned from the ranch of Rex Bell, Clara's actor friend, where she has been recuperating, and said he had her contract to appear in a picture to be called "Get the Women." December 1 was set for the start of production.

It was reported Miss Bow will receive $150,000 for the picture, but Rork would not verify this.

Rork said Miss Bow was fully recovered from a nervous breakdown which followed a series of difficulties, including the grand theft trial of her former secretary, Daisy De Boe, here a few months ago.

May Call Woman in Case To Aid Kane at Trial

BRADFORD, Pa., Oct. 9.—(AP.)—E. Kent Kane, attorney for his cousin, Prof. Elisha K. Kane, charged with murder in the drowning of his wife, revealed today he was considering calling Mrs. Elizabeth Harris Dahl, of New York, as a witness at Prof. Kane's trial.

The Bradford Era published a story under the signature of Attorney Kane in which he said he had arranged an interview with Mrs. Dahl here with a view to possibly calling her as a defense witness.

"I am very much pleased to find that she is an intelligent, high-class woman and that her story entirely corroborates that of Prof. Kane that they first met before his marriage and before the war and have had nothing to do with each other for approximately two years, excepting for the now famous letter of September 1, which she wrote him after her return from a trip to Europe which she thought would be interesting to him," the attorney said.

"I presume it will be a great disappointment to some that the mystery is to be taken out of the 'mystery woman' and to find out that she is just an ordinary good friend, whose last letter, well-intentioned, unfortunately happened to fall into the hands of shooping, suspicious, letter-opening in-laws."

Hollywood Bad Manners Irk Eskimo Star

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Hollywood's manners are a source of concern to Ach-Nach-Chiak, mighty hunter of the Kotzebue tribe of the frozen wastes about Point Barrow, Alaska.

Ach-Nach-Chiak, or Chiak for short, arrived in the film capital last night from the north country. Plainly perturbed, he said:

"The men and women look at me as though I were an inhabitant of Mars or some strange land."

He was a film star before he ever saw Hollywood. He came to Hollywood for the premiere of a film drama with an all-Eskimo cast. Chiak, 22, played the leading part. One scene shows Chiak killing a polar bear with a spear. He said:

Even passengers on the boat trip south from Seattle allowed Chiak no rest. They were continually gazing at him, according to ship's officers. He wore tailor-made clothes and used the correct forks at the ship's dinners. He was educated at a missionary school.

Educators Pay Tribute to Dr. Tolley on Taking Office at Meadville

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 9.—One hundred years ago, Timothy Alden, a modernist of his day and acclaimed as a man 25 years ahead of the times, resigned as the first president of Allegheny College, founded 16 years before in a wilderness.

Today, another modernist—a liberal—Dr. William Pearson Tolley, voicing repudiation of many of the dogmatic teachings of institutions of higher education, ascended to the presidency of staid old Allegheny, before a notable group of educators representing 126 college and universities.

AVOWED LIBERALIST

Dr. Tolley, hailed as the country's youngest Class A college president, former dean of Brothers College, Drew University, succeeds Dr. James A. Beebe, who resigned last year because of ill health.

The new president is an avowed liberalist. He defines the liberal college of today as one which "probably will have less and less interest in the historic creeds of Christiandom."

The liberal college of the future, he declares, will not hesitate to tell the truth about militarism and "our war system." It will not hesitate to advocate sweeping social and political reforms, he continued, and it will remind its students "in a thousand ways" that the demands of ethical religion are "to do justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with their God."

OUTLINES POLICIES

"The college does, to be sure, definitely repudiate dogmatism. It does not believe in coercion nor is it guilty of over-simplification or distortion of fact or insinuation by appeal to prejudice—the favorite devices of the propagandist. It encourages honest inquiry and critical investigation.

"It may even be conscious of its own bias and ask its students to make due allowances for it. But in spite of itself it is a propagandist for the things for which it cares.

"It is a propagandist for culture, a propagandist for science and, if it be a genuinely Christian college, a propagandist for Christian ethics and religion."

WOMEN BLAMED IN TEAGARDEN CHURCH ROW

Irene's Spiritual Advisor Deserts Prayer Meeting To Avoid Clash With Foe

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Oct. 9.—The Silver Circle is blamed by the Rev. H. O. Teagarden, of Sewellsville, village of 106 turbulent souls, for the "house divided." And the "Silver Circle" is women.

Teagarden, ex-Methodist minister and spiritual advisor for the late Irene Shrader and Glenn Dague, walked out of prayer meeting in the Methodist Church here last night, averting further trouble with L. C. Huffman, the elder who charged the former preacher with attempting to choke him last Sunday. The hearing on an assault charge, slated for next Tuesday, is the climax for factional and other difficulties.

Not only is the church divided, with the pastor, the Rev. Ray Smith, siding with the former pastor against Huffman, but the town and the rural folk outside are agitated.

The "night riders" are agitated. Groups of the black robed forces have been reported around Sewellsville—five guarding the pastor's house for the last two nights.

But the Silver Circle, Teagarden said, is to blame. It is being predicted that before the controversy ends, some one is likely to punch someone else in the nose.

SPAIN DEBATES CHURCH FATE

MADRID, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—The future status of the Catholic church in Spain has been taken up for debate by the Assembly as one of the leading problems in the creation of the nation's new constitution.

Discussion of the question, by which the republic intends to unravel the tangled threads that closely bound the state and church under the past monarchical system, is expected to last several days.

The galleries were jammed and hundreds, unable to enter, crowded around the doorways of the congressional palace as debate began upon the constitutional project to separate the church and state. Excitement was apparent as guards searched those who entered. Many women were among the spectators.

The debate was upon article 3 of the preamble of the projected constitution, which states:

Teacher Suspended As Clergy Hits Book

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Objection of the clergy to a novel he wrote with Louisiana State University as the background today was believed to have caused suspension of Dr. John Earle Uhler, professor of English at the university.

The suspension followed a recent statement by the Rt. Rev. F. J. Gassler, of St. Joseph's Church here, that "only a man with a filthy mind" would write a book such as "Cane Juice." Uhler's novel.

WRIGHTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 9.—(INS.)—A gash on his forehead is the only evidence today of the miraculous escape from death of Edgar Welsh, who fell over a 35-foot cliff into an abandoned stone quarry.

Welsh was walking along the edge of the pit with companions, when the ground gave way.

Text of Grand Jury's Presentment in Election Investigat

Following is the text of the grand jury's second presentment of the recent primary election.

The grand inquest of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania now inquiring in and for the body of the county of Allegheny upon their oaths and solemn affirmations, respectively, do present and report as follows:

That pursuant to the order of your honorable court made on the 18th day of September 1931 and instructions given to us on the same date with reference to various alleged failures of certain boards to make returns according to law of the primary election held on September 15, 1931 and pursuant to the further order of your honorable court made on the 30th day of September 1931, referring to us for investigation various alleged irregularities in the assessment of individuals by the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes of Allegheny County and the subordinate assessors employed by said board and various alleged irregularities and unlawful practices in the securing and distributing to individuals of tax receipts and other alleged irregularities and unlawful practices in the conduct of the primary election at various polling places in the city of Pittsburgh and other municipalities of Allegheny County, we have continued our investigation since the date of our former presentment to your honorable court up until the present time.

During this period we have examined approximately 300 witnesses who have testified concerning the matters referred to us. We have further examined a large number of tax receipts, affidavits purporting to have been made for the purpose of assessments, certificates of assessments, and a number of assessment books and registration books for the City of Pittsburgh.

Methods Studied

At the outset of our inquiry we were unfamiliar with the method of assessment for the purpose of collecting taxes, and had first to familiarize ourselves to some extent, with the ordinary processes of the work of the Board of Tax Revision. We find the work is done by subordinate assessors in the first instance, and that taxables who are not listed on the original assessment may, by complying with the laws and rules of the board, have their names added, and their names can be certified to the County Treasurer or to the Delinquent Tax Collector. As each person who is not included in the original assessment must make personal application to the board, we found that inquiring into this matter was an arduous and tedious task and that inquiring into certain assessments, to which we will refer later, required examination in each case, not only of the assessment as it appeared on the book, but made it necessary to examine affidavits, certificates of assessments, tax receipts, registration books and to check one against the other.

For the foregoing reasons our inquiry was necessarily limited to a comparatively small number of districts.

We find that in the First Ward of the City of Pittsburgh there was a definite plan or scheme to have assessed illegally a large number of persons and, in some cases, non-existent persons, in order that tax receipts might be obtained, registration accomplished and votes cast at the primary election by those thus illegally assessed, or in the names of those so illegally assessed, and in accomplishing this purpose caused said persons to be assessed without making a personal application to the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes for assessment and after said persons had been so assessed to pay their taxes without obtaining proper authorization from such persons and without obtaining the money from such persons with which to pay said taxes and the distribution to such persons of tax receipts so obtained.

Walsh Named

Pursuant to this plan or scheme one Paul Walsh, a candidate for constable in said First Ward, did procure a list of approximately 922 names, some of these names being of non-existant persons or of persons who did not reside at the address given, and were not entitled to register and vote, giving addresses in various districts of the First Ward of the City of Pittsburgh; that said list of names was delivered by the said Paul Walsh to Frank Alpert, a subordinate assessor employed by the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, and Samuel L. Ramsey an employe in said office, that said Frank Alpert, at the direction of said Samuel L. Ramsey, proceeded to enter the names on the list so furnished in a book he labeled as "1-A Book," giving a line number to each name as the names were entered.

After the completion of said book by Alpert it was delivered to the transcribing room of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, copy of the names made, and the book was thereafter certified to the Delinquent Tax Collector, the certificate being signed by George J. Schad, chairman of the board, and Charles J. McBride, secretary.

Forged affidavits purporting to be signed by the individuals whose names were placed on the aforesaid additional book were filed. There were also prepared a large number of fraudulent certificates of assessments carrying names and line numbers identical with those entered upon the book above referred to. By means of said illegal assessments a large number of tax receipts were procured bearing names and line numbers identical with those entered on said book and on the certificates of assessments, without having received from the persons for whom said tax receipts were procured, proper authorization to pay said taxes and without having received the money from said persons to pay said taxes, and a large number of persons were registered upon the faith of tax receipts so procured, and many of said persons did vote. Active and participating in the carrying out of the above scheme or plan was one Saul Klein, a resident of the First Ward of the City of Pittsburgh.

In addition to the matters hereinbefore reported, we find that in the Sixteenth Election District of the Nineteenth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh there were gross irregularities and that many ballots had apparently been tampered with and that the Election Board made a false count and a false return and were guilty of wilful fraud and performed their duties in an illegal and negligent manner. The said board consisted of B. W. Hawkins, judge, John T. Heuner and Margaret McSorley, inspectors, Henry J. Vetter and Samuel F. Vietmeir, clerks; Isadore Granovitz, overseer.

False Return

We also find that in the Second District of the Fifth Ward of the city of Pittsburgh there were many irregularities in the ballot box, and the election board made a false count and a false return and were guilty of wilful fraud and performed their duties in an illegal and negligent manner. The board consisted of Thurston McDowell, judge, S. Rudick and Louis Rosen, inspectors, Sam Spokane and Frank Soloman, clerks, Leonard Payne and Albert Frankel, overseers.

We also find that in the Fourth Election District of the Borough of Wilmerding there were many irregularities in the ballot box, and the Election Board made a false count and a false return and were guilty of wilful fraud and performed their duties in an illegal and negligent manner. The board consisted of Carmine Trenga, judge; Joseph Filia and Lewis Botti, inspectors; Carmine Marciano and Frank N. Cortazzo, clerks, and Peter Grillo and Paul Dangelo, overseers.

From the evidence we have heard during the course of our investigation we are thoroughly convinced that the election districts of Allegheny County are entirely too large for the vote to be properly and legally cast and counted. This condition makes it most difficult, if not quite impossible, for the registrars effectively to perform their duties of registering the voters under the present system and is imposing an undue inconvenience and burden upon electors seeking to register because of the congestion necessarily occurring at the registration places. We further find that one of the abuses utilized by illegal voters and phantoms is the erasure of the names of the taxable from tax receipts and the insertion of some other name thereon. We believe this could be prevented by the adoption of the use of a perforating or other efficient device in the tax receiving office in the writing and perforating of tax receipts.

We further believe that the efficient administration and enforcement of registration and election laws requires close cooperation between the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, the Office of the County Treasurer and Delinquent Tax Collector where taxes are paid, the Board of Registration Commissioners and the Bureau of Elections of the County. The records of each should at all times be available to the Board of Registration Commissioners.

The efficient and effective administration of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes would provide the greatest safeguard against the use of phantom or other illegal votes. A proper scrutiny of the tax orders delivered in large lots to the tax collecting agencies of the county for the purpose of securing tax receipts in order that the genuineness of the signature appearing on the authorization may be positively ascertained would remove another serious abuse.

We find that in the districts which were manned by voting machines, sufficient machines were not furnished to handle the voters included in the various districts. If districts of such large size are to be continued, then it is our opinion that the laws should be changed so that the polls would be kept open until a later hour at night. We are also of the opinion that where the voting machines are operated by hand, a supply of adidtional handles should be on hand at each of said polling places, in the custody of the judge of elections.

We recommend that legislation be enacted providing that a lower period of time elapse between the last day for registration and the primary election. The short interval now provided for by law does not permit any thorough and proper investigation being made as to the eligibility to vote of registrants.

We further recommend that legislation be enacted establishing a system of permanent personal registration. Under such a system, an elector having once registered in a district would not be required to make any further registration unless he removed from the district. Provision should be made for the registration of electors moving into any district. This work should be done by a board which would function during the entire year.

Reforms Urged

We believe, in the interest of efficiency and expedition in the conduct of special investigations, that legislation should be enacted permitting the court, in its discretion, to continue a grand jury engaged in such special investigation beyond the time now fixed by statute and until such special investigation had been concluded.

In view of the foregoing we recommend the following indictments for the following offense, as specified:

1. Charles J. McBride, George J. Schad, Frank Alpert, Samuel L. Ramsey, Saul Klein and Paul Walsh for conspiracy to prevent a fair and legal primary election and to hinder the object of the election laws of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania by procuring the casting of illegal votes.

2. B. W. Hawkins, John T. Neuner, Margaret McSorley, Henry J. Vetter and Samuel F. Vietmeir and Isadore Granovitz for conspiracy and for wilfully performing their duties as election officers so as to hinder the objects of the election laws and negligently performing their duties of election officers so as to hinder the objects of the election laws, and for wilful fraud.

3. Thurston McDowell, S. Rudick, Louis Rosen, Sam Spokane, Frank Soloman, Leonard Payne and Albert Frankel for conspiracy to make a false count and a false return, wilfully performing their duties as election officers so as to hinder the objects of the election laws, negligently performing their duties so as to defeat the objects of the election laws, and wilful fraud.

4. Carmine Trenga, Joseph Filia, Lewis Botti, Carmine Marciano, Frank H. Cortazzo, Peter Grillo and Paul Dangelo, conspiracy to make a false count, a false return, wilfully performing their duties as election officers so as to hinder the objects of the election laws negligently performing their duties so as to defeat the objects of the election laws, and wilful fraud.

In our efforts to secure the minority inspector sheets from the 932 election districts of Allegheny County, we have been successful in obtaining all but eight. The failure of the minority inspectors from the missing districts to bring in their sheets is explained by various excuses. We are of the opinion that none of these minority inspectors has withheld or destroyed their sheets to the end of covering up fraud.

We desire instructions from your honorable court as to whether or not the minority inspectors failing to keep their sheets, as required by law for one year, should be prosecuted.

DOSCH ISSUES BARR TICKET

County Board Chairmanship At Stake as Mansfield Faces Fight for 3rd Place

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, Republican nominee for re-election, will also be the candidate of the Independent party with former State Senator C. M. Barr as his running mate, it was announced last night after an executive committee meeting of the new party. All other Republican nominees are on the Independent party ticket.

This announcement definitely answers the question of who the minority commissioner will be, in the minds of some observers, while others look upon the announcement as the forerunner of a hard battle in the general election for the third place on the Board of Commissioners.

McGovern's nomination by the Republican party immediately changed his status in the general election fight. Many expected McGovern would declare himself a Regular Republican and dismiss the Independents.

BID FOR CHAIRMANSHIP

The announcement, however, that he will run with Barr on the Independent party ticket reiterates McGovern's position as the "independent of the Independents" and is his bid for the majority and chairmanship of the Board of County Commissioners, and incidentally the scepter of power just relinquished by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong.

This set-up leaves the other Republican nominee, State Senator W. D. Mansfield, at the moment in the unenviable position of campaigning by himself with the possibility of not polling nearly as many votes as he did in the primary election as the second choice of many voters, and instead of leading the ticket, fighting for his place. As things now stand he will have to oppose Barr and David L. Lawrence, Democratic nominee.

COYNE ALSO FACTOR

State Senator James J. Coyne looms as a factor in the fight that may develop in the few weeks until election, as the backer of Lawrence. That this is not idle gossip was evidenced by the fact that Coyne issued a statement last night, saying:

"I am proud of the vote I received in the recent primary election and desire to acknowledge a debt of gratitude to the friends who so loyally worked in my interests.

"Especially do I wish to express appreciation of the untiring and efficient work of councilman M. J. Muldowney, chairman of the campaign committee, and the members of that committee.

"Now that the campaign is over and the official count completed, the will of the people has been recorded. I cheerfully accept their decision and desire also to express my gratification over the fact that the government of the county has been brought back to the people."

OMISSION NOTED

Persons accustomed to reading between the lines of such statements point out that although Coyne expressed gratitude took a final fling at Commissioner Armstrong, he did not decare he "would support the nominees of the party" as it is customary for defeated candidates to declare.

Officers elected at the Independent party executive committee meeting were: H. C. Workmaster, general chairman; A. L. Lederer, secretary, and Urban E. Dice, treasurer. Committee chairmen appointed were: Finance, Henry Tranter; speakers and meetings, T. R. Barr; legal, Alex Lindsay, chairman, and Ralph H. Frank, vice chairman; publicity, Harrison Gilmer; field chairman, A. L. Cotton; poll control, H. P. Sowers; supplementary, Dr. F. C. Ferrante.

CERTIFICATION OF RETURNS DELAYED

McGovern Increases Lead As Judges Throw Out 2 Volpe Districts' Vote

Certification of the final figures on the September primary election will not be made until tomorrow, it was announced this afternoon, and Return Board clerks began making additions and subtractions made necessary by the certification of figures from the recount board.

With the wiping out of the Fourth District of Wilmerding by Return Judges George V. Moore and Elder W. Marshall, Commissioner Charles C. McGovern increased his lead over Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong to approximately 1,988.

DISTRICTS THROWN OUT

Return Board judges had thrown out two districts which went heavily for Armstrong, the Wilmerding district and the First District of Forward Township, on allegations of fraud. The voiding of the Fourth District of Wilmerding, where the Volpe faction had piled up big majorities for councilmanic and school director candidates, was expected to have an important bearing on the nomination of Director of the Poor candidates.

Foley and Henderson on the returns were given approximately 450 each, while Dixon and Miller were credited with only a few votes. In the County Commissioner fight it made a net gain of 731 for McGovern over Armstrong.

VOTE COMPARISON

Official—

Mansfield.	McGovern.	Coyne.	Armstrong.

Unofficial—

Mansfield.	McGovern.	Coyne.	Armstrong.

The Recount Board finished its work today after certifying ballots from 76 city and county wards which were retabulated after attorneys for various candidates petitioned to have the ballots recounted on allegations of fraud or substantial error.

RECOUNT REPORT

The final report of the Recount Board, dealing with specific instances of fraud in six districts, will be referred to the District Attorney for action, it was announced today. The districts referred to are the Fourth District of Wilmerding; First District of Forward Township; Seventh District, Seventeenth Ward; Second and Sixth Districts, Fifth Ward, and Third District, Second Ward, Clairton.

These instances were pointed out to Judge James R. Macfarlane today, who will certify the report to the District Attorney. The remainder of the report, dealing with minor changes and clerical errors, will be sent to the clerk of Quarter Sessions Court.

Attorneys for W. A. Means, aldermanic candidate in the Twelfth Ward, asked that the Sixth District, where De Rosa was credited with 494 and Means 117, be recounted. It was said no effort would be made to change the certification of the vote, but that grounds for criminal prosecution was sought.

M'GOVERN AIDED

Attorneys for McGovern claimed that the recount netted McGovern almost 300 votes.

The recount was marked by charges of "ghost voting," chain markings, erasures and other illegal voting practices which occurred in the Fourth District of Wilmerding, the First District of Forward Township, and various Homestead and city wards.

No explanation was volunteered by the Registration Commissioners for the removal of Peter A. Connors, whose name was taken off the payroll of the commission September 15.

Pilot, Student Hurt In Blazing Plane

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—An aviator and his student were burned, the latter severely, when their plane caught fire 200 feet over a flying field on Park Heights avenue. They landed the flaming ship in a farmer's field and jumped out.

MARION "KIKI" ROBERTS . . . SHE'S REDHEAD AND INDICTED!

KIKI REPORTED WITH DIAMOND

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Marion (Kiki) Roberts, ex-Follies girl, at liberty under $2,500 bail, today was reported in hiding near here with her gangster-racketeer friend, Jack (Legs) Diamond.

The former show girl, whose once red hair is now jet black, surrendered to authorities in Watervliet yesterday after being mysteriously missing since early last summer when she, along with Diamond and several of his henchmen, were indicted for the alleged torture of Grover Parks, Catskill Mountain cider truckman.

Diamond, under sentence of four years in Atlanta prison, was said to have met Miss Roberts and to have whirled away with her in his high-powered car.

The gangster, according to reports, did not take Miss Roberts to his fortified home at Acra, in the Catskill, where his wife is living.

GUN VICTIM, GIRL HELD

John Ross arose from their chairs at the table. John Ross, the customers, and the two employes were ordered into a corner and then the robber resumed his demands for money.

ROBBER NOTICES GUN

Louis Ross drew the bills from the register and threw part of them to the robber, placing the remainder in a till beneath the counter, and at the same time taking a revolver from the drawer. The robber backed out and as he was leaving noticed the revolver in Louis' hand. He fired one shot at Ross, the bullet going wild.

Fred Ross, outside the establishment, heard the shot and, he says, noticed the Leckert woman trying to leave the machine. He forced her back into the car and removed the keys. Miller, it is alleged, fired at Fred Ross as he ran from the barbecue, and Ross ran around the side of the building to escape the bullets. Louis Ross had run to a rear window and he and the suspect exchanged shots, one dropping the robber. As he fell to the ground Fred Ross ran from his cover and grappled with the wounded man.

WOUNDS BATHED

Mrs. Leckert was taken inside the barbecue and county detectives were notified. For half an hour the wounded man lay on the ground. The Ross brothers then carried him into the barbecue, bathed his wounds and made him as comfortable as possible. He gave them his identification cards and offered them his money, about $2, for a drink of whisky.

JURY INDICTS SCHAD, WALSH, M'BRIDE

23 Others, Including Fire Chief, Cited for Plot In Election Cheating

numbers identical with those in the assessment book were entered and the book was certified by Schad and McBride to Delinquent Tax Collector Walter J. Christy that tax receipts might be obtained, and persons illegally registered and voted, the jury declared.

Christy's alertness blocked the move and brought it to the attention of the grand jury. Notwithstanding that the plot was frustrated, after it was under way, many persons obtained receipts, were registered and voted, the indictment stated.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

Schad, McBride, Walsh and the three other names in the First Ward assessment case were specifically charged with conspiracy to prevent a fair and legal primary election and to hinder the object of the election laws.

Indicted on charges of gross fraud, negligence and conspiring to return a false count in connection with the primary election were these members of election officers:

Second District, Fifth Ward—Thurston McDowell, judge; S. Rudick and Louis Rosen, inspectors; Samuel Spokane and Frank Solomon, clerks; Leonard Payne and Albert Frankel, overseers.

Sixteenth District, Nineteenth Ward—A. B. W. Hawkins, judge; John T. Meuner and Margaret McSorley, inspectors; Henry J. Vetter and Samuel F. Vetmeir, clerks; Isadore Gramovits, overseer.

Fourth District, Wilmerding—Carmine Trenga, judge; Joseph Filla and Louis Botti, inspectors; Carmine Narciano and Frank N. Cortazzo, clerks; Peter Grillo and Paul Dangelo, overseers.

DISCREPANCIES

Discrepancies are charged in the vote returned by the Board of the Sixteenth District, Nineteenth Ward, as compared with the true count. Those set forth were: Mansfield 93 votes against 202 revealed by the true count; McGovern, 127 against 145; Coyne, 176 against 176; Armstrong, 85 against 115.

The indictment against the Board of the Second District, Fifth Ward, charges that the board returned 151 votes for Robert H. Logan for Alderman whereas the correct count was 358 and that Martin J. Griffin was credited with 239 votes whereas he received only 74.

DISTRICTS TOO LARGE

The grand jury found that the present election districts are entirely too large for the vote to be properly and legally counted; that this makes it difficult for both registrars and electors. The jurors recommended legislation establishing permanent personal registration. Under this system an elector having once registered would not be required to register thereafter unless he moved from the district. A permanent registration board to function the year around also was urged.

Other recommendations included a longer interval between the last registration day and the primary election better to permit investigations as to eligibility of persons registered; prolonging the period the polls are open, if the election districts are kept at the present size; providing additional handles for voting machines; legislation to continue a grand jury beyond the time now provided; adoption of perforation or other devices in issuing tax receipts to prevent erasures and substitution of other names.

As he discharged the September jury, Judge James H. Gray said:

"I wish to thank this jury for the work it has done. From what I have heard this has been about the best grand jury this court has known."

District Attorney Andrew T. Park announced that those indicted would be given until Monday night to provide $1,000 bond each. After that warrants will be issued for their arrest.

A Sale You've Never Seen, And Probably Never Will...

"A Sale of Vests!"

For after all, they're something like a fifth wheel on a wagon—schoolboys wear the vest that comes with the usual four-piece suit only a few times before they toss it into a cupboard or locker—and forget about it forever!

That's why we've introduced the

"New Idea" Suit

With a Sweater Instead of a Vest!

Two outfits in one suit—what a break for the family budget! With popular pullover sweaters in harmonizing colors—with two pairs of full-cut, well-made knickers—and a good-fitting carefully tailored coat. Sizes 8 to 18 years.

$10.75

A "Whale" of a Leather Coat

$10.75

It's a good, heavy, front-quarter horsehide . . . has a double leather collar that turns up without puckering . . . has a fine wool plaid lining that won't leave lint on your clothes . . . two muff and two patch pockets, and a full self belt! Black, in sizes 8 to 20 years.

Rugby Suits for Small Fellows

These English-type suits are the suits modern 5 to 10-year-olds like . . . they give a boy such a confident, well-dressed air. Perfectly tailored of fine flannel, with two pairs of shorts. Navy blue and brown, $10.

Girls' Hats of Almost Every Description, $1.95

Tip-tilted models with an air of sophistication for junior high girls . . . brimmed hats so becoming to little maids . . . beret styles with new twists and turns for girls of any age! Most of them have feather trims—and come in colors to match new coats and dresses.

Girls' Coats with Big Fur Collars $26.50

Wool Dresses, $2.85

The Twos-to-Teens Shop has a wide variety of the most attractive wool frocks imaginable at such a low price! Sheer woolens, novelty and flecked wool crepes, jerseys, and novelty knits—smartly styled and neatly trimmed. Sizes 7 to 14 years.

Wonderful Shoe Values

In the Twos-to-Teens Shop

$3.85

Girls' school and sports oxfords of good-looking Scotch grain calf—with wing tips, moccasin toes, or Kiltie tongues. Black and brown with Goodyear welt soles. (Kiltie tongue in brown only with gristle rubber soles and heels). Sizes 3½ to 8, AA to C widths.

Be Elegant in Velvet

At Remarkably Small Cost

$29.50

Misses' afternoon frocks at this price are of the luxurious quality of velvet that last year was used only in higher priced models. And their colors are as lovely as jewels—sapphire blue, wine shades with the depth of rubies, dark browns, and black.

Models with long Victorian sleeves, or with short ones to be worn with the very new short, formal gloves. Beautiful, unadorned frocks, others with sashes of contrasting crepe or metal cloth.

...Horne's, Misses' Dress Section, Second Floor...

Chenille Hats

$5.00

Here is what you will wear when you want a hat as "easy" as your last year's beret, and yet that looks a bit more formal. A chenille "cap" that can be worn in a variety of ways, or a chenille hat with wired edge to be shaped into different effects.

...Horne's, Millinery Salons, Fourth Floor...

Misses' Suits

• Fur-Trimmed!

$19

You won't have to sacrifice anything to economy in wearing one of these suits, for there is nothing about them to indicate they are only $19. They wouldn't be priced so little, of course, if they were marked in the regular way.

They are well tailored, two-piece suits. Of the new spongy and rough-soft fabrics in Spanish tile, wine, Valencia red, brown or winter blue, with collars of lapin in black or beaver shade to harmonize with the colors of the fabrics.

...Horne's, Misses' and Women's Suit Section, Second Floor...

Silk Blouses

$2.95

These are blouses adaptable to wear with the above suits, or with the new corduroy or cloth skirts. They include different variations of the "Sorority" blouse—chiefly in silk crepe, one model in satin—and a new jacket model with a vest front. In white and eggshell.

Skirts—of monotone tweed, flannel, basketweave or covert cloth, $2.95.

EDITH BERKMAN BAIL REVOKED

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—(INS)—Judge James A. Lowell, in Federal Court, revoked the bonds of Miss Edith Berkman, 21, of San Francisco, militant leader in the textile mill troubles in Lawrence. She was ordered remanded to the immigration detention station at East Boston.

Federal authorities had filed a petition seeking revocation of her bonds of $2,000 upon which she was released pending hearing on her appeal in connection with deportation to Poland.

Judge Lowell stated that it was obvious that she was "inciting people to violence by her actions during the textile mill trouble."

Although eight witnesses had been sworn to testify against the National Textile Workers' Union leader only two, Patrolman Michael O'Shea, of the Lawrence police, and Frank A. Chase, immigration inspector, were called on to tell of her alleged activities at Lawrence. Miss Berkman denied that she had heckled Lawrence police, as alleged.

ASK SPEED CURB NEAR SCHOOLS

Officials of the Pittsburgh Motor Club today were to ask city and county police officials for more rigid enforcement of the speed limits at school zones and intersections and safety zones in the vicinity of schools. The action was to be asked to decrease the wave of child fatalities.

Automobile speed limits of 10 miles per hour at intersection and safety zones and 15 miles at school zones included in the state motor code were cited at a meeting of the highway safety committee of the club yesterday by Robert L. Wickline, chairman.

The committee also voted to ask the Department of Public Works to place cinders near all dangerous points before the snow and ice season arrives.

2 Drinking Places 'Padlocked' by Drys

Temporary injunctions were granted in Federal Court against a saloon in the basement of a building on Fifth avenue, near Shaler street, James Craig alleged proprietor, and a bar and drinking room, second floor, 1607 Fifth avenue, William K. Madison, alleged proprietor, on bills of complaints filed by R. S. Krause, deputy prohibition administrator. Final hearings will be held December 22.

wear it six months. If at the end of that time with normal care and usage it has not given satisfactory wear or retained its smartly tailored style, bring it back and we will refund your money

Only a few years ago we sold suits at $45 that were not only considered good value by us, but were readily accepted as such by the very men of good taste who now hesitate to pay less than that.

Today this $25 Challenger suit of ours is even better than the $45 suit was at that time. We made both lines ourselves. WE KNOW.

It is possible to do this because of lower prices in the basic markets—because of better organization and larger production facilities.

There are three principal things that the buyer looks for in purchasing clothing:

(1) good fabric quality; (2) workmanship; (3) style in both fabric and finished garments.

All of these are embodied in our Challenger suits this Fall to a degree never before attained in men's clothing at or near this price.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(INS)—But 917 native-born Canadians received immigration visas for admission into the United States during August, 1931, according to a report received by the State Department from the American Consul General at Montreal. This figure represents a decrease of 57 per cent from the 2,438 visas granted in August, 1928, the last normal fiscal year.

Official statistics for the first 11 months of the enforcement by American consular officers of the "likely to become a public charge" provision of the immigration act of 1917, from October 1, 1930, indicate a total issue of 7,315 immigration visas, a decrease of 85 per cent when compared with the 47,474 visas issued in the same periods of 1928 and 1929, the State Department pointed out.

DOSCH'N BIG DIVISION FOR KOMIC CLUB

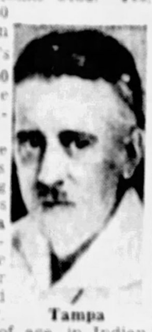
New Members Will Enroll At Theaters; Fine Program Of Entertainment for All

Tomorrow's the big day for the newly-organized Warner Theater Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club. Tomorrow's meetings are the first under the new name.

Tomorrow the new and nifty club button will be issued and tomorrow the new membership cards will be given out. Tomorrow's the first day for enrollment of new members of the Warner Theater chapters and, all in all, it looks as though tomorrow is to be a day of excitement for the boys and girls of Pittsburgh.

Big shows have been specially arranged at all of the theaters where chapters will meet, and unique special features for boys and girls will be added at each one of these chapter meetings. Old and new members are urged to attend tomorrow's meetings.

It will be a gala day with loads and loads of fine entertainment arranged specially for members of the Warner Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club. Yes, there are 20,000 members now in the club. Let's make it 50,000 before the Christmas holidays.



Tampa

Out at the Etna-Harris Chapter meeting tomorrow there's going to be a barrel of fun because prizes have been offered for the funniest and best-dressed boy, 4 to 7½ years of age, in Indian or cowboy costume and for boys 7½ to 12 years of age, dressed in a hobo costume. What a picture that is going to make.

CHAPTER MEETINGS

Regular chapter meetings for tomorrow are scheduled as follows: Rowland, 11:45 a. m.; South Hills, 1 p. m.; Kenyon, 11 a. m.; Harris, Etna, 12:30 p. m.; Schenley, 1 p. m.; Arsenal, 12 noon; Belmar, 12:30 p. m.; Plaza, 1 p. m.; Cameraphone, 11 a. m.; Prince (Ambridge), 12 noon.

The new downtown chapter at the Harris Theater is scheduled for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Tampa, the magician, will be there by courtesy of the Hankey Baking Company as a special feature, and the picture will be Hoot Gibson in "The Hard Hombre," with many added special reels for boys and girls.

The new chapter at the Enright will meet at 11 o'clock in the morning. Hans Wagner, the old-timer among the great baseball players, is going to be on hand to tell stories for the Junior Komic Club members and the picture will be "Huckleberry Finn," that lovable character in boy life.

BLANKS READY

The new independent chapter at the Mt. Oliver Harris Theater will meet at 1 o'clock. Application blanks will be ready for boys and girls in the neighborhood who want to enroll under the banner of the Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club. "Fifty Fathoms Deep" will be the picture, and Tampa, the magician, will show the boys and girls a bag of new tricks.

Just bear in mind that boys and girls who join the Junior Komic Club do not really have to pay any set dues, but if they attend the theater chapter meetings there is an admission of 10 cents charged for which an unusuaal program of pictures and entertainment is given in return.

Now, boys and girls, get on the band wagon this week. Join today—make it 50,000 members before Christmas. Get in the club that gives you a good time all the time.

HIKER MURDER BARED BY GIRL

MOREHEAD, Ky., Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Her fiance killed while they were hitch-hiking through Kentucky, Miss Fay Gilmore, 15, Fayetteville, Ark., is the principal witness in the trial of one of the two men she accuses of murder.

The girl, on the stand yesterday, testified Drexell Gullett, alias Richard Prine, 19, Huntington, W. Va., was beaten to death by two men from whom they had accepted a ride while on their way from Arkansas to Huntington.

Hubert Clark, 22, Louisville, is on trial. William Morano, alias Costello, 23, of Scranton, Pa., will be tried later.

Gullett was found with a fractured skull near a wrecked automobile. He died two days later. The girl and Clark were arrested in Louisville, and Morano in Ashland, Ky. Asked why she did not immediately report the killing, the girl said she was "afraid of Clark."

200 FAMILIES ROUTED IN FIRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Thirty firemen were overcome by billows of sulphurous smoke and 200 families were driven from their homes by a fire today in the plant of the Empire Book Match Company, adjoining a thickly populated Brooklyn tenement district.

Thirty-one men and women working in the plant escaped as the flames enveloped the two-story building and threatened to spread to the neighboring residential structures. The overcome firemen were revived.

The fumes penetrated two public schools several blocks away and classes were disbanded until the smoke subsided.

12 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

The following new quarantine cases were reported by the City Health Department today: Scarlet fever 1, measles 2, whooping cough 3, chicken pox 1, mumps 2 and pneumonia 3.

SLAIN GANG GIRL KNOWN HERE

Marion Miller, shot to death in an automobile in Chicago yesterday and whose gangster husband is sought for the killing, was well known to police authorities here, it was learned today. As Ruth Wagoner, the woman served part of a term in the Allegheny County Workhouse here five years ago. Records show that she escaped in 1926 and had never been recaptured.

Her arrest and conviction here was for receiving stolen goods, records show.

The woman, wife of Frank McErlane, Chicago underworld character, was "taken for a ride" early yesterday. She was found shot to death in a bullet-riddled automobile and her two pet dogs were found also shot to death.

9 Held in Dry Raid In East Pittsburgh

Nine men were to be given hearings today before Burgess James Beech, of East Pittsburgh, following a raid in which officers seized a quantity of alleged moonshine whisky last night.

L. Ingrunas, 56, of 323 Beech street, was held on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and eight men posted bond for a hearing on charges of visiting a disorderly house, following the raid by Lieut. David Bennt and Patrolman George Stanko, in which officers said 21 half-pints and three gallon jugs of whisky were seized.

Tree Grows Fruit And Blossoms at Same Time

OCONTO, Wis., Oct. 9.—(AP.)—One side of Charles Lawrence's apple tree doesn't know what the other side is doing.

Lawrence, farmer, today today showed neighbors his crab apple tree in his front yard. On the north side, ripe fruit hangs from the branches, he said, and on the other side the tree is covered with blossoms. Lawrence said warm, rainy weather was responsible for the tree divided against itself.

Legal Hitches Delay Marriage of Singers

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Refused a marriage license here and in Newark, N. J., Desire Defrere and Mrs. Hilda Hopkins Burke, of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, today were seeking a state whose laws would permit them to wed at once.

Defrere arrived on the liner Paris yesterday. Officials at the Marriage License Bureau said Mrs. Burke's former husband, who lives in Baltimore, was not served when she obtained a divorce in Illinois. In Newark they were told New Jersey law required a lapse of three days after application for a license.

KELLY PREDICTS AIR MAIL LINK OF ALL CITIES

Penna. Congressman Also Sees, and Strongly Urges, South American Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Every American city ultimately will be knitted into the air mail service of the United States by means of feeder lines with planes picking up the mails while in flight, in the opinion of Representative Kelly (Rep.) of Edgewood, Pa., a majority member of the House Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads. He visualizes the development of air mail communication with South America as a means to stimulate relations with the "most fruitful field for our foreign trade of any place on earth."

Kelly made this statement following a conference with Walter I. Glover, second assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail service.

CONGRESS SYMPATHETIC

Kelly said he was sure Congress would give to the development of the air mail service that the department and Congress has a sympathetic leaning toward new mail developments. He said:

"Congress appropriated $24,600,000 for all mail, both domestic and foreign, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, and it appropriated $27,000,000 for the same purposes for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932. While there is a deficit in this service, the expenditure of these appropriations is in every way justifiable and it is in fact paying dividends greater than any results that might be measured in dollars and cents.

"I predict that in the next Congress there will be an effort to extend the use of the domestic air mail service to provide for more feeder lines into the transcontinental air mail system.

SOUTH AMERICAN LINK

"The time will come when every city in the United States will be connected up with the air mail service. Special devices on the postoffice roofs will enable the planes with long wires dropped to catch the mails without stopping flight. Both the Cabot and Adams devices for this purpose have been given trials by the Postoffice Department and have been found feasible.

"What I am particularly interested in at this time is the postal communication between the United States and the countries of South America. The South American continent offers the most fruitful field for our foreign trade of any place on earth. Great opportunities are opening up and we should be equipped to take full advantage of them."

ASHLAND, Mass., Oct. 9 (INS).—Time waits for no man, not an electric clock manufacturing plant here today, because, to get out enough timepieces to clock off the minutes in the modern hotel.

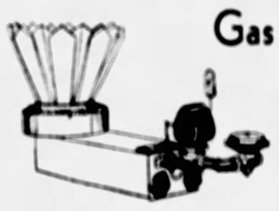
Will you be on the "Firing Line" this Winter?

Are you destined to join the "army" of coal-shovelers and ash-carriers again this winter? Are you going to be on that same old "firing-line" of inconvenience? Why not invest (small down payment) toward a carefree and easy existence. Automatic heating with Gas brings you this pleasant living and you can say good-bye to the coal-shovel forever.

Make your Coal Furnace Automatic with a Roberts or Janitrol Gas Conversion Burner



By installing a Roberts or Janitrol in your present furnace it becomes completely automatic. A Thermostat up in the house controls the temperature, providing constant and healthful heating all winter long.

HURD ESTATE APEAL URGED

Whether one-half the $320,000 estate of Jack V. Hurd clubman killed in an automobile accident shall go to four stepdaughters, or the entire estate go to his minor son, awaits the decision of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, which yesterday heard arguments on appeal from Orphans Court.

Hurd was divorced from Dorothy Campbell Hurd famous golfer. After his remarriage, he and his second wife were killed in an automobile accident. His will left one-half his estate in trust for her during life and then to her heirs or devisees.

Counsel for Hurd's son by his former marriage contended that as the second wife died with him in the accident she failed to survive so that the trust estate might vest in her. Judge Thomas P. Trimble in Orphans Court held, affirmed by a full bench, that the trust estate did not lapse under the circumstances and ruled the wife's share should go to her four daughters by a former marriage.

Lincoln Log Cabin Birthplace Held Myth

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP).—The Evening Post said yesterday that Judge Harvey H. Smith, 70, living in retirement at a New York hotel, took issue today with historians who say Abraham Lincoln was born in a one-room log cabin on Nolin Creek, Kentucky.

As a matter of fact, the newspaper quotes him as saying, Lincoln was born in a comfortable two-story house owned by his father, who was not poor, but a man of means.

Judge Smith, the Post said, has written to the Congressional Committee on Appropriations that maintenance of the enshrined cabin on Nolin Creek "supports a myth which does not add to Lincoln's reputation or to the sound sense of Congress in continuing the error."

MRS. M'KILLIPS FUND LEADER

Mrs. J. B. McKillips will direct the organization of the women's groups in the county-wide joint campaign of the Welfare Emergency Fund to raise $5,750,000 November 9 to 23, according to announcement by Joseph Dilworth, general chairman of the drive.

The group under her leadership will be known throughout the campaign as the county neighborhood division, comprised of 19 areas, and will work in conjunction with the city neighborhood group. Mrs. McKillips will be assisted by Mrs. Samuel F. Dorcherm and Mrs. Milton W. St. John.

DIVORCE ASKED OVER JEALOUSY

His wife was insanely jealous of him, even jealous of his dog and gun, S. Foster Gibson, 1714 Lincoln way, Versailles, stated in his bill of particulars in his divorce suit in Common Pleas Court.

"She would not permit me to go out anywhere by myself and she would not go out with me."

He asked freedom from Ruth Ricketts Gibson, 2900 Kelly street, Versailles, on grounds of indignities. They were married December 31, 1928, and parted June 21, 1930. Gibson is the son of an electrical contractor.

To "Point-Up" Appetite Just Stimulate Bowels

Whenever the end of the day finds you out-of-sorts, food doesn't tempt you and won't digest, breath is bad, tongue coated, just chew a candy tablet before bedtime. Tomorrow you'll be a new person!

A candy Cascaret clears up a bilious, gassy, headachy condition every time. Puts appetite on edge. Helps digestion. Activates bowels.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which authorities say actually strengthens bowel muscles. So, take these delightful tablets as often as you please, or give them freely to children. All drug stores sell Cascarets for a dime, and no dollar preparation could do better work.

Oklahoma's Flush Fields Will Reopen Saturday; Top Price Now 70 Cents

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Oklahoma's picturesque Governor last night lifted a two-month martial law shutdown of flush oil production, the action coming a few hours after he threatened to place the state in the oil business and retail gasoline to motorists.

Announcement of the reopening of the important Oklahoma fields, effective Saturday, was made by Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray after a conference with operators in the Oklahoma City and greater Seminole areas.

When the shutdown of Oklahoma production was ordered August 5, Murray asserted he could keep the lid on until Mid-continent area petroleum prices rose to $1 a barrel. A general top price of 70 cents is now being paid, compared to the approximately 30 cents a barrel offered before the shutdown.

Under terms of a compact recently agreed to by mid-continent oil states producers, the total production for Oklahoma is not to exceed 446,000 barrels daily.

In the Oklahoma City field alone, 2,000 employes were expected to return to work within a week. Seven closed refineries are expected to resume early next week.

SPEAKER LAUDS PHILIPPINES

James King Steele, of Manila, called "the Mabuhay Man" in the Philippine Islands, who is executive secretary of the Philippine Tourist Association, left Pittsburgh early this morning after delivering an educational lecture yesterday in William Penn Hotel. The Tourist Association is sponsored by the Philippine government.

Steele with his talk showed views of the islands in motion pictures. He said:

"The American public little realizes that there are 7,083 islands in the group stretching out 1,000 miles. The average tourist only stops off in the islands for a day or two, but if they would extend it to four weeks they would find it is one of the most interesting places they have ever visited."

FAMILY SAVED FROM FIRE

A sleeping family, including three small children, were aroused from their slumbers and led to safety by a passing milkman, as fire partly destroyed their home in Turtle Creek early today.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, started beneath a rear porch at the home of Marshall Meyers and had spread to the rear walls of the home when it was discovered by Edward Gibson, 25, of Fifth street, Pitcairn, a milkman making his rounds. Gibson aroused the family, including Meyers, his wife and three small children and led them to safety. G. C. Holes, 65, a roomer, was also routed from the home.

Damage to the two-story frame dwelling was estimated at $2,000 by Fire Chief C. M. Allan, of Turtle Creek.

Stadtfeld Withdraws From November Race

Judge Joseph Stadtfeld today withdrew his name from the Liberal, Democratic and Prohibition tickets on which he was nominated in the primaries. The move signifies that he will not run in the general election and that he will accept the defeat given him as a Republican candidate.

Today is the last day for withdrawals before the general election.

'Ape, Trainer Jailed In Suit for Funds

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—A chimpanzee known as "Joe Mendi" and his trainer and keeper, Lou Backenstoe, 38, found a new lodging place early today—the Detective Bureau.

Backenstoe was arrested in a hotel on a warrant obtained in Detroit by Alfred Munson, owner of the chimpanzee, who charged larceny by conversion, alleging specifically that Backenstoe had not turned over any proceeds from employment of the simian since last April.

Workers' Protection Asked in Rail Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Any merger of eastern railroads will not be "just or satisfactory" unless the plan includes full provisions for protecting the rights of railroad workers, David B. Robertson, representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, declared today in Labor, the brotherhoods' official organ.

Mrs. Diehl Addresses Cinema Meet in Rome

That there has been a definite improvement in the motion picture product now offered the public, but that "our ideal" has not been completely achieved was stated yesterday in the report which Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl of Pittsburgh gave at the international cinematographic institute under auspices of the International Council of Women in Rome, Italy.

As motion picture chairman of the National Council of Women, Mrs. Diehl went to Rome, arriving three days ago. She expects to return late next week in time for the last few days of the State Federation convention at York. In her report she summarized the motion picture work done not only by the National Council, but by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the League of American Pen Women, in both of which organizations she is motion picture chairman.

She outlined in detail the policy of "co-operation with independence" followed by the women of the United States and declared the trend of American opinion, especially among women, to be away from censorship of films. Determination on the part of women to exert direct pressure on motion picture production at the source was shown by Mrs. Diehl to be the most satisfactory way of dealing with the problem.

Her report advocated constructive action instead of denunciation and stressed the necessity of practicality in the women's world program regarding motion pictures. Discrimination is more effective than censorship, she observed.

Mrs. Diehl sees motion pictures as a definite force to be utilized for world peace, and in conclusion she presented a resolution for consideration at the Stockholm convention to be held by the International Council next spring. The resolution asks that women exert their influence to demand of the producers respect for religion and the home, treatment of crime in such fashion as to discourage its imitation, accuracy in the portrayal of racial and national customs and cultures and presentation of woman with true proportionate stress on the great urges which motivate her life instead of the present false projection of woman solely in the role of sex protagonist.

30 Clubs Represented At Civic Inauguration

Representatives from 30 visiting clubs were present yesterday when the Woman's Civic Club of Wilkinsburg inaugurated another year with president's day in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel. Mrs. Horace W. Daugherty was presented by her predecessor, Mrs. Lettie C. Ege, and there was a pleasing program by Mrs. Vivian Kiser Fay, contralto, and reader, accompanied by Mrs. Marian Dehr McDade, who also offered several piano solos.

The next meeting of the club will take place on the evening of October 29 and will be open to the community.

Thursday Afternoon Club Luncheon Opens Season

An informal luncheon at the Ellsworth tea room opened the year yesterday for the Thursday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg. The meeting was wholly social and was marked by no set program. Mrs. Curtis A. Graham, a former president, who now lives in Mississippi, told of club work in the South.

Best Possible in Busy City, Epoch Club Told

Mrs. Henry D. James convinced members of the Epoch Club that a perfect summer rest may be found in a busy metropolis, after she had told them of her vacation in New York this summer. Mrs. James recounted her experiences before the members yesterday at their opening meeting in Mrs. E. J. Searles' Bryant street home.

In handing the gavel to her successor, Mrs. C. Calvin Burgess, the hostess read a lovely original poem called "Memories." Completing the program, which was entirely informal, were motion pictures taken by Mrs. Frank D. Newbury at the club's closing event last spring and also of her family on their summer trip.

New 'Congeries' Issued By Rosslyn Farms Club

The second edition of "Congeries" was issued yesterday by the Woman's Club of Rosslyn Farms. Mrs. C. P. Mrs. C. C. Taylor, State Federation chairman of work for the blind, described the Braille system of reading and also told something of the work being done for the sightless. Other contributions to the "magazine" consisted of current events by Mrs. J. C. FROCKS OF LATTICE WORK ATTRACTIVE AND YOUTHFUL

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—The window of fashion this year is latticed. We do not remember a season that found so many different designers using lattice work for their dresses on skirts as well as for sleeves. Perhaps, though, lattice work is but a natural outcome of the use of velvet ribbon, since this medium certainly does suggest this method of use. Whatever the reason, there is no gainsaying the fact that lattice applique or in transparent form is most attractive and youthful. It is especially nice for the little puffed sleeves now in use and is being much used for sleeves on dinner frocks. Another grand idea is the use of velvet and tulle, a most pleasing alliance, chic and alluring, and becoming to almost every youthful type. The picturesque note has been struck and is most certainly being definitely maintained if the newest frocks are any criterion. Of course, unless expertly handled, the picturesque note can be done to death and made to look either insipid or like a fancy dress.

* * *

TO SHOW YOU how velvet and tulle, velvet lattice work and the picturesque note can be combined into one perfect, youthful and utterly devastating dance frock, we have sent you a sketch of a very new Lanvin model, one just created by this super designer. The close little belted bodice with circular peplum is of black velvet, likewise the lattice applique, which is done with narrow black velvet ribbon in four bands of graduating width on the very flaring skirt. The remainder of the frock is of sheer black tulle. The crisp tulle butterfly wings are cut very circular and a jeweled buckle fastens the narrow velvet belt.

DOSCH-FLEUROT JOINS I. N. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Another name was added yesterday to the list of star correspondents that International News Service is assembling throughout the world.

Arno Dosch-Fleurot, for years recognized as one of the most brilliant newspaper correspondents in Europe, will join the Paris staff of International News Service on October 19, it was announced by Barry Faris, editor.

Dosch-Fleurot, who was born in Portland, Ore., was graduated from Harvard in 1904. For the next six years he was a reporter on the Portland Oregonian, San Francisco Call and San Francisco Bulletin. His writing attracted considerable attention, and in 1910 he deserted the newspaper business for the magazine field, contributing to Cosmopolitan, Everybody's, World's Work, Munsey's and Pearson's. At the outbreak of the World War he joined the New York World as war correspondent. Beginning in August, 1914, he covered the activities of the allied armies on the Belgian, French, Serbian and Russian fronts, and his dispatches appearing in many papers through the United States, through arrangement with the World, elicited the highest praise. He reported both revolutions in Russia.

Barbers Work Free In Desperate Price War

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 9.—Barbers in Republic started a war which has resulted in a 50 per cent reduction in the price of haircuts. It became necessary, however, to offer barber service free before all the shops in Republic would capitulate.

The first cut was from 50 to 35 cents, closely followed by reductions to 25 and then to 15 cents.

At the height of the war, James Bady, a Main street barber, put out a sign of free haircuts and for hours it was impossible to walk on the side of the street on which the shop was located.

Netherlands Bank To Support Gold

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Chaotic financial conditions would result from general abandonment of gold as a monetary standard, it was declared here today by L. J. A. Trip, new president of the Netherlands Bank. Trip said everything possible would be done by the bank to insure maintenance of the gold standard by the Netherlands.

He predicted that the present world economic crisis would be followed by a boom, but said there was a definite trend toward a "lower economic level."

BARBARA GOULD TELLS BEAUTY SECRETS

Any Woman Who Wishes Can Look Lovelier, Says Expert Now Visiting Here

Any woman can look lovelier! That is the theory on which Barbara Gould, famous beauty expert, has built up her research and experience. She said:

"Looking lovelier usually implies time spent in elaborate care and protection of the skin. But modern life moves so swiftly that the busy woman has no time for complicated rituals. Life is too full and the hours too few."

Because she herself is young and alive and busy, having just returned from establishing a modernistic beauty salon on President Wilson avenue in Paris, and others in Berlin, Prague, London, Rome, Vienna, Budapest and Milan, she has sought and found simple methods of keeping beautiful.

Recognizing also the danger of over-care and complications which may result from unintelligently applied creams with contradictory effects, she applied common sense to science and made a simple discovery. She says:

"Girls in their teens usually need only to cleanse and freshen their skin. Nature takes care of the rest. In the twenties, when costume and coiffure demands make-up a trifle more sophisticated, a finishing cream may be added to the beauty repertoire.

"In the thirties, when time and the business of living has begun to leave its first light touch upon skin, loveliness, a tissue cream may be included in the still simple processes of keeping beautiful.

"In the forties and beyond the amount of attention the skin will need will depend largely on its previous care. In addition to the tissue cream of the thirties, necessary to nourish tired facial muscles, it may be desirable to add an astringent cream to correct flabby muscles and an oiliness which results from sluggish glands."

Cleansing, freshening, nourishing and finishing, from teens to forties. That is the simple message Barbara Gould brings to Pittsburgh women at Kaufmann's this week.

The policemen, Lieut. William Nadine, Patrolman Robert Richman and Driver James McGuire, all of the Oakland Station, said McGuire was starting his automobile across the street intersection after having been halted by a red light when Campbell crashed into the police car and the, plunged across the sidewalk into a retaining wall.

The injured were treated by City Physician Daniel Sable and sent home.

TWO MEN HELD IN HILL POLL DISORDERS

Election Law Violations Charged by Women; Rule Reserved in 5 Other Cases

Two men were held for court last night and decision was reserved in the cases against several others, at hearings before Justice of the Peace Albert J. Henning, of Carrick, as a result of election disorders at the primary election. The men arraigned last night were among those named in 21 charges brought as a result of election irregularities in the Hill district.

Attorney Reuben Gershon represented the complainants and Congressman Harry A. Estep, campaign manager for County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, represented all the defendants.

HELD FOR COURT

Anthony Siano, 1554 Center avenue, follower of Alderman John J. Verona, of the Third Ward, was held for court on a charge of violating the election law after Mrs. H. E. Gay, of 1926 Center avenue, testified Siano was paying money to various men about the polling place in the Sixth District and directing them to vote for James Lovula, candidate for Constable. The charge brought against Siano by Mary Smith, of 1610 Clark street, that he was tampering with voting machines, was dismissed when Siano explained his action satisfactorily.

The other defendant held for court was Sidney Burnnwasser, 1434 Colwell street, who was charged with failing to make an affidavit when assisting persons to vote. Lola Atwell, of 19 Townsend street, who testified against Burnnwasser, failed to substantiate her accusations against the defendant regarding the passage of money in the polling place of the Fourth District of the Third Ward. This charge against Burnnwasser was thrown out.

DECISIONS RESERVED

Decision was reserved in a complaint against Clifford Sullivan, judge of election; Harry Green and Ben Newman, inspectors, in the Sixth District of the Third Ward. They are charged with preventing voters from casting their ballots. The justice also withheld disposition in another case in which Newman was accused of attacking Walter Rainey, a Negro, of 32 Tannehill street. Similar action resulted in the case against Arthur Dula and William Smith, who are accused of having prevented Lillian Fairfax, a Negro, of 12 Arthur street, from voting.

Decision also was reserved in several other cases arising out of election disorders in the Hill district.

2 DRY AGENTS HURT IN RAID

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Two prohibition agents were so badly injured they were sent to a hospital for treatment and two others less seriously hurt in a near riot during a raid on a saloon early today.

The disturbance was quelled by a detachment of police called by one of the agents who escaped during the melee. Three men with police records were arrested and another, known to the agents, is being sought.

The fight started when the four agents entered the saloon without a warrant and advanced to the bar to seize evidence. They were attacked by 50 patrons wielding beer bottles. After Agent Ival Hatton had been floored by a bottle, the other agents drew pistols and some of the patrons followed suit.

Union Workers Vote to End Strike at Avella

NATION-WIDE HUNT ON FOR GANG KILLERS

WAGE CUT VOTE ENDS AVELLA MINE STRIKE

Open Shop Competition Forces Action; Men See Early Return to Pits

The P. and W. Mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation at Avella may be opened within a few days as a result of a vote taken by union miners last night at a meeting in Avella at which time they voted to accept the 15 per cent wage cut ordered by the corporation. The mine has been closed for several weeks.

When the mine was closed the corporation officials announced that they were unable to meet competition and continue to pay the union wage scale. Since closing the mine they have been purchasing coal in the open market to fill orders, it was said.

LIVING COST CUT

The meeting last night at Avella was held under the auspices of the Avella Local of the United Mine Workers. The corporation announced that with the cut they also would put into effect reductions in light, rent and fuel for the miners. Under the union wage the inside miners were paid $4.50 for eight hours and the outside men $3.50 for eight hours.

Miners at the corporation's No. 8 mine, at Coverdale, will consider the proposed reduction at a meeting Monday when mine union officials will meet with Terminal executives. Reports of an impending strike of the union miners at Coverdale were denied by spokesmen for the United Mine Workers.

FAGAN AWAITED

It originally had been intended to hold a meeting of union officials and company representatives Wednesday, but it was postponed due to the absence of P. T. Fagan, district president, and Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers, who have been attending conferences in Scranton for several weeks.

CHILDREN LEFT $6,000,000 BY MRS. FRICK

Husband's Nephew Given $50,000; $100,000 Funds Go to Four Grandchildren

The estate of Mrs. Henry C. Frick, widow of the late steelmaster and philanthropist, estimated to be worth in excess of $6,000,000, was left to her son and daughter, Childs Frick and Helen C. Frick, under her will, filed late yesterday for probate in the office of Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell.

The will provided for a bequest of $50,000 to Karl F. Overholt, nephew of Mr. Frick, and created trust funds of $100,000 each for the benefit of Mrs. Frick's four grandchildren.

The trust fund of $5,000,000 created for Mrs. Frick under the will of her husband, with the power to dispose of it by her will, was given outright to the two children, to be divided between them. They also share equally in the residue of the estate.

The will named the two children, Overholt and the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, as executors.

Mrs. Frick received $1,000,000 outright under the will of her husband in addition to the trust fund. The Frick estate at Prides Crossing, Mass., where she died, was left to her during her life and after her death to Helen Frick.

REPRISAL SEEN IN TORCH, GUN SLAYINGS

Two Caught in Raid Identify Picture of 'Key Man;' Vengeance Held Motive

Describing the gang murders of Jack Palmere and Sam (Toto) Ambrosa as gangland's reprisal for a "double-cross," Lieut. Frank Ferris, of the homicide detectives, today inaugurated a nation-wide search for the "silent" partner of the dead men, with whom they have been known to have quarreled violently in the past three weeks.

At the same time Detective William Harris said a man by the name of Phillip Spinelli, a known gunman, who was reported to have been seen in the company of "Toto" at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, two and one-half hours before the latter's blazing body was found in a thicket near Turtle Creek, was being sought.

PICTURE IDENTIFIED

The search was intensified by the revelation of Leonard Cicerone, 21, and his brother, that "Toto" had spent the night with them at their home at 644 Church street, Turtle Creek, and had left the house with Spinelli. Spinelli's picture was pointed out to detectives by the Cicerone brothers at detective headquarters, Harris said. The identification followed a raid upon the Cicerone home in Turtle Creek, in which Turtle Creek police and homicide detectives took part.

Lieut. Ferris said he had requested police of eastern and central states to be on the lookout for the silent partner of "Toto" and Palmere, who he said fled the city in an automobile. Ferris declared the dead men had been "cheating" on the silent partner in money matters and their lives were the forfeit.

Besides the Cicerone brothers, the raid netted the officers a 50-gallon still and a quantity of liquor. The prisoners were taken into custody and lodged in the Turtle Creek Police Station after they had made the identification. They will be questioned further today.

Besides the prisoners, the raid netted the officers a 50-gallon still prisoners were taken into custody and lodged in the Turtle Creek and a quantity of liquor. The police station after they had made the identification. They will be questioned further today.

ASSOCIATES QUIZZED

"Toto" was known to have had Turtle Creek friends, and the information that he went to the Church street address Wednesday night to sleep came after several former associates of the yeast and sugar racketman had been questioned.

According to police, Cicerone told them that "Toto" had come to their home Wednesday night, and after sleeping several hours departed at 7 o'clock in an automobile with the man whose name detectives refuse to divulge.

Three hours later a farmer, seeking his cows in Peterson's hollow, found the strangled body of "Toto" wrapped in a smouldering gasoline-soaked blanket. The body, charred almost beyond recognition, was removed to the morgue, where it lay for several hours unidentified. An autopsy revealed death was due to strangulation.

OWNER OF CAR

Mike Mendeno, a railroader, taken into custody by sleuths as the owner of the automobile in which "Toto" had been seen Wednesday night, was taken to the morgue, where he identified "Toto."

The homicide squad had been searching for "Toto," seeking a solution of the killing of Palmere, who was shot down as he conversed with a friend in Wylie avenue early Wednesday night. The men were partners.

With the killing of Palmere, detectives, with a solution in sight, sought frantically for "Toto," with the knowledge that Toto and Palmere were partners in the bootleg supply game with a warehouse in Locust street. They visited the warehouse, took three of the drivers and a quantity of the supplies, but "Toto" was gone.

What was considered positive identification came after detectives had taken Mendeno into custody after police learned he was the owner of a car in which "Toto" was seen Wednesday night. Mendeno said he lent the car to "Toto" so that "Toto" might visit a sick relative in Turtle Creek.

FIND FLAWS IN STORY

The information led detectives to Turtle Creek, where an Italian grocer, who was visited last night by "Toto," was questioned without results. In the grocer's story detectives found flaws, and it is likely he will be questioned further today.

The grocer admitted "Toto" called at the store Wednesday night, in company with another man whose name he did not know, and passed the time of day. Detectives could not learn the reason for "Toto's" visit. They are searching for Toto's companion.

Here, why didn't you tell me what this fellow "Pepper" Martin, from Oklahoma, was doing. I had been in Mexico all this time and hadn't heard a thing. 'POSSUM WON'T PLAY 'POSSUM

Mt. Lebanon police were in a quandary today over disposition of a prisoner—a 15-pound gray opossum—caught prowling about Orchard drive early today by Capt. Charles Senn and Patrolman Ted Carrington as the officers patrolled their beat in Mission Hills.

Said Patrolman Carrington:

"He ambled out in front of our machine. Capt. Senn held the spotlight on him and I got out to pick him up. I'd heard of those animals 'playing possum.' Don't believe it.

"I threw my cap down in front of him and he kept right on going. Then I grabbed him by the tail and he tried to bite me. I finally managed to get him in the car and we took him to the station house. Now we don't know what to do with him."

BARBERS FREED IN ATTACK CASE

Louis Perry, 39, of Lodge street, and Gus Marion, 38, of Gilmore way, barbers employed in the Monongahela House barber shop, are free today, following acquittal in Criminal Court on morality charges preferred by Mrs. Anna Smith, 28, of South Thirteenth street, who testified she had been mistreated when she went to the shop to have her hair bobbed last July 6. The jury divided the costs on two of the charges, decreeing that the woman and men each pay one-third. On another count there was a complete acquittal.

The case was tried before visiting Judge J. O. Campbell, of Butler. Assistant District Attorney A. B. Reid prosecuted. Attorneys Samuel H. Sarraf and John Haverty, Jr., defended the barbers.

The woman testified that she had been tied in a chair in the beauty parlor alcove and attacked while customers were being shaved in the main shop at 3 p. m. Other customers and traffic policemen from a nearby corner testified they heard no outcry. A customer said the woman came quietly out of the beauty parlor, picked up some bundles from the hat rack and left without showing any evidence of excitement.

Bryan's Dreams Come True But They Don't Last

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Well, Bill Bryan was right about silver. He was right about a lot of things.

He predicted prohibition and woman's suffrage, too. But he couldn't foresee that prohibition would be a flop and that the women wouldn't bother about going to the polls.

People seem to forget that silver passed gold during the war. And when this flurry is over silver will go right back where it belongs, in the sugar bowl and napkin rings.

Bill was a prophet to the last. Even down at Dayton, Tenn., when we were tossing coins to find out who were the monkeys.

Bill won that Dayton argument. But since then we have proved that we can act like apes without the benefit of helping ancestors.

Like rainbows, all of Bryan's prophecies eventually bloomed. And faded out again.

He could see as far ahead as any man. But that ain't much good nowadays with our system of traffic lights.

BILLY CASSON, 29, APPLE SELLER, BUYING THE FIRST TAG FROM CAPTAIN HELEN SNOW

A Salvation Army lassie at Smithfield street and Fourth avenue selling the first tag of a money-raising campaign to a jobless apple seller, father of three and expecting a fourth shortly.

Father of 3, Awaits 4th, Aids Salvation Army

Billy Casson, 29, of 3915 Clement way, who supports three children and his wife, who is expecting a visit from the stork next month, was the first person to make a donation to the Salvation Army's tag day to officially start tomorrow.

The tag day will close the Army's $112,500 county drive for funds to carry them through the coming year. Women will be stationed throughout the city and county to pass out the little red tags that are exact replicas of the shield used on their huts in France during the war.

Although the drive started on October 1 the campaign is far from being up to the quota set. They are counting a lot on today and tomorrow to put the drive over the top.

Artless Layman Puzzled By Pollet's Paintings

By PENELOPE REDD

Pollet's painting urges one to praise his exciting manipulation of paint. Conversely, one is impelled to regard skeptically what appears at times to be an over-conscious selection of subject matter. One is inclined to surmise that the aim may be to puzzle the artless layman. His subjects with nudes are in this category.

Penelope Redd

Judging Pollet on technic alone, he exercises an individual style in applying paint to canvas. His landscapes, for example, are painted with deft circular motions and flame-like brush strokes which animate the compositions more than the solid forms usually favored by contemporary moderns.

He does not indulge in eccentricity of draughtsmanship, but he has created an arbitrary color formula. His palette for landscapes is in peculiar, high-keyed greens and yellows with gray as the mother color.

Thus commonplace pastorals are delineated in an eerie manner. Although the landscapes convey the pulsation of a hot summer's day, the beholder sees them as a spectacle without any definite conviction of participation.

All of Pollet's energy seems to be expended in the mechanics of painting. His power to secure vitality from paint as paint is admirably demonstrated in still life such as "Snow's Lamp" and "Hat and Guitar." Fragment of exceptional painting is the exterior detail of the framed window in the "Interior With Books."

EARLY TEACHER TO ATTEND REUNION

Mrs. John Suckling, 83, Here in 1870, to Greet Former Lincoln Pupils

Mrs. John Suckling, 83, who taught many Pittsburghers in the old Lincoln Elementary School, Frankstown and Lincoln avenues, will attend the reunion of former students and teachers there tonight at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Suckling, who was Miss Anna Stratton, in her teaching days taught first grade in 1870. She taught each successive grade and in 1878 had reached the highest room. For the next nine years she was assistant principal of the school until her marriage in 1885.

Mrs. Suckling

Many of her former students are looking forward to seeing her at the reunion. Two days ago she received a letter from a former pupil, Racheal Blair Dickson, who is now Mrs. R. D. Reno, of Oakmont. Other pupils she hopes to see at the reunion are Mrs. John Barton, who was Lizzie Clark; Dr. Elmer Cuthbert; Dr. Charles Chalfont and his sister, Mrs. Joseph Greves.

Mrs. Suckling lived on the corner of Fifth avenue and Ivy street, Pittsburgh, when she taught at the Lincoln School. Until her husband's death, two years ago, she lived on Conestoga road, Penn Township. Now she lives with two nieces in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Suckling is active and in spite of her failing eyesight is plaiting and sewing a rag rug for her cousin, Mrs. Mabel McIntosh Swindell, 508 South avenue, Wilkinsburg, with whom she is staying while in Pittsburgh. Concerning modern education, she said:

"Educational methods and equipment are so totally different now than they were in my teaching days. Physical education, art, cooking and sewing classes are innovations undreamed of in my time. Who would ever have thought they would have gymnasiums in schools? But it is a good thing. It shows that education is progressing."

INSURANCE MEN FIGURE RATES FOR FLIERS

The experience and flying ability of individual aircraft pilots were held the most important conditions in the writing of life insurance for aviators, in a report of the aviation committee submitted yesterday before the American Life Convention at the William Penn Hotel.

The plan for rating aviators outlined by the committee was read by Floyd S. Prothero, of the Travelers Insurance Company. The report recommended an extra premium of $8 per thousand of life insurance for the most expert pilots, with increasing rates based on lesser amounts of experience, flying time and other qualifications.

The convention was to close with election of officers today. Talks on life insurance selling were scheduled in the agency section, with these speakers: Roger B. Hull, of New York; W. T. Grant, of Kansas City; Dr. W. B. Bailey, of Hartford, Conn., and Walter T. Shepard, of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Frank A. Arnold, director of development of the National Broadcasting Company, New York, addressed members of the convention interested in advertising yesterday on "Trends in Modern Advertising." Following his talk, the group voted to petition the executive committee of the convention for the formation of an advertising section.

Story of Modern Days

OVER IN Jersey City the neighbors tell a strange story about Mrs. Martin. It's a sordid little yarn, and it's a typical product of this prohibition era. There are, I suppose, many other Mrs. Martins all over the country. I trust they will have a better future than she has.

Up until the latter part of 1927 Mr. Martin was a saloon keeper. It was the only racket he had ever known, and when prohibition arrived he decided to stick to it. The specter of arrest and jail worried his wife far more than it did the husband. She was certain that something was going to happen and she continually urged Mr. Martin to step out of the speakeasy business.

Her husband was willing to argue. He pointed out that their son was now 18 years of age and that he wanted him to continue with his education.

"What's the use of talking about quitting the racket?" he would say. "What else am I gonna do? The rent isn't going to pop into the landlord's hands by itself, and the food isn't going to walk into the kitchen.

"No, you gotta get these notions out of your dome. I'm not making any fortune in the joint these days, but I'm getting by."

In the end, as usual, the wife won the argument. One of the neighbors sold Mrs. Martin the idea that her husband could find a job with his concern. Investigation showed that the position would pay $40 a week.

"If you don't sell out and take this position," she told her husband, "you're crazy. I've been begging you to quit the terrible business you're in ever since prohibition started. How do you think I feel when the neighbors look at me and I know my husband can go to jail any day? How do you think your son feels?

So Mr. Martin sold his speakeasy—which didn't bring him much—and went to work in an office. Within a month he found that he had had more than enough. He threw a chair at one of the bosses and went home to his wife.

"You see what you've done?" he complained bitterly. "You made me sell a good place for next to nothing, and then you make me go to work like some kind of a sissy. And what's the result? Now I'm out of a job altogether."

His wife made no reply. When it came to such an argument, she knew how to pick her spots . . .

After some six weeks of doing nothing, Mr. Martin handed his wife some news. Their son sat at the table as the father talked.

"I want Johnny to hear this," he said, "because he's no kid—and because I want him to know that, whatever I do, I'm doing for you and him.

"Now, listen. I told you many, many times that liquor was my racket and that I didn't know nothing else. You pulled me out of it once, and you see what a mistake it was. Now, I'm going back.

"I'm going to work tomorrow on one of Frank Smith's rum boats. I suppose you're gonna tell me right away that you don't like Frank Smith and—"

"I don't," interrupted his wife viciously. "I hate him and I hate everything he stands for."

Mr. Martin nodded.

"I thought so," he went on. "Well, all I can say is that you can go on hating. Frank's a mighty busy guy, and he's a swell feller to give me this chance.

Accordingly, Mr. Martin went to work on a Frank Smith rum boat. For six months he made an excellent living. And then, one rainy night, he was washed overboard and drowned. . . .

A few days after the accident, Mrs. Martin walked into Frank Smith's office. Smith—a fictitious name for this story, of course—received her very hospitably.

"I'm very sorry about the entire thing, Mrs. Martin," he asserted. "I regret your loss. Is there any manner in which I can help you?"

"You're to blame for all my troubles," she wept. "If it wasn't for you and your rotten business, my husband would be alive today. You're going to pay me for losing him—and you're going to pay heavy."

The rum operator spoke very quietly.

"You musn't forget, Mrs. Martin," he said, "that I put your husband to work only to help him out. I wanted to help; not harm. I am going to give you a check for $2,500 out of respect to his memory. I would advise you to take it."

Mrs. Martin wanted more. But she took while the taking was good. She walked from Smith's office with his check for $2,500 in her purse . . .

It will seem strange to you, but it's the truth, nevertheless. What do you suppose Mrs. Martin did with that $2,500? It's a tough answer to guess, so I might as well tell you. She opened a speakeasy!

In spite of her dislike for it, she has been encountering the saloon all her life. She knew that a good spot made plenty of money, and that small capital sometimes brought big results. Her late husband's friends in the neighborhood would all flock to a place that she might back. After all, why not?

Mrs. Martin invested in a speakeasy. Two weeks later, she was raided and closed . . .

* * *

A few months later, Mrs. Martin again appeared in Frank Smith's office. He was cold to her now.

"What is it you want, Mrs. Martin?" he asked. "It's not my fault you threw your money away. Do you want me to give you more money?"

The widow shook her head.

"I could use some," admitted the woman who hated liquor, "but that's not what I came for. I'm thinking of my son. Could you find a place for him on one of your rum boats?"

WOMEN'S Flatter-fluff of Wolf

MISSES' Furs & Colors Galore!

The sketch is practically covered in Lapin and looks every inch a $39.75 fashion. But you'll have a time deciding between Jap Weasel with the richness of Kolinsky and Caracul. Many another in black and colors.

JR. MISSES' MUFF COATS!

Of all the new fashions, the coat with matching muff is most high-hat! But here it is among the Jr. Styles for a mere $39.75. In Caracul, while other models show Raccoon, Natural and Blue Wolf. All the rough-ish fabrics that so quickly date a coat 1931-32. Sizes 11 to 17.

We're Copy Cats! COPIES OF BETTER DRESSES $16.50

Likely we're a menace to the high-price dress industry that likes to charge and charge and charge. But isn't it magnificent luck to pick up these first copies of awfully expensive models? Canton Crepes with Velvet, for instance. Top model in Spanish tile or a heavenly new blue with the rich darkness of velvet. Or a last-minute version of the "apron drape." Or a five-o'clock frock glittering with sequins at strategic points. Black, of course, in great variety and, in addition, the new glowing colors. 14 to 20's sketched. Others to 44.

SECOND FLOOR

Slant Your TURBANS $5.00

Agnes-type affairs, than which there is nothing more youthful. Contrasting rolls, crystal ornaments, flat feather trims.

FOURTH FLOOR

Waffle Weave WOOL CREPES $4.95

In the Sports Field, the rougher the weave the smarter. These models contrast brown and rust, black and green and rust and brown in a manner to win any young stylists. 14 to 20.

RADIO TRIBUTE TO ROCKNE

Art Randall To Succeed Joy

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor

THOUGH THE RADIO sky sparkles with many stars tonight there's nothing more outstanding than the glorious tribute arranged by the fraternities in memory of that great football mentor, Knute Rockne. Three different programs are to honor Knute on the eve of Notre Dame's game with Northwestern University. First the Notre Dame Glee Club and Coach Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, on KDKA at 8:30 . . . Next Ferde Grofe's tone poem, "The Life of Knute Rockne" on Paul Whiteman's KDKA concert at 10 . . . and last the widow of Coach Rockne and "Hunk" Anderson present Notre Dame coach on WCAE at 10:30.

Question a Day:

I was in WCAE the other night during the broadcast of an electrical transcription. When the program was over the announcer smashed the record in two pieces and put it in a folder bearing a New York address. Why?—Cleone K., Dormont.

Answer — Some advertising companies specify that their electrical transcriptions (phonograph records) be destroyed immediately after the broadcast to prevent further usage, possibly by another sponsor . . . the broken record returned to the agency is accepted proof that the program was put on the air as scheduled. The stations like the idea, too, because it eliminates a congestion that would result from huge numbers of these records accumulating in the studios.

Pep, Vim and Vigor—the Jester boys—have been photographed exclusively for readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. See them this Sunday on the radio page.

Studio Lights

WCCO has beaucoup community spirit . . . it'll cost them $2,000 to pick up the Minnesota-Stanford football game direct from Palo Alto, Cal., this Saturday . . . we imagine Pitt alumni would contribute another thousand just to hear "Pop" Warner's voice again. . . .

Paul Nevin, son of the great Pittsburgh composer, Ethelbert Nevin, is scheduled to play several of his father's compositions on NBC-WCAE tomorrow morning at 11:30. . . .

Art Randall's Orchestra is to succeed Jimmy Joy at the William Penn-KDKA on Thursday, October 15 . . .

Ben Cutler's voice is most pacifying on Phil Spitalny's tea time period over NBC, but there was a time that Ben Cutler, line-ripping Yale halfback, was bad news for lots of people. . . .

Ben Grauer, NBC announcer, wants to know why Swiss cheese has the holes when limburger needs the ventilation . . .

Radio has brought thousands back into the church, reports Dr. Charles Wakefield Cadman, whose sermons return to the air this Sunday . . .

Toscha Seidel who sports a $60,000 violin in his CBS performances once went tobogganing with the King of Sweden . . .

Time of "Meet the Artist" on CBS has been changed from Thursday to Tuesday at 5:15 p. m. . . . Abe Lyman, orchestra maestro, is to be interviewed on WJAS next Tuesday . . .

Looking Back

Some of the things they remember with varied emotions now that they have climbed to success—Ted Husing, when he taught calisthenics and tap dances to Florida vacationers . . . Morton Downey, when he was a railroad train news butcher . . . Kate Smith, studying to be a trained nurse . . . Irene Beasley, being a school marm down South, presiding over a whole grade school with all of 11 pupils . . . Ben Bernie, when he sold cheap fiddles in a department store and had his customers out in the aisles (both literally and figuratively) with the Bernie brand of humor . . . David Ross, being secretary to a Russian baroness . . . Freddie Rich, thumping the battered piano in a nickelodeon for $15 a week, with $14.50 of that going to the support of his struggling family . . . Louis Dean, when he sold phonograph records and thus got his first contact with the musical and entertainment world . . . Tony Wons, invalided by his wounds in the war, starting his now famous scrapbook, with never an idea that it would someday make his name a household word throughout the country . . . Ben Alley, singing in a country church choir deep in the hills of West Virginia.

The ONE LOW-Priced Radio with 4 CONDENSERS

There is NO comparison between the quality of a four-gang-condenser radio and radio with less. Only SOME high priced sets have this extra condenser. Yet Zenette, costing no more than ordinary low-priced sets, has this device that cuts out "cross-talk" and banishes "riding-in". If you want clear, crisp, uninterrupted reception...buy a Zenette...and let the four-gang condenser assure it.

AUTUMN DELICACIES :-: Prudence Penny Tells How to Make Them :-: KITCHEN HINTS :-: Latest Recipes Give Tasty Suggestions

TOMATO BREAD—½ cup butter, ¾ cup sugar, 1 egg well beaten, 2 cups tomato soup, 2¼ cups flour, 1½ teaspoons soda, ¼ teaspoon allspice, ¾ teaspoon cloves, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and the grated rind of half a lemon.

Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually while beating constantly; add egg and tomato soup. Add the sifted dry ingredients, mix well and turn into one large or two small loaf tins that have been well greased. Bake small loaves 50 minutes and large loaf 1 hour and 15 minutes in a moderate oven.

* * *

SALMON BECHAMEL—Flake 1 tall can salmon and put in individual buttered baking dishes. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and a few grains nutmeg. Make bechamel sauce by melting 2 tablespoons butter, sauteing ½ small onion, chopped, in it a few minutes, then adding 2 tablespoonsfuls flour. Add ¾ cups white stock and ¾ cup cream or evaporated milk, slowly stirring until smooth and thick. Season to taste with salt and pepper, pour over fish and cover with buttered crumbs. Brown in oven. Serves six.

* * *

HAWAIIAN BREAD PUDDING—Scald 2 cups of milk, add ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg and pour over 2 cups stale bread—pieces of bread this time, not crumbs—letting it stand until soft and the milk is absorbed by the bread.

Add 2 beaten eggs and pour into a large shallow baking dish. Lay the drained slices from a can of sliced pineapple over the top and bake in a slow, 350 degree, oven 45 minutes to 1 hour. Serve 8, even if they are greedy this time. I like this sauce with it.

* * *

SAUCE — Smooth together ½ tablespoon cornstarch, ½ cup sugar and ¼ cup cold water. Add the hot pineapple syrup and cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Add 2 tablespoons of lemon juice and a few grains of nutmeg.

* * *

BAKED FRUIT DESSERT — Cut 3 bananas in halves, then split lengthwise and lay in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle juice from half a lemon over the bananas and dot with 2 tablespoons butter.

Sprinkle over all ½ cup of crushed dried macaroon crumbs, pour over the contents of a can of crushed pineapple, add another third cup of the macaroon crumbs and bake in a hot, 400 degree, oven 30 minutes, or until the bananas are soft. Serve cold with cream. Enough for eight.

* * *

SALMON CUTLETS WITH EGG SAUCE—Heat 1 large can salmon cutlets (oval cans) by immersing the can in boiling water for 15 to 20 minutes. Open and remove fish carefully in one large piece if possible to a hot platter. Garnish with lemon slices and parsley. Serve with egg sauce made by chopping 3 tablespoons hard-cooked eggs fine, add 3 tablespoons melted butter and salt, pepper and lemon juice to taste. Serves 6.

* * *

PEPPERS STUFFED WITH SAUERKRAUT—Use 6 green peppers of nearly equal size. Cut them in two lengths and remove seeds and partitions. Parboil five minutes. Fill with a stuffing made as follows: 1 cup bread crumbs (fresh bread), contents ½-ounce can sauerkraut, 2 very thin slices onion, ½ teaspoon paprika. Cover with bread crumbs, and place in baking dish with water and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes. Serve in the same dish in which it was baked.

* * *

BROWN BREAD—One cup rye meal, 1 cup corn meal, 1 cup whole wheat flour, 2 cups sour milk, ¾ tablespoon soda, 1 tablespoon salt, ¾ cup molasses.

Mix and sift dry ingredients, add molasses and milk, stir until well mixed and fill well-greased baking powder tins and steam for two hours.

* * *

FOUR-FRUIT SALAD—One package lemon or lime gelatin, 1½ cups boiling water, 1 orange, sections free from membrane and diced, 1 banana diced, 1 apple, pared and diced, juice 1 lemon, ½ cup sugar.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Chill. Combine remaining ingredients. When gelatin is slightly thickened, fold in fruit mixture. Turn into paper molds. Chill until firm. Serves six.

* * *

PEANUT COOKIES—Three cups sifted cake flour, ¼ teaspoon soda, 1 cup peanuts, chopped, 1 cup butter or other shortening, 2 cups sugar, 3 eggs, well beaten.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and sift three times. Mix flour with peanuts. Cream butter, add sugar gradually and mix thoroughly. Add eggs and flour. Beat well. Drop by teaspoons on baking sheet and bake in hot oven (400 d. F.) for 9 minutes. Makes seven dozen cookies.

* * *

ROAST SQUAB WITH PINEAPPLE RINGS—Four squabs, 2 eggs, flour for dredging, ½ cup cooking fat, 2 cups pineapple juice, 4 to 8 pineapple rings. Split squabs down the back, flatten the breast. Dust lightly with salt and dip into slightly beaten egg. Dredge with flour. Sear squabs in hot (not smoking) cooking fat to a golden brown. Place in heavy roaster and cover closely. Roast in slow open (325 degrees F.) 1½ hours. Baste squabs with 1 cup pineapple juice. Recover and cook for 15 minutes. Add remaining cup pineappale juice and cook another 15 minutes. Serve with pineapple rings sauted in squab cooking fat. Makes 4 generous or 8 small servings.

* * *

SCALLOPED CORNED BEEF—Two cups corned beef, cut in cubes, 1 cup medium white sauce, 1 stalk celery, 2 slices onion, buttered bread crumbs. Cook chopped celery and onions in thin sauce. Put the canned corned beef in a shallow baking dish and add the sauce. Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Cook 15 to 30 minutes in a moderate over (350-400 degrees F.).

* * *

CORNED BEEF CUTLETS—Two cups minced corned beef, 1 cup thick white sauce, few grains cayenne, 1 tablespoon minced green pepper. Add sauce to corned beef, then add seasonings. Spread on a plate to cool. Shape in the form of cutlets, dip in crumbs, egg, then crumbs again, fry in deep fat at a temperature of 380 degrees F. for 1½ minutes. Drain. Garnish with green leaves. Serves four.

* * *

BUTTERSCOTCH COOKIES — One cup fat, 2 cups dark brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sour cream, 3½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 cup chopped nuts.

Cream the fat and add the sugar. Add eggs, vanilla, salt and cream. Beat 2 minutes. Add flour, soda and cream of tartar. Shape stiff dough into roll, 2 inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and chill 24 hours or longer. Use sharp knife and cut off thin slices. Press chopped nuts on top and bake.

* * *

SUCCOTASH—Two cups corn (cut from cob), 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup cooked lima beans, 3 tablespoons cream, 1 tablespoon butter.

Cut corn uncooked from cobs. Add water and salt. Cook slowly until mixture thickens. Stir frequently and cook slowly. Add rest of ingredients and cook slowly 4 minutes. Stir constantly.

SCRAPPLE—10 pounds whole hog heads, 2½ pounds hog livers and hearts, a small quantity of beef, if desired, 6 pounds corn meal, yellow or mixed, ½ pound salt, ½ pound buckwheat or rye flour, 3 ounces spices, including pepper, sage, marjoram and thyme in any desired proportions.

Clean the heads thoroughly, removing the eyes and ear tubes. Split the head lengthwise and remove the teeth and the soft bones in and near the nasal cavities. Place the heads and other meat in a large kettle with a liberal quantity of water and cook until the meat falls off the bones. Separate the meat and soft tissue from the bones and pass through a meat grinder. Strain the liquid in which the meat was cooked to remove the small pieces of bone, return to the kettle and heat to the boiling point. Then slowly add the meal and flour, stirring constantly. Boil and stir until the mass becomes thick. Add the salt, spices and chopped meat, and boil 10 minutes longer. Pour while still hot into deep wet molds; bread pans will do. Pour 2 to 4 tablespoons of melted lard over the material in the pans.

The scrapple is ready for use as soon as it has cooled. To prepare it for the table it is usually cut into slices about one-half inch thick, dusted with flour, cracker dust, or dry corn meal, fried until the outside is crisp, and served hot. Fried apples are good with fried scrapple.

* * *

SCALLOPED CORN — 1 cup milk, 1 can or 2 cups corn, 1 cup bread crumbs, 2 slices green pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter.

Place alternate layers of corn and bread crumbs in a greased baking dish, reserving some crumbs for the top, adding butter and seasoning to each layer. If desired, 1 tablespoon of sugar may be added. Pour on the milk and bake for one-half hour.

* * *

QUICK COFFEE CAKE—Two cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons butter or other fat, ½ cup milk, ½ cup raisins, chopped, 1 teaspoon cinnamon mixed with 2 tablespoons sugar.

Sift together the flour, baking powder, sugar and salt, saving out 2 tablespoons of flour to mix with the fruit. Cut in the fat with a biscuit cutter and add the milk and floured fruit. In a greased pan, pat the dough down until it is about 1½ or 2 inches thick, and bake for 35 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). When done, butter the top and sprinkle over it a mixture of cinnamon and sugar. Place the cake in the oven again and let it remain until the sugar begins to melt. Serve hot or cold.

* * *

HOMINY DATE PUDDING—One cup hominy grits, 5 cups milk (skim or whole), 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ cup sugar, 1 cup chopped seeded dates, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Add the salt and hominy grits to the milk and cook in a double boiler 1 hour. Add sweetening, dates and vanilla and mix well. Partially cool before serving.

* * *

ICE BOX COOKIES—1½ cups shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup granulated sugar, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt, 4½ cups flour, 1½ teaspoon soda, 1 cup nut-meats.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The archdukes of radio are bringing their blue pencils to Shakespeare. Pepping him up for the armchairs. To be or not to be a radio listeners—that is the question. When the votes are counted you will find the nays have won.

Shakespeare seems one figure listeners won't stand for—or sit for, either, for that matter. They prefer a coloratura any day to "Coriolanus." I wonder if they have given a thought to hiring the leading Shakespearean interpreters. Shakespeare can't be named on the radio. Listeners quickly turn the dial. But I have a notion that he can be Forbes-Robertsoned or John Barrymore to a vast and attentive audience.

From the sports standpoint it has been a fine year for the radio men. Their best year, if you ask me. They have muffed nothing important in the arena, and their job of conveying excitement to the parlors has been thorough and satisfying. Only boxing, among the major attractions, has failed to give them complete satisfaction. And that's because they have not yet found a new Dempsey or restored the old one to his former niche on the pedestals. But give them time, they will do one or the other.

* * *

In reporting even second rate 'he radio men have had obstacles to overcome— the fear of the fight hs that radio was men... the box office. Did the broadcasters raise their voices? They were always suave, always gracious. Such diplomatic tact! But it prevailed.

They convinced the magnates of the arena that there was essentially nothing to fear from the microphone, that the airing of a bout which promised something of a battle could not equal in its thrills an actual attendance at the ringside. The magnates took them at their word, found it true.

Honey Is Excellent Source Of Energy Supply

Dr. Copeland recommends this wholesome food for satisfying the longing of children for sweets and wishes that more of it were eaten by both the adolescents and grownups.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator From New York.

Honey is classified as a sugar. It was earliest of the sweet foods. The expression, "sweet as honey," has become a classic.

Honey is a mixture of various sugars, sugars extracted from flowers by the busy bee. There are several varieties of sugar. The sugar of cane or beets is known as "dextrose." Fruit sugar is called "fructose." Honey is the only sweet food substance that contains more fructose than dextrose.

Fruit sugars are more readily handled by the body than dextrose, not requiring any preliminary digestive changes. Their absorption is simple and made without difficulty.

Like other sugars, honey is an excellent source of energy supply. It is for this reason that it is given to convalescents. It is useful for persons who are weak and lacking in "pep."

HONEY IN COMB PURE

In addition to sugar, honey contains certain aromatic substances. These substances are derived from the flower at the same time the honey is obtained by the bees. This gives the pleasing flavor and makes food so palatable.

"Extracted honey" is that obtained by the use of a centrifugal machine. In this way the honey is drawn without crushing the combs. "Strained honey" is honey which is obtained by crushing the combs and then straining.

Some honeys are light in color and others are dark. The color of honey depends upon the type of flower attacked by the bees. If clover or alfalfa, the color of the honey is light. The color is dark if made from buckwheat. The light colored honeys are more popular than the darker ones.

When you see honey in comb form, you can be sure it is pure. This form of honey is surely the work of the bees. Man has not, as yet, been able to produce or imitate the comb.

A WHOLESOME FOOD

Honey should be kept in a place reasonably free from moisture. The comb, as well as the bulk honey, absorbs moisture from the air. Then it becomes thin and in time will sour.

Frequently honey undergoes a change and is spoken of as "candied honey." This can be melted by placing the container in a vessel holding water not hotter than the hand can bear. Do not use water that is too hot for there is danger of spoiling the color and ruining the flavor.

Honey is a wholesome food. It is desirable for children and satisfies their longing for sweets. It is equally good for adults. I wish more of it were being consumed.

with the nutmeats. Pack in a mold or form into a roll about the size of a rolling-pin, wrap in waxpaper, and leave in the refrigerator overnight. With a sharp knife slice as thin as possible, lay on an oiled cooky-sheet, and bake for 12 to 15 minutes in a moderate oven until a golden brown. The dough for these cookies may be kept on hand in a cold place, and when needed may be quickly cut and baked.

PECAN COOKIES—Cream together 1 cup of brown sugar and ½ cup of shortening (¼ pound). Stir in 1 egg, ½ teaspoon of vanilla, 1 cup of sifted pastry flour and ½ cup of broken pecan meats. Drop from a teaspoon on buttered pans, placing half a pecan in the center of each cake. Bake in a moderately slow oven, so that the cakes dry as they brown.

JELLY DELIGHTS—Beat 1 egg and 1 cup of sugar together until light. Flavor with vanilla, lemon or almond. Gradually add 2½ cups of sifted pastry flour. Then knead in ¼ pound of cold shortening until the dough is well blended. Form into rolls or "sausaged" about 2 inches in diameter, and set in the ice-box for several hours. Then slice with a sharp knife in thin slices and bake on greased pans in a moderate oven until a light brown. Just before serving, spread the under sides with jelly, and put two and two together.

These can also be spread with chocolate icing, but they're good enough to serve just the way they are.

CUSTARD PIE—1 egg, 1½ tablespoons sugar, few grains nutmeg, 1-16 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup milk.

Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt and milk. Pour into a baking dish; set baking dish in a pan of water and bake in a slow oven. This is rich in building material.

Plump... tender Long Island DUCKLINGS

lb 25c

Raised and fattened by a special method of scientific feeding that imparts a distinctive flavor to their finely textured meat. These Ducklings are ready for market at 10 weeks and average from 5 to 6½ lbs. each. Prepare a real treat for your family by stuffing and roasting one of these tender young birds for the Sunday dinner.

(Personal)

By keeping the difference between what the farmer receives for food and what you pay for it as small as possible, we can sell food of the highest quality at very low prices.

For instance, last year it cost us $35.51 a ton to bring food from the people who grow it to the people who eat it. But this year we've been able to cut it down to $32.66. This one chip, alone, off the old expensive block is a saving to American housewives of about $100,000 every week.

Definite Rules Make Unsound Bidding Unexcusable

There is no excuse for making unsound or misleading opening bids. The rules are definite. Dealer or second hand require from 2 to 2½ quick tricks, depending upon the character of the holdings. The first hand shown below has only 2 quick tricks, but its holder may bid clubs in case his partner cannot support hearts. I would bid one spade upon either the second or third hand. The second hand contains 2½ quick tricks. The third hand does not contain 2½ genuine quick tricks, but the side Q-J are a practical equivalent; in fact some players value the clubs at ½ quick trick, which is untrue for defensive purposes.

Hand No. 1: ♠ 9 ♥ A-K-7-5-3 ♣ Q-J-10-6-4 ♦ 8-5

Hand No. 2: ♠ A-k-J-6-4 ♥ 9-6 ♣ k-8-5 ♦ 10-6

Hand No. 3: ♠ A-K-J-6-4 ♥ 9-6 ♣ Q-J-8-5 ♦ 10-6

An opening bid announces ability to win at least 2 defensive tricks. Do not lose your partner's confidence by advertising what you can not deliver. If you lack any element of a sound opening bid, pass. Later on you may bid if desirable.

Using the method of counting probable tricks given yesterday, an opening bid should show 5 probable tricks. Just what constitutes a bidable suit will be given in detail later on.

The three hands following are not worth opening bids. The hand No. 4 lacks two sure tricks. Number 5 has no bidable suit, and no-trumps cannot be bid when two suits are unguarded. Number 6 suffers from general debility.

Hand No. 4: ♠ A Q J-10-7-5 ♥ 8-3 ♣ J-6-4 ♦ 7-2

Hand No. 5: ♠ 8-6-4-3 ♥ A-K-7 ♣ 9-5-2 ♦ k-Q-6

Hand No. 6: ♠ A-7-3 ♥ 6-5 ♣ A-8-6-4-3 ♦ 8-7-5

Each of the next hands is worth an opening bid of one heart. Each is worth from 5 to 6½ probable tricks.

Hand No. 7: ♠ 6-4 ♥ k-Q-J-8 ♣ A-9-7-5 ♦ k-6-3

Hand No. 8: ♠ A-J-8 ♥ A-7-6-3-2 ♣ k-8-6 ♦ 5-4

Hand No. 9: ♠ k-10-5 ♥ Q-J-9-8-4 ♣ 6-3 ♦ A-K-7

In nearly all cases where two bidable suits are of equal length the higher ranking suit should be shown first. If the two suits are of unequal length the longer suit should be shown first. Bid spades before showing hearts on the first hand. Show hearts before spades on the second hand appearing below.

Hand No. 10: ♠ k-Q-7-5-3 ♥ A-Q-9-6-4 ♣ 5 ♦ 6-5

Hand No. 11: ♠ A-Q-6-4 ♥ k-Q-J-9-3 ♣ 7-2 ♦ 4-3

By FAY KING

In this time of temporary depression our first thought is for our fellowmen who may need temporary aid.

Our second thought should be for animals. For like human beings they too can feel hunger, thirst, cold and pain, and suffer from deprivation and neglect.

They must not be forsaken and forgotten.

There is a great place in the heart of humanity for the friendly, faithful creatures that look to us for shelter and food.

And if we cannot provide them there is the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that in every city is ready to help.

Notify them if you cannot care for an animal, or see one in need. There is no obligation on your part. Just let them know.

Boys Shout for Help After Pressing Clothing

Dicky gave me no chance to get angry at his irritating request to know if I desired him to valet the young gentlemen.

He sprang up as the last words left his lips evidently remembering as I was reminding myself resentfully, that after all Hank and Bill were his nephews, not mine.

"Please forgive your bad boy," he said, contritely. "You know I'm always a crank when I'm tired and before dinner. But that's no excuse for saying a thing like that to you when you've been kind enough to interest yourself in their sartorial shortcomings. There! How's that for a wordy apology. Sort of swell, don't you think?"

"Most satisfactory," I told him. "But——"

"It doesn't solve the problem of the boys' wrinkled pants. You're dead right there. Well! if I have to be the goat, I'll qualify. I haven't pressed a pair of pants since my studio days when we stuck 'em under the mattress and piled suitcases and everything else heavy on top. But I learned how to sling a wicked flatiron, so I'll—no—I've got a better scheme. I'll teach the boys how."

He knotted the cord of his bathrobe more closely around him and put his feet into his slippers.

"I'll go," I interposed hastily, rising. "I know just——"

He laid his hands upon my shoulders and put me gently but firmly back into my chair.

"And I know just what you're going to do," he said. "You're going to sit right there like a good child until I get back. You're doing far too much stepping around as it is. Have you any special message for Katie about this?"

He grinned widely.

"Haven't much faith in your old man, have you?" he queried.

"I've seen him in action," I retorted, blowing him a kiss from the palm of my hand.

"Touche!" He threw up his hand and started for the door, wheeling as I spoke.

"If I'm forbidden to move," I said, "will you stop in and tell Hank and Bill that a rescue ship is on the way?"

"I'll do that little thing," he promised, and went out, while I lay back in my chair, glad of the respite which Dicky had enforced. I realized that I was taxing my newly regained strength too much, and resolved—with a grim little smile at the futility of such a resolution—to be more careful.

It was a short time before I heard Dicky come back up the stairs, the end of the ironing board banging at every step. Of course, he had come up the front stairs. I told myself irritatedly, with a housewifely little calculation about the marks upon the old balustrade, the pride of the farmhouse, which Katie keeps polished like a mirror. Almost I wished that I had never intervened upon behalf of Bill and Hank. Then my mother-in-law's door flew open, and I knew that Nemesis had descended upon my luckless husband's head.

"Who is making that awful noise?" she exclaimed. "It woke me out of the best sleep I've had for weeks. Oh!" as she saw her son. "You! Richard. Whatever are you doing? And that balustrade! You must have ruined it!"

"Sorry, Mother," he said placatingly, "but I just have to smooth out some wrinkled drawings. Please try to go back to sleep."

"That will be impossible," she said, but I heard her door shut and the key turn.

I did not hear Dicky go into the boys' room—he must have tiptoed the corridor from his mother's door, but after a quarter of an hour, he came back to me, and sat down in the chair opposite, wiping his flushed face. I poured him a glass of the iced fruit punch from the pitcher which I had brought up, and he quaffed it gratefully. Then only did I venture to question him.

"Are they all fixed up?"

"What do you think we are, lightning artists?" he demanded. "No, the coats are done, they weren't so bad, but I think the boys must have tied the trousers in double bow knots and used them to stuff the corners of the bags, from the looks of them. The boys are doing them."

I knew what had happened. Impatient Dicky had pressed the coats himself, and then tiring, and with the assumption that the boys could go on with the work, had left the rest to them. I wanted to protest, but knew it would be useless, so I sat "hoping for the best but fearing the worst" until my apprehensions were justified by the smell of burning wool, and the sound of Roderick's voice raised excitedly—

"Now you've done it," he said, and then there came a shriek of pain and terror.

Household Hints

Clothes dried slowly are whiter than those dried quickly.

Batter puddings will be lighter if two teaspoonfuls of ground rice are added to the flour before mixing.

To prevent the fish from sticking to the pan, sprinkle a little salt in the skillet before placing the fish in to fry.

Porridge can be varied by serving with a few stoned and halved dates, or seedless raisins, instead of sugar. Or, when cooking, use half milk and half water, and add a few raisins. Serve hot or cold with milk or cream.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Shaking Hands

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct for a young lady to offer to shake hands with a gentleman when he is introduced to her? B.

It is perfectly correct for the lady to offer her hand for a handshake when a gentleman is presented to her, but it is not very customary now. Especially is it usually not "done" in the customary casual introduction.

However, if the introduction is not casual, if it is, for instance, an introduction which has long been planned or been anticipated, if two very close friends of a mutual friend are being introduced and the introduction is therefore somewhat in the nature of a rite, then it is proper and indeed rather expected that the lady will offer her hand to the gentleman. She thereby is able to register a special enthusiasm and to give an especially warm-hearted acceptance of the introduction. But personally I am not very enthusiastic about having women always offer their hands when gentlemen are introduced. But if they are especially cordial women, there is certainly no reason why they should not shake hands if they wish to.

Bonbons at Dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When is it proper to put bonbons on the table? After the dessert has been served? Then do you just pass the bonbons?

ALICE.

Ornamental dishes of bonbons are put on the table before the guests sit down, if you wish. Then they are passed after the dessert. Or they may be kept on the side of the table and passed after the dessert.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Should a Girl Help Her Jobless Boy Friend?

Ella has a job—

The boy friend hasn't.

For almost a year now, he has been "looking"—meanwhile borrowing carfare and cigaret money from her, besides hinting about how well a "little lunch" would taste, when he calls on her.

Is she making a goof out of herself, and a bum out of him?

"Dear Sally:

"Well, here is just another tangle for your good sense to unravel, and I hope you'll give me a hand.

"Nine months ago, I met a young man who was just out of college. He had no job, but was highly recommended as a 'swell fellow.' I fell hard, and we've been going together ever since.

"During this time he has been 'looking for a job' in vain. Now I know that this depression has crippled so many chances and opportunities, and that's my reason for tolerating the position I'm in for so long. I say 'tolerate' because until now a fellow without a job has always seemed an unnecessary and disgusting thing. But let me get to the point.

"I have a job. I have no expenses whatever, and don't toil so hard for my money, as I work for my father. But I don't get a lot, and I can find many ways to use it. Well? The boy friend just about has me broke, every week.

SPENDS HIS MONEY

"Please don't say that I'm just a plain fool because, really, it all slipped up on me gradually, without my realizing what was happening. I have never come in contact with males who would think of playing a girl for a 'good thing,' so naturally, I am not in the least suspicious of anyone.

"But the Boy Friend 'borrows' carfare 'to look for a job,' or he craves cigarets, and he constantly suggests late 'luntheons'—not home made—just before he goes home from calling on me. I can't understand myself getting into such a rut. But I am in it. Perhaps it was his talk of how freely he spent his money before the depression, and incidentally before I knew him . . . also how he is going to make up for it all when he gets work.

"I wonder if he really cares for me—or is he playing me for a sap . . . sticking around for what he can get. If I thought that, I'd kick him to the other side of the continent . . . and myself, too, just to insure better judgment next time.

HAD ARGUMENTS

"That's what I really want to know. Do you think he would spend all his time . . . call me up constantly . . . ignore all the other girls, many of whom are fond of him and wouldn't mind his circumstances . . . introduce me to his mother, etc., if he really weren't in love with me? Would he do all that just for the sake of a few dimes?

"If he were really that sort, wouldn't he go after bigger game . . . older women, with real money? I happen to know that such are within his reach.

"Several times I've gotten irritated over this 'dole' system, and had big arguments with him. Then he'd swear he'd never take another dime of mine, and that he'd return every cent before he ever set foot inside my door again. But then he comes right back, and makes a 'last request' for ci-mah money.

"Honestly, I don't know what to think. Is he hopeless? Am I?

"ELLA."

There's the story.

What's the answer?

Would you put the Boy Friend on a Dole if he had a streak of hard luck? Or would you turn a deaf ear to his hints?

And how about you, Rufus—Sam?

Would you expect the Little Girl to give you a hand if you were down on your luck? Even though your bad luck went on and on and on? Or would you starve rather than take a nickel? Let's hear.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Toss Your Health Into the Fire of Anger

It is never advisable to become violently angry or unduly excited. The calm person is the one to be envied. His health is usually better than that of the average man.

Dr. Copeland

He lives longer than his more excitable brother.

On occasions I have told you how the stomach functions and how readily it is influenced by the nerves that supply its tissues. It is so complicated in structure and function there is no wonder it gets upset at times.

Now comes the statement of scientists who claim that rage and fear are fat consumers. This means that another factor is known to influence health.

Recent experiments on animals conducted at Yale University show that under strong emotion the blood absorbs unusual quantities of fuel. It was observed that the emotions, such as rage and fear, cause a burning up of fuel in the form of fat.

By careful study it was found that the fat content of the blood rises rapidly during deep emotion. Under such conditions the amount of fat consumed is tremendous, causing a marked loss to the body.

The fuel in the form of fat is stored under the skin. As a result of emotion, it is liberated into the bloodstream. It seems probable that the tissues of the body are given increased amounts of fat to supply the energy necessary for such states of mind.

From these studies it is logical to assume that the more emotional a person is the more fat he burns. The less emotional he is, the more fat he stores.

Our everyday observations would tend to confirm this theory. As a rule, certainly, the stout person is less emotional and less likely to become angered. Perhaps he is fat because he does not waste his body fuel by pouring it into the fire of anger.

It does seem to be the case, too, that many a person looks pinched and drawn after a spell of weeping, rage or fear. Anyhow, it is an interesting thing to think about.

Of course, it is difficult to control the emotions, but you will admit that angry never accomplishes any good. By exercising self-control, sudden outbursts of displeasure can be kept in check.

Your health and certainly your popularity will be greatly benefited by such control. If you are easily vexed try to overcome this weakness.

I would not have anybody so stolid as never to have the pleasure of joyous emotion. But the unpleasant effects of anger are damaging indeed.

stantly. Cook two minutes. Add butter, egg yolks and rind and juice of lemon. Place in individual baking dishes and cool slightly. Cover with meringue, return to oven and bake.

* * *

Beat white of egg stiff, add sugar gradually and continue beating. The lemon helps to keep us clean inside and to ward off disease.

* * *

PRUNE WHIP—One-third lb. prunes, 3 egg whites, ½ cup sugar, ½ tablespoon lemon juice.

Wash and soak prunes over night. Steam until soft. Remove the stones and mash thoroughly. Add the sugar and cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Cool, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and add lemon juice. Pile lightly in a buttered baking dish and bake 20 minutes in a slow oven. Serve cold with a soft custard. This is rich in iron and helps make rosy cheeks.

* * *

SOFT CUSTARD—One cup hot milk, 2 egg yolks, ¼-½ teaspoon vanilla or lemon, 3 tablespoons sugar, few grains salt.

Heat the milk. Beat the eggs just enough to mix them well, then stir the hot milk in slowly and add sugar and salt. Cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until the mixture coats the spoon. Remove from the fire at once, add flavoring and cool.

* * *

JELLIED CORN BEEF—Dissolve 1 package lemon gelatin in 1 cup boiling water, and ¾ cup cold water, ¼ cup vinegar and ½ teaspoon salt, and a few grains paprika. When cold and about to set fold in the cooked corned beef shredded or cut to small pieces. Mold. Serves six to eight. You may serve sauerkraut with the jellied corned beef with satisfaction.

* * *

BRAISED LIVER WITH VEGETABLES—Wipe liver with a damp cloth. Fry a small onion in fat salt pork. Put in the liver, half cover with hot stock, add 1 teaspoon salt, a little pepper and sprinkle with 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning. Cover closely and cook 20 minutes. Now add 1 cup small onions, 2 cups cooked carrots, 3 cups potato balls (parboiled 15 minutes), 1 tablespoon cubed celery. Add more stock if needed, cover and cook 35 minutes.

* * *

TENDERLOIN OF PORK, LYONNAISE—Five medium-sized pork tenderloins, 3 tablespoons shortening, 4 medium-sized onions, 1-6 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sifted flour, 2 tablespoons malt vinegar, 1 cup hot water.

Split open the pork tenderloins. Season to taste with pepper and salt. Heat shortening in a frying pan and add the tenderloins side by side and cook five minutes on each side or until well browned. Place on a platter and keep hot.

Cut 4 medium-sized onions in halves and slice in fine strips. Add to the pan and fry, gently stirring until a nice golden color. Add a little salt and sprinkle over a tablespoon flour and stir well, cooking 3 minutes.

Add vinegar and one cup hot water.

Put the tenderloins on top of the onions in the pan and set in the oven for 10 minutes. Serve smothered in the onions.

* * *

PINEAPPLE BROWN BETTY—Melt ¼ cup butter, add 2½ cups dry crumbs and brown slightly. Put alternately layers of crumbs, 1 can of crushed pineapple, and a ½ cup of brown sugar in a greased baking dish, having the top layer of crumbs. Bake in a hot, 400 degree oven 30 minutes, or until brown. Serve with cream. Enough for eight, if they aren't greedy!

* * *

PLANKED GROUND STEAK WITH BANANAS—One pound well ground beef chuck, 1 cup cooked breakfast food, 1 cup cracker crumbs, 1 small onion, minced fine, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons worchestershire sauce, ½ cup stock or milk, 4 bananas.

Mix all the ingredients except the bananas, and then mold the mixture into a large flat cake to fit the center of a plank. Dot with a few small bits of butter and set under the broiler. Cook for about 20 minutes, watching so that the surface does not get too brown. When done, arrange broiled bananas around the meat.

To prepare broiled bananas, remove the skins, cut in half crosswise, rub with a bit of lemon juice and butter, and place under the flame for three or four minutes. This recipe is sufficient for four persons. To make a more elaborate looking dish, baked stuffed tomatoes may be alternated with the bananas.

* * *

CORN CUSTARD—One can corn, 2 slightly beaten eggs, pint of milk, grated green pepper, ½ teaspoonful celery salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon butter.

Beat eggs slightly and stir into the corn. Then add the grated green pepper and gradually the milk and seasoning and butter. Stir well and bake in a pan of hot water till custard is firm.

* * *

YORKSHIRE PUDDING WITH ROAST BEEF—Mix ¼ teaspoon salt with ½ cup flour and add 1 cup milk gradually to form a smooth paste. Add 2 well-beaten eggs. Have a heavy pan very hot and pour into it fat which has accumulated in the pan in which the beef is roasting. There should be a half-inch layer of the fat. Pour the batter into this. Bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes; decrease the temperature toward the last. Cut into squares and serve on the platter around the roast.

* * *

ENGLISH BRAISED BEEF—Have 4 pounds of round of beef thickly larded and tied into shape. Season with salt, pepper, allspice and chopped onion. Brown well on all sides in fat, then add 2 cups stock, 2 onions, 1 carrot, 1 turnip, few sprigs of parsley, 1 cup canned tomatoes and 1 tablespoon cooking sherry. Cover closely and cook for three hours over a very low fire. Take up the meat. Strain the gravy through a fine sieve. Thicken with browned flour and serve over the meat.

Beef, lamb and mutton are the meats served most frequently in England. Pork and veal are eaten in the winter. England prefers mutton to lamb, whereas in America just the opposite is true.

* * *

RAISIN MUFFINS—Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 2-3 cup chopped raisins, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons fat, melted.

Mix ingredients and beat three minutes. Half fill greased muffin pans, bake 15 minutes in moderate oven. Serve warm with butter. Makes 12 muffins.

* * *

FROZEN CHEESE SALAD—1 cup salad dressing, ½ cup whipped cream, 1 cup cottage cheese, 3 tablespoons chopped celery, ½ cup broken pecans, 2 tablespoons chopped pimentos, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika.

Blend the ingredients with fork. Pour into tray in mechanical refrigerator; in four hours salad will be frozen. Cut in slices, arrange on crisp lettuce, top with more salad dressing.

This salad can be frozen by packing in a mold and surrounding with three parts chopped ice and one part coarse salt. It will require four hours to freeze. Serves six.

* * *

MARSHMALLOW FILLING—Half cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 2 egg yolks, 1¼ cups milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup diced marshmallows.

Blend sugar, flour and salt. Add yolks and milk. Cook in double boiler until filling becomes thick and creamy. Stir constantly while cooking. Cool. Add rest of ingredients. Use as filling between two baked cake layers. Cover with frosting or whipped cream.

* * *

ORANGE HOT RAISIN SAUCE—Three-quarter cup seedless raisins, 1 cup cold water, ½ tablespoon cornstarch, 1-3 cup sugar, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, 1-3 cup orange juice.

Place raisins with cold water in a saucepan and simmer five minutes or until soft. Add a pinch of salt, cornstarch and sugar which have been mixed together. Boil gently for 15 minutes. Add fruit juices. Reheat before serving.

* * *

TOMATO-OLIVE SAUCE—Two tablespoons chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 tablespoon cornstrach, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sugar, ¼ cup chopped olives.

Cook the peppers in the butter onion, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Scald the milk with onion, remove onion and thicken milk with flour diluted with cold water until thin enough to pour, being careful that the mixture is free from lumps. Cook 20 minutes in double boiler, stirring constantly at first. Cook tomatoes with sugar for 15 minutes, add soda and rub through sieve; add to milk. Add butter, salt and pepper.

* * *

PLAIN ANGEL FOOD CAKE—One cup egg whites (8 to 10 eggs), 1 cup sifted cake flour, ¾ teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon cream tartar, 1¼ cups sifted sugar, ¼ teaspoon almond extract. Sift flour once, measure and sift four more times. Beat egg whites and salt on a large platter with flat wire whisk. When foamy add cream of tartar and continue beating until the eggs are stiff enough to hold up in peaks but for 5 minutes. Add the tomatoes and seasonings and continue cooking for a few more minutes. Make a paste of the cornstarch with a little water and add to the sauce. Cook until slightly thickened, stirring. Add olives last.

* * *

Heat saucepan, add fat. When hot, turn in the rice, add paprika and brown until a light brown. Drain and pack into slightly buttered, small timbale molds and let stand in hot water in moderate oven for 10 minutes.

* * *

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP—Two cans tomatoes, 2 teaspoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon soda, 1 quart of milk, 1-3 cup butter, 1 sliced not dry. Fold in sugar carefully 2 tablespoons at a time, until all is used. Fold in flavoring. Then sift small quantity of flour over mixture, fold in carefully, continue until all is used. Pour batter into ungreased angel food pan and bake at least 1 hour in slow oven. Begin at 275 degrees F and after 30 minutes increase (325 degrees F). Remove from the oven and invert pan for 1 hour or until cold.

Outsiders Fired From City Jobs In Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Fifteen city employes were notified of their dismissal October 15 on the grounds that they did not live in the city limits as demanded by Civil Service rules. Notification was given by the Civil Service Commission after investigations of several weeks.

Commissioner Herbert W. Salus said several more employes would be ousted. He charged many of them gave Philadelphia addresses, and even voted in the wards near the addresses, while they actually lived elsewhere.

BROADWAY CALLS -:- Blonde Actress Considers Return to Footlights -:- AMUSEMENTS -:- Stage and Screen Gossip; New Film Reviewed

Ina Claire, After Few Films And Plenty Publicity, Returns to Stage

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.

With only possible retakes between her and a trip to New York, the blonde star is seriously considering another adventure behind the footlights. She has several offers, but won't decide until she gets on the scene.

This may be within two or three weeks, as "The Greeks Had a Word for It" is now in the cutting-room for the initial assembly. Presumably it will have to wait the verdict of the critics in case you're call a film the star was to make for R-K-O is will not be coming up until February or March. If Ina gets a satisfactory stage part, further postponements could be arranged.

Ina Claire

Come to think of it, Ina has achieved a lot of prominence not here on mighty few actual picture assignments. She did "The Awful Truth" and "Rebound" for Paramount, "The Royal Family of Broadway" for Paramount and "The Greeks Had a Word for It" for Goldwyn.

ANOTHER ZIEGFELD"

Some people say Samuel Goldwyn is as good a picker as Florenz Ziegfeld, with whom he was associated in the screen version of "Whoopee."

Undeniably he made a fortune out of Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky.

Then the Goldwyn School of Younger Players is collapsing admirably. Greta Grandstaff has the second lead in Willie Lightner's new picture. Barbara Weeks is in Fox's "Stepping Sisters." Frances Dean is playing leads at Educational and Shirley Gray has just finished her third picture with Richard Dix.

GOSSIP AND WORSE

Janet Gaynor, Husband Lydell Peck and Janet's mother are going to Europe etc many weeks have passed. . . . More winter travelers abroad will be Charles Farrell and Virginia Valli. . . . Hermann Mankiewicz sponsored a stag backgammon party the other evening at which every player chipped in $10. The prize, a silver ice-bucket, was won by Maurice Revnes, actor's agent. . . .

Janet Gaynor

Another original idea—they gave Louise Dressler a surprise birthday party in the Fred Harvey House at San Bernardino . . . within two months Hollywood studios will release 40 football subjects. . . . Harold Lloyd starts shooting November 1. . . . Victor McLaglen, who once toured in a vaudeville act offering anyone $50 to knock him out, has built a boxing arena at his Flintridge home. . . . Do you care that Lil Dagover wears a size 3 shoe, or that Marilyn Miller's is only a half size larger? . . . Victor Schertzinger has written a song called "Qurinda" for Dolores Del Rio to sing in "The Dove." . . . It comes to my ear that Dorothy Lee is practically subsidizing the telephone company with long distance calls to Fred Waring. . . . Abe Lyman got that engagement ring back from Thelma Todd. . . .

Love and Law

Madge Evans has the heroine role in "Guilty Hands," a drama of love and law, now on the Fulton screen. It stars Lionel Barrymore.

Wager

If I were you I would be slow to boast
That you can leave unscathed from our romance;
If you are wise you will not run to post
The final totals in the book of chance;
When two have shared the season's shifting moods—
The rain of Spring—the Summer's slow decay—
And tasted all of love's sustaining foods—
The die is cast—and reason slinks away.

Oh, you are young at love and slow to feel
The fevered brand that all who lose must wear;
Old scenes drift back—old waltzes come to steal
The arrogance that you are loath to spare;

And you will wake some long and eerie night—
To spend your tears and murmur: "He was right!"
—Kid Kazanova.

Anecdote

Leonard Golos offers the one about the New Yorker paying his first visit to California, the land of eternal sunshine and advertising. He passed a field ripe with honeydews. In honest exclamation he chirped:

"Marvelous melons, eh?"

"No," was the indifferent native son's reply, "gooseberries."

As they passed an apple orchard in full bloom he said:

The Californian squelched him with:

"Merely crab-apples."

When the pair got to the Pacific Ocean, the New Yorker was fed up. He casually observed:

"I see someone's radiator has been leaking."

Eavesdropped

Show Manager: "There are two kinds of dramatic critics. Constructive and destructive. You are destructive!"

George Jean Nathan: "And there are two kinds of guns. Krupp and pop!"

Form of Criticism

Golly!

"Things are tougher in Chicago," writes Richard Irving. "I saw 20 people reading your column over the shoulder of an unemployed bank president, who had picked up the paper from the gutter after it had blown out of the hands of a former store executive, who had borrowed it from a press agent who had stolen it from a starving newsboy!"

Heheheh

They tell it on Willie Collier, Sr., who is in Hollywood and was unhappy over a very small role in a new picture. He sulked when the director came over.

"Where's your part?" thundered the director.

Oop!

The Big Idea along Broadway, of course, is to be able to snap back breezily at your flippantormentors.

George Jessel usually tops his antagonists, but Groucho Marx proved too much for him at a show the other night. Jessel had invited Groucho Marx on the stage to say a few unkind words. Marx, it appears, made it a long talk.

"Here, here," interrupted Jessel, "if you gab much longer I'll have to pay the musicians overtime."

Imagine

Not long ago he prospered quickly with a few hit plays. He is broke now. The stock market took him for one million.

Before that happened, however, he had a chance to make $300,000 with a film firm, who wanted his counsel in producing a play of his own on the screen. After signing the agreement, he thought he had another hit show, so he begged off and they agreed to destroy the contract.

Another firm wanted to pay him $250,000 a year just for his suggestions at their conferences. He laughed at the offer.

Last week he made the rounds of the ticket brokers trying to bottom $1,000 here and $1,000 there to stage a new play.

You've Met Him

And there's a guy on Broadway who is so accustomed to exaggerating that when he dials a phone number he adds two handicaps.

Izzy Elinsonisms

So Capodar is cutting salaries? Well, his men can stand the cut better than the stuff he sells. . . . Aaa, times are not so bad. The feller who is always sticking his 2 cents in is now welcome. . . . When you get the wrong number, succeeds an ad often gum.

Guild Star

Lynn Fontanne will appear in the Nixon next week in the Theater Guild's production of Robert E. Sherwood's play, "Reunion in Vienna."

Gag

Among other sillies is the one that is supposed to have happened in the Flea Circus on 42d St. One of the side shows was cheating, a customer complained. He paid his money and wanted everything.

"What's wrong?" asked the manager of the place.

"You'll have to excuse him today," was the sassy answer, "the Fat Lady is using him for a garter."

Eddie Dowling Picture Opens in Sheridan

The screen version of "Honeymoon Lane" opens in the Sheridan Square today on its first presentation in Pittsburgh. It will remain for three days. Eddie Dowling is the star. The cast includes Ray Dooley, Raymond Hatton, June Collyer, Mary Carr and Noah Beery.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

When "Reunion in Vienna" opens the Theater Guild season in the Nixon Monday, we shall be treated—perhaps "edified" would be a shower word under the circumstances—by the appearance of Helen Westley in the cast. Miss Westley is one of the six directors of the guild, which, beginning as a venture entirely local to New York, has developed into our nearest approach to a National Theater. She has appeared in nearly all of the Guild productions. Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne are the stars of "Reunion in Vienna," which is to have its premiere here.

How Do Nurses Manage?

The strenuous duties of the trained nurse permit little thought of her own physical condition or feelings. There can be no giving in to monthly pains! That is the reason why so many nurses use Midol. They know it blocks all possibility of such pain for hours—and nurses know that it is not a narcotic and so is quite safe to take at this critical time.

Midol is not merely a measure of relief it does not interfere with regular flow. All pain subsides in seven minutes! All dread of your monthly sickness ends with this happy discovery. Any drug store. Ask simply for Midol

Novel Story Of Murder In Fulton

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Guilty Hands" opened yesterday on the Fulton screen. And rigor-mortis is the inspiration for it all.

If you think there's nothing very inspiring about the rigidity of the muscles that occurs at death, you'd never make a good undertaker—or a dramatist. You should see what Playwright Bayard Villeir, Actor Lionel Barrymore and Director W. S. Van Dyke have done with the idea.

The picture proves itself a murder story that is different. It holds an element of suspense all the way. And it builds, thanks to good old rigor-mortis, to a smash climax.

JUSTIFIED MURDER?

The plot concerns a criminal attorney who believes, in an impersonal sort of way, that some murders are justifiable. Then, when his daughter's happiness is threatened, his belief becomes personal. So he kills a man.

In fairness to you, this is all we're going to disclose about the story. We can add, however, that he manages to elude the police, but that retribution sets in with rigor-mortis at the finale.

Lionel Barrymore is a forceful study as the criminal attorney. He goes about his murder with ironic humor. He commands your attention every minute.

THE BARRYMORE ART

This Mr. Barrymore knows more about the dramatic art than any half of Hollywood. He ranks with the exceptional few—George Arliss, Edward G. Robinson and, perchance, one or two others. He can present a theatrical performance, without being theatrical. There is more expression in his eyes than there is opening in Joe E. Brown's mouth.

Madge Evans, who has a touch of the Chatterton manner in her speech, and Kay Francis are prominent in a capable supporting cast.

Mr. Barrymore is said to have assisted in the direction of the film, and a cleverly conceived opening sequence seems to have the Barrymore mark. However, much of the air of foreboding and mystery about the production apparently comes from Mr. Van Dyke. He learned the "feel" of such things in the African jungle, you know, filming "Trader Horn."

La Colbert in Version Of Broadway Play

"Top o' the Hill," Charles Kenyon's Broadway stage success, has been purchased by Paramount and will be filmed in Hollywood under the title, "Uncertain Women," with Claudette Colbert and William Boyd heading the cast. The play was a starring vehicle last season for Catherine Wilson of "Seventh Heaven" fame and is the story of a film star whose part becomes a boomerang against her happiness.

MUSIC

Seth Parker
SYRIA MOSQUE

Seth Parker and his Jonesport Neighbors drew a full house in Syria Mosque last night. Thousands of his radio patrons joined in singing familiar hymns, giggled at his back-country wise cracks, and wept at his sentimental stories and then on their way home bought up his hymnbooks to continue their devotions.

J. Fred Lissfelt

In a setting that made the "Old Homestead" and "Abie's Irish Rose" America's popular plays, Phillips Lord, who is Seth Parker, introduces well-known types of the Maine countryside. There is the cozy mother, the deaf spinster, the acrid busybody and her lout of a brother, the sea captain, a sentimental lover or two, and a juvenile.

Through two acts of a home song service the troupe introduces hymn after hymn by the most naive motivation imaginable. It is bringing the church into the theater, only the voices are far more charming than the usual congregational singing. As entertainment the performance dragged unduly, and musically it belonged to the eighties.

Strange music lovers in Pittsburgh! Last night a full house, and the greatest symphony orchestra in the world come to us and play to vacant seats.

Blood Pressure May Be Reduced

High blood pressure is not only dangerous, but entails suffering which often is needless. But you can get rid of the kidney and bladder weakness, blinding headaches, back breaking pains and torturing nerve tension while reducing pressure.

Ask your druggist for a box of Wildunger Tee, which contains valuable mineral salts from the famous health springs at Wildunger Bad in Germany. The very first box often brings grateful, comforting relief.

A New York doctor while traveling in Germany was so impressed with the results thousands were securing from this great kidney and bladder activator that he brought Wildunger Tee to this country. Many American doctors now prescribe it and report that its benefits are equally surprising here.

Tim McCoy on Second In Picture Series

TO DELAY SIGNING OF NEW MANAGER

KNOWN FOR MANY weeks as being certain to come at the end of the season, the release of Jewel Ens as manager of the Pirates, first forecast in the Sun Telegraph in August, caused no surprise among the fans of the Pittsburgh district. But it did cause a stir as betokening the first big step in the making over of the local club for 1932 and the appointment of Ens' successor, with the other changes that may be expected to follow when the managerial post has been filled, will be awaited with much interest.

Jewel Ens

Though George Gibson has been understood to have the inside track for the vacancy, President Barney Dreyfuss refuses to admit this and declares he will not make a definite selection until he has looked over the entire field of available. He says he is determined to avoid the risk of closing with one man in haste and learning afterward that he could have landed a more desirable pilot. So the identity of the new skipper will not be announced at any early date, possibly not for a month or longer, and no trading of players will be attempted until after that time.

THE DECISION NOT to close with Gibson or anybody else as long as a chance remains that a better prospect may be found available will be generally approved. The club needs new life and fight with a driving force that will get the best results out of the players and it would be a mistake to make a hasty choice when there is a possibility that additional men will be open for consideration later.

From the personal angle it was not without a feeling of regret that local fans received the official announcement of the passing of Ens. It is realized that he was handicapped by numerous bad breaks in trying to make the club a winner and besides, personally, he is one of the finest fellows in baseball and well liked by players and fans alike after 10 years of faithful service here as player, coach and manager.

WITH THE EXCEPTION of Capt. Pie Traynor and Sunset Bill Hinchman, Ens was the oldest man on the playing roll of the Pittsburgh club in point of service. Of the players who were wearing Pirate uniforms under Manager George Gibson, when Jewel joined the Bucs in 1922, only Traynor remains.

The catchers that year were Schmidt, Gooch, Mattox and Jonnard. The pitchers were Cooper, Glazner, Morrison, Adams, Carlson, Hamilton, Yellow Horse, Zinn, Wheeler, Hollingsworth and Brown. The infielders, in addition to Traynor, were Maranville, Grimm, Tierney, Stewart and Hammond, and the outfielders were Carey, Barbee, Russell, Mokan, Mueller, Rohwer, Miller, Lavelave, McNamara and Merwether. Cuyler came up in the fall, but was used only as a pinch-runner.

ENS PASSES ON as the seventeenth manager the Pittsburgh club has had in its 45 seasons in the National League. He joins a long line of former Pirate skippers, made up of Horace Phillips, Ed Hanlon, Guy Hecker, Bill McGunnigle, Al Buckenberger, Tom Burns, Connie Mack, Pat Donovan, William Watkins, Fred Clarke, Jimmy Callahan, Honus Wagner, Hugo Bezdek, George Gibson, Bill McKechnie and Donie Bush. Hanlon, Buckenberger and Donovan each served two separate engagements. Succeeding Donie Bush on August 28, 1929, Ens landed the Rovers in second place that season, and in fifth position in 1930 and 1931. During his regime, the club won 176 games and lost 167, a percentage of .513.

Al DeLucca

THE MAIN TASK of the Dukes in their gridiron debute with West Virginia Wesleyan at Forbes Field tonight will be to check the operations of Cliff Battles at halfback, Joe Beveridge at fullback and Fred Crites at guard. There's a trio that would keep any opponent busy, and the remainder of the team also has plenty of strength.

In meeting the brilliant Battles, the Bluffites will offer a counter threat, as they have a new running star of their own this year in Halfback Al DeLucca. The Blairsville sophomore bids fair to make as much trouble for the Bob Cats as Battles makes for the Laydens. He's one of the most promising new players of the year in this region.

PLAYING TWO YEARS at Notre Dame without ever being in a losing game caused Marty Brill to contract such a football urge that he just can't get enough of the gridiron sport. His next move will be to take a flier at the pro game.

Brill now assistant backfield coach at Columbia, has been approached by the Philadelphia Yellow Jackets and at the completion of the college season the king of hockers will join the professional league eleven of his home city.

THEY MAY CALL Pepper Martin the babe of the 1931 baseball derby, as well as its dominant figure, but as a matter of fact he was in a world series before Cochrane, or Simmons, or Foxx, or Grove, or Earnshaw, or any other member of the A's except Waite Heyt, and before Gelbert, or Hallahan, or Roettger, or Watkins of his own team. For though it appears to have escaped general notice, this isn't the first time that the Oklahoma broncho has sniffed world series smoke.

IT WASN'T MUCH of a part he played, nevertheless Martin was in the title stakes of 1928 long enough to score a run. That was the series in which the Yankees cleaned up in four straight games against the Cardinals the year before the A's started their present string of pennants.

Pepper was sent in to run for Earl Smith after the latter had singled to open the ninth inning of the fourth and final game. He ran to second base and then to third unmolested before Rabbit Maranville popped out to Mark Koenig, and scored while Koenig was throwing out Watty Holm.

THE LAST TIME Jock Sutherland and Greasy Neale met on the gridiron as opposing coaches was way back on November 4, 1922, when Neale's W. & J. team beat Sutherland's Lafayette eleven in an upset game at the Polo Grounds in New York.

The Presidents beaten later that year by Pitt, Detroit and West Virginia, had just been tied by Carnegie Tech and held to 14 points by West Virginia Wesleyan. Lafayette was rated one of the strong teams of the East and had won five games impressively, including a victory over Pitt.

Greasy Neale

BUT THE FINAL score showed Neale's team on top, 14 to 13, a missed goal after touchdown accounting for the Lafayette defeat. This year finds the two mentors in a similar position as they prepare for their battle at the Stadium here tomorrow. Optimistic Pitt fans are predicting a great season for their eleven, much to the disgust of those on the inside, while West Virginia has already lost one game. Also, in view of the way Pitt has been missing points after touchdowns, there looms the possibility that a slip of that sort may prove costly to the Panthers tomorrow, just as it did to Lafayette nine years ago. Only three goals kicked out of 13 attempts is the Pitt record so far, but Jim MacMurdo, with two out of three against Iowa last week, promises to boost the percentage a trifle.

By JESS CARVER

Stacked to the rafters with the formidable Cliff Battles, the formidable gridiron array of West Virginia Wesleyan battles the Dukes of Duquesne under the lights at Forbes Field tonight.

Ed Riley

Special trimmers for the 13-7 setback suffered at the hands of the Lavelave-coached eleven a year back and the first triumph of the 1931 campaign.

So far Washington and Jefferson and New York University have taken the measure of the Bobcats. Their 54-0 defeat at the hands of the Violets last Saturday was the worst and the financial aspect of tonight's game, but if you folks only realized that the Cats have been holding back against the big fellows saving their personnel for the more important tussles against eleven more in their class, you'd realize that this Battles fella and one or two other individual members of the Bobcat caste are ready to go tonight. The Dukes are in for a tough evening, make no mistake about that.

DUKES BATTERED

The Dukes have had three tough ball games to date, against Geneva, West Virginia and Ogle thorpe. The squad has been more or less badly battered. Coach Lavelave is not satisfied in his own mind as to just what sort of a combination he'll toss against the visitors tonight, but may make some changes in his first eleven. He may use Weinberg and Marcon, Antoon at the guards, with DeCosler at quarterback in the place of either Bud Devenney or

Baseball's Highest Salaried Player

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—Well here we are back in St. Louis for the sixth round of the battle between Pepper Martin and the team which ran away with the American League pennant. I know that Gabby Street and his players will take no offense at this remark. If so they'll have to blame that Pepper pot for keeping them all in the background through the first five games of the series. He has also kept the Mackmen in the background.

I talked with several of the A's shortly after reaching here and they seemed confident but that won't win ball games unless there's good pitching and some base hits to go with it.

I look to see Earnshaw start. He showed himself in great form by allowing only eight hits in his two games. He has had all the rest he needs and I will be surprised if he is not the starter.

Grove has not looked good in this series, but nobody else would get the call over him for the final game if Earnshaw should beat the Cardinals today.

So far the Cardinals have played much better baseball than the A's and have deserved the lead which they enjoy. They are a better team than I figured they were before the series.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE OLDEST HOUSE IN THE UNITED STATES—Almost 400 years ago, the great Spanish conquistador, Coronado, who was the first white man to explore any of the southwestern region of the United States, established his headquarters on the land that is now within the boundaries of Santa Fe, N. M. The oldest house, built of stone and mud, originally was the home of the Indian Chief of Tiguex. Subsequent to 1540, Coronado and many other governors occupied this unique house until the Old Palace was built, about 1620. This aged edifice still stands in Sante Fe and is one of the historic attractions of that city.

COLLEGE BOXING IS DISCUSSED

Dr. W. D. McClelland, local member of the State Athletic Commission, met with representatives of Pitt, Carnegie Tech, Waynesburg, Duquesne and Penn State yesterday afternoon in the Athletic Commission offices to discuss the coming collegiate boxing and wrestling season. The state comish has jurisdiction over the collegians.

Attending the meeting were Buddy Overend, of Tech; John Holohan, of Duquesne; Hugo Bezdek, of Penn State; Jim Miller, of Waynesburg, and Jimmy Hagan, of Pitt.

Commissioner McClelland explained the boxing commission rules and regulations to the collegians, and pointed out various situations with which they would have to become familiar and with which they might have to cope.

The matter of the state tax of 5 per cent on the gross receipts of all boxing and wrestling shows was taken up. It was pointed out that schools holding boxing bouts in connection with basketball games would be liable to a 5 per cent deduction of the total gate, which in the case of the Pitt-West Virginia game, might work a hardship on the Panthers. Pitt has scheduled a boxing show as an added attraction to the first Mountaineer-Panther court clash.

The college officials departed well satisfied with the attitude of the commission, as outlined by McClelland. The commission wishes to work in harmony with the college group, and will do everything in its power to aid and assist the college teams.

The Tipoff

There are lines of worry creasing the otherwise placid countenance of Vic Hanson, Syracuse's head football coach, this week as he preps his Orangemen for the clash with Ohio Wesleyan tomorrow. The schools have met on the gridiron three times, and the Syracusians have yet to gain a win, having been tied twice and beaten once.

Wesleyan will use George Flint at one of the guard positions against Syracuse, and in the stalls will be George's father, who just happens to be the chancellor at Syracuse. What a swell spot Flint Sr. will be in when it comes to rooting!

Charley h. i. is having his troubles with his centers at Texas City. At the start of the season he figured he was all set for snapperbacks, with Tom Carnahan and Bill Hache, but Bill was injured and is out for the season, and now Carnahan must carry on alone. Berry has been experimenting with Rayler, a relief fullback; Plance, a guard; Kelly, a freshman lineman, and Rosequist, a regular tackle, in an effort to develop a capable understudy for Carnahan.

In addition to doing most of the ball carrying against the Dukes here tonight, Gyp Battles, husky West Virginia Wesleyan halfback, will also call the signals. The two Bachtels, Art, at right half, and Howard, at quarter, and Beveridge, at fullback, will complete the backfield quartet.

JEWEL GIVEN RELEASE AS BUC PILOT

Baseball fans were not surprised to learn today that Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates, has been given his unconditional release by President Barney Dreyfuss, of the local National League club.

Although Ens has been manager of the Bucs only since he succeeded Owen Bush late in the season of 1929, he has worn Pittsburgh livery, first as a player, then as coach and later as pilot for the last 10 years, and severs his affiliation with the Dreyfuss organization on the best of terms.

In 1930 his team suffered from the absence of Lloyd Waner early in the season, and later Capt. Pie Traynor and Ens finished the race in fifth place. It was the first time in 12 years a local club had failed to make the grade in the first division. This year, further casualties, particularly the illnesses of Heinie Meine and Ervin Brame and Steve Swetonic's injury handicapped him, and again he finished in the second group.

GIBSON ON INSIDE TRACK

Rumors that George Gibson, who managed the Bucs in the past, is said to have the inside track as Ens' successor. The Pirate management, however, remains silent on the matter.

Ens is expected to align himself with another major league club, either as manager or coach, before the 1932 season is under way. Unquestionably, he will receive many offers now that his services definitely are for sale.

He was born in St. Louis, August 24, 1889, learned the game at school, played on the sandlots, had his pro start as an infielder with the Dallas club, of the Texas League, in 1911, which he managed the following year. In 1913 he played with Providence, and in 1914 with Chattanooga, after which he returned to Dallas, where he remained until 1920, when he was sent to Houston.

SIGNED IN 1921

The former Buc pilot was signed by the Cardinals in 1921, and was sent to Syracuse, from which club the Pirates purchased his release the same fall.

He was used to fill in at almost all of the infield positions, playing each with brilliancy. Then he was given coaching duties and finally the managerial reins.

Ens returned yesterday with Manager Bill McKechnie, of the Braves, and A. K. Rowswell from viewing world series games in St. Louis and Philadelphia. He will remain in Pittsburgh for some time with Mrs. Ens and their children.

GISH PAYS VISIT TO HARRISON

Herb Gish, who, of course, has been nicknamed Lillian and Dorothy, the astute young graduate manager of athletics at the University of Nebraska, dropped off here yesterday on his way back from South Africa, where he spent the past three months touring with the all-star U. S. track and field squad.

Herb Gish

Herb paid a visit to W. Don Harrison, the athletic chief at Pitt, checking arrangements for the game here Thanksgiving between the Panthers and Cornhuskers, and also was the guest of Dick Shrum, of the P. A. A., for dinner. While here, Gish also renewed acquaintances with some of us who have visited him at Nebraska during the past three years while traveling with the Pitt eleven.

Gish had many an interesting tale to tell of his experiences with the track team. While in Africa he took a pot shot or two at some very, very wild game, lions and rhinoceros and such.

"I spent a flock of anxious moments," he related, "picking my way through jungles with a gun three times as heavy as I could carry and with a kick that I know would have knocked me from here to there and back again, looking for something to shoot. Finally, I trained my sites on a slow, cautiously moving form in the thicket ahead and was just about to pull the trigger when who should poke his head out, but one of the track athletes, who'd wound up getting lost."

Gish departed for Lincoln last night and will be with his beloved Huskers when they tackle Oklahoma tomorrow. He's a swell feller.—JESS CARVER.

CONNIE TO RELY ENTIRELY ON PITCHING SKILL

By CONNIE MACK,
Manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, Winners of Five World Titles.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—We are back in St. Louis and resume the series this afternoon on the Cardinals' own field.

Connie Mack

I realize that seven-tenths of the baseball population are saying today that our chances of retaining the world title are remote because the Cardinals have won three games while we have only two to our credit. That's a difference of one game.

My answer to this is that at no time in this series have I felt surer of the Athletics winning than I do now. I will make the unqualified prediction that we will win two games here and get back in Philadelphia on Sunday with another big trophy in our possession.

The reasons are Grove and Earnshaw. I have my two best shots available for the remaining games. I won't say which one will pitch today, but I will say frankly that the great left hander and the lionhearted right hander will do all my pitching for the rest of the series.

DEPENDS ON HURLERS

Grove won the first game in St. Louis and was beaten in Philadelphia. I think he will outdo all of his previous efforts, when I use him a second time in St. Louis, and I also have no doubt that Earnshaw will come back with another marvelous game, as he pitched in Philadelphia.

Pitchers mean everything in a world series, and I have the two best in the country for my final games. That is why I am so confident we will win.

It does not matter who the Cardinals use in the next two games. They will be beaten. Neither Grimes nor Hallahan can win for them again, and we will hit Derringer harder than in the first game if he is used.

CONFIDENCE IN TEAM

As a matter of fact, I am paying no attention to any moves St. Louis might make. I am thinking of the Athletics alone, and know that they will come back and play the kind of ball that swept everything before them since 1929.

It is true that we have not hit to form so far, but we will click in St. Louis in the rest of the games. You simply can't keep players of their skill and power in check very long.

I want to give Pepper Martin every credit for the spectacular ball he has been playing, but I am not worrying about him. He will fall with the rest of the Cardinals in this series.

DATTO TO MAKE LOW WEIGHT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Johnny Datto, Filipino featherweight, of Cleveland, who meets Mose Butch, of Oakland, in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden Monday night, may find that he has undertaken a big assignment in agreeing to make 122 pounds, give or take a pound. He likes to fight at 124 to 126 pounds, and if he weakens himself to make the lower limit he may find himself in a tight spot against the rugged and hard-hitting Butch.

Butch is working out hard daily for the battle and believes he has a big chance to upset the dope and beat Datto the same as he did against Jackie Rodgers recently.

Between Rounds

Cuddy DeMarco is back in training in McKeesport and plans to continue boxing. He will be under the management of Joe Dubrawski, who also has added Johnny Demko, of Steubenville, to his string of boxers.

Jack Barry was very much pleased with the treatment given him by the State Athletic Commission at his hearing before the board in Philadelphia Wednesday at which he decided to give up the club in Erie at which he has been promoting bouts rather than part with Frankie Majarski, his undefeated lightweight. The commission told Barry that if at any time he changed his mind and decided to quit managing to promote again he would be granted a license to do so, in view of his fine record.

WESLEYAN STAR HERE TONIGHT

PHOTOS by Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

CLIFF BATTLES . . . DUKES WILL HAVE TO WATCH HIM

THOMAS BEATS SILVERBERG

Jimmy Thomas, classy Negro bantamweight of this city, turned in an easy 10-round victory over Pinkey Silverberg, New York Jewish fighter, last night, in the main bout at the Palisades, McKeesport.

Thomas, bringing into use an aggressive style, had the better of the argument all the way, although toward the finish, Silverberg staged a belated rally. Jimmy's lead was so great, however, that the visitor was unable to overcome it.

The fight was a slow one due, in a large way, to Silverberg's refusal to open up and fight. He stayed strictly on the defensive throughout, being content to block, duck and tie up Thomas in the clinches.

As early as the third round, Referee Al Grayber warned Silverberg to do more fighting, and repeated the warning at the end of the sixth when the fans began to move towards the exits.

Thomas took the first seven rounds by wide margins, captured the ninth, while the eighth and tenth sessions were even. He weighed 120¾, against 119¼ for Silverberg.

The best bout was the six-round semi-final in which Teddy Welch and Marty McHale, both of the Tube City, battled to an official draw. Both boys put forth their best efforts to score a knockout, but were on their feet at the final bell. Welch came in at 146½, while McHale scaled 143¾.

Jimmy Scott, Tube City Negro, and Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton, fought to a draw in the second bout, although Scott appeared to be the winner.

Petey John, of Pittsburgh, 119¼, defeated Young Lowstetter, McKeesport, 118¾, in the curtain-raiser.

Three Tie for Top Honors in Shoot

Low visibility greatly handicapped gunners in the post-season shoot of the Western Pennsylvania Trapshooters League at the Wilkinsburg Gun Club yesterday. Three tied for high honors with scores of 95. They were W. Melchi, Charles E. Campbell and Dr. Howder. Each smashed 95 clays out of 100. Paul Frye was fourth with 94.

In the handicap Dr. Holland was high gun with a score of 47. Dr. Sarver, of Windber, Pa., was second with 45. Show money went to W. Edwards, Gabimas Gill and Otto Nadolny, who scored 44.

Chicago Hockey Club To Train at Arena

The Chicago National Hockey League team has made arrangements with the local International League ice club for the use of the Arena for training as well as agreeing on a player proposition which gives Pittsburgh first call on all Hawks athletes. W. J. Tobin, Chicago's new manager, made the arrangements.

Chicago, aside from training here, will meet the Jackets in exhibition contests November 7 and 10. The Hawks will arrive next Thursday, with the locals starting drills a week later.

The Coach's Viewpoint

By Howard Harpster

I look for a great game when Notre Dame and Northwestern hook up at Soldier Field, Chicago, tomorrow before the largest crowd of the year so far, and plan to be on hand to take in the spectacle . . . You will recall that last year the Irish were successful in turning back Dick Hanley's players only after one of the hardest-played games of the season . . . Twice during the first half Northwestern fumbled the ball inside Notre Dame's three-yard line on first down, and Notre Dame recovered on both occasions . . . Many who witnessed the game were of the opinion that the fumbles saved the Irish from their first defeat in two seasons.

Howard Harpster

An interesting sidelight of the big game tomorrow is the fact that the coaches, Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, and Hunk Anderson, of Notre Dame, have no love for each other . . . Each will be out doing his best to show up the other one . . . Besides, the team which wins tomorrow has an excellent chance to go through the season undefeated.

I learned to know Dick Hanley quite well when he assisted Andy Kerr in coaching the All-East team . . . He is a large, deep-voiced, driving type of a coach who believes in teaching the type of football play wherein power predominates . . . He is smart and aggressive, has turned out some very powerful teams and likely will make it quite interesting for Notre Dame tomorrow.

At the Stadium, Dr. Sutherland's fine-looking Panther team will play host to West Virginia . . . Judging only from the showings made so far by each team, it looks like Pitt, and by maybe two or three touchdowns . . . Carnegie Tech already has left for Atlanta, where it takes on Georgia Tech . . . Last year, Steffen's team walked all over the boys from the South and ran up a decisive score here . . . But that was 12 months ago . . . Since then a transition has taken place out Skibo way and Carnegie is caught in the depression . . . If the team doesn't win tomorrow it looks like a long, long fall, what with Purdue, Notre Dame, Pitt, Temple and New York University to be met.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

SZWEDKO NEAR GOLF FINAL

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Medalist Andy Szwedko is competing against George Olsen, and Harry Long is engaging 16-year-old Walter Grant in the Helping Hand golf tourney semi-final round at the South Park county links this morning. The victors in the penultimate round battle this afternoon for the top prize in the charity affair.

Consistently poor golf weather yesterday put a chill on the program, but Szwedko put out a member of this year's Pittsburgh team to the national public links championship, Harry Ramsay, 1 up, in the first round, and George Murray, 3 and 2, in the first. Olsen beat Vincent Lyon by default, and then worked to top J. Burdick, 2 and 1.

MRS. HAYS ELECTED

Long eliminated C. M. Harder, 2 and 1, and A. Shatta, 1 up, 19 holes, while Grant upset E. McCalin, 3 and 2, and R. Stutt, 1 up.

At the annual meeting of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania, held yesterday at the Longue Vue Club, Mrs. George L. Hays, of Oakmont, was elected president to succeed Mrs. F. M. Sloan, of Edgewood.

Mrs. Chester H. Lehman, Westmoreland, was made first vice president; Mrs. J. A. Ellen, Field Club, second vice president, and Mrs. Hugh C. Anderson, Longue Vue, third vice president.

Mrs. W. F. McCrady, Edgewood, and Miss Anna S. Wood, Stanton Heights, kept their posts as secretary and treasurer, respectively. The executive committee includes: Mrs. F. E. Arensberg, Oakmont; Mrs. J. F. Walton, Fox Chapel; Mrs. D. A. Gaither, Stanton Heights; Mrs. H. F. Rook, Aspinwall, and Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, Allegheny C. C.

SENIORS TO PLAY

Mrs. F. L. Saunders, of Youghiogheny, and Katherine MacCloskey, of Longue Vue, with gross 101, led the field in the handicap tourney held in conjunction with the event. Low net prize went to Mrs. T. E. Griffin, of St. Clair, with 111-29-82.

Secretary-Treasurer John W. Carr, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, has announced next Thursday as the date for the club's senior championship. Included in the party will be the club's annual "Schlachtfest," which will include all members of the club.

FOUR CENTRAL LOOP GAMES ON TAP

GAMES TOMORROW

PITTSBURGH CENTRAL LEAGUE
Westinghouse at Rovers (Brannigan).
German Sport at Tarentum (McArdle).
Clan Douglas at Union Switch (Corns).
Pittsburgh Celtics at National Tube (Simpson).

PANHANDLE LEAGUE
Sturgeon at Houston (Thomas).

By TOM BIRKS

With the Clan Douglas-at-Union Switch contest leading the list of four soccer games tomorrow, fans following the Central Soccer League should see a real afternoon's sport.

Switch and Clan Douglas are jointly leading the loop, and the former team is classed as the outstanding contender for the crown now worn by the latter.

Can the Union Switch attacking line keep up its scoring against Craig, McDonald and Bobby Marshall, all seasoned defenders? Can the Switch defense maintain its clean slate with such sharp shooters against them as Duff and Meir?

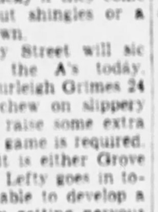
The German Sport Club is to be at Tarentum, which indicates the Reissmann club will gather another victory, if previous form means anything. The Pittsburgh Rovers should break into the win column at the expense of Westinghouse.

MACKS' CHANCES DIMINISH

By NICK ALTROCK
Baseball's Funny Man

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—Well, folks, I am back in St. Louis with the other experts, and this series can go on till Thanksgiving, as long as we get that free grub. For Thanksgiving I got another dinner invitation, but I am open for bids after that.



Nick Altrock

Those baseball scribblers can sure tuck away food, but you can hardly blame them. For the next few weeks four-fifths of the experts who picked the A's will be eating their words. Of course, the Cards have not snatched the series yet, but right now Connie Mack's chances are the equivalent of two Chinamen.

For the sixth game the A's pitchers will be throwing the National League ball again. That ain't so much of a problem to them as how to get it around Pepper Martin's bat.

MARTIN'S WEAKNESS

So far this series, Pepper has not only stolen Al Simmons' thunder, but he has also bottled up Mickey Cochrane's lightning. Pepper only needs one more day to eclipse the sun.

The A's pitchers had a huddle last night to discover Martin's weakness. So far the best solution is four straight balls on the outside.

If the series goes seven games, the A's will be lucky if they come out of it without shingles or a nervous breakdown.

I guess Gabby Street will sic Derringer onto the A's today. That will give Burleigh Grimes 24 hours more to chew on slippery elm tablets and raise some extra spit if a seventh game is required.

With Connie it is either Grove or Earnshaw. If Lefty goes in today Connie is liable to develop a boil himself from getting nervous on the bench.

TOUGH ON PLAYERS

Well, anyway, here we are poised out here in St. Looey for what may be the finishing game, and don't forget us experts went through the tortures of that last long train ride just for the benefit of the club owners. They are the guys that make all the money on these final games.

The players are giving their services gratis and the umpires don't drag down any extra money either. A long series is just delaying them from going to sleep for the winter, although I think Bill Klem was already taking a preliminary nap at third base in the second contest when he garbled a force play.

FOUR HORSEMEN PLAY AGAIN

HARRY STUHLDREHER — JIM CROWLEY

ELMER LAYDEN — MRS. KNUTE ROCKNE — DON MILLER

Notre Dame's Four Horsemen play again in the film, "The Spirit of Notre Dame," a preview of which will be given for public and parochial school football players and their coaches through arrangement by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Sunday night. Photo shows the stars with Mrs. Rockne, wife of the late Knute Rockne, as they appeared when making the picture, dedicated to the late Notre Dame mentor, in California recently.

ROCKNE MOVIE TO BE SEEN

Football enthusiasts are eagerly looking forward to the first public showing in Pittsburgh of what many claim to be the greatest sports picture of all time—"The Spirit of Notre Dame." It is consequently a privilege that, through the courtesy of Warner Brothers, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has the opportunity of presenting this football classic in a special preview for members of the Pittsburgh public and parochial high school teams and their coaches.

Players of Tech, Pitt and Duquesne and their coaches also have been invited. The preview will take place Sunday night at the Stanley Theater. Admission will be by ticket only and an allotment of tickets for each team was placed in the mails yesterday.

"The Spirit of Notre Dame" is typical of the new spirit that has crept into motion picture making. Knute Rockne, before his tragic death, had dreamed a dream of a great football picture that would carry a message of high ideals, of sterling sportsmanship, of loyal school spirit and the making of men to lovers of sports everywhere. He was on his way to Hollywood to confer with the executives of Universal about such a picture when the plane that was carrying him to California faltered and crashed, bringing his death. The men of his team, including the Four Horsemen, counting him their friend more than their coach, determined to go on with the picture as a memorial to him. "The Spirit of Notre Dame" is the result.

In the inspiring story woven around the game as Rockne coached it and his men are playing it, there are many other players of note aside from the Four Horsemen. Lew Ayres, famous in talking pictures, plays the part of Bucky, and he is supported by a cast that finally fits into the spirit of clean football.

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph believes that "The Spirit of Notre Dame," the realization of the lamented Rockne's dream, will be a real inspiration to the Pittsburgh boys in the game today.

Series Climax On Sun-Tele Scoreboard

What better way could you select than to see the game in St. Louis replayed before your eyes on the magnetic scoreboard of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, at Grant street and Strawberry way?

Thousands of fans have enjoyed the games played on this board. Why not you? Today may be your last chance.

SAINTS AGAIN TOP REDWINGS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 9.—(AP.)—St. Paul strung out the little world series for at least one more day when they defeated the Rochester Redwings, 9 to 5, yesterday in the seventh game. The visiting club, champions of the American Association, advanced to within one game of their International League rivals. Rochester still leads, 4 to 3.

SHADY SIDE BOWS

CITY LEAGUE ELEVENS TO SEE ACTION

By JULIUS LEVIN

With four battles scheduled in the two sections of the City League and four night contests all involving contenders for the W. P. I. A. championship on the program, followers of scholastic football in Western Pennsylvania are offered a varied list of attractive fray today.

Reg Sproull

Coach Dick Mevers Peabody eleven one of the favorites in the City League race, goes after its second league victory this afternoon when it engages Allerdice on the Peabody field. In the other Section I fray Coach Washabaugh's powerful and rugged South aggregation will be the opponent of Coach Gross Schenley High eleven at Malone Field.

OLIVER AT CARRICK

Two games are listed in Section II. South Hills playing Langley at Langley while Oliver under the guidance of Ray Peters invades Carrick to tackle Coach Ted Lyons eleven. All of the teams already have engaged in non-league affairs and are in the best of physical condition for the league openers.

Perry High School a member of Section II will play a non-league game with Shady Side Academy at Shady Side while tomorrow Westinghouse a member of Section I will be the attraction at Wilkinsburg.

FOUR NIGHT GAMES

Four night games that bring together championship contenders are scheduled at New Castle Charleroi Monessen and New Kensington. At New Castle, Coach Hank Day's undefeated Washington eleven will be the opponent of Phil Bridenbaugh's Night Owls. Although defeated by Charleroi last Friday the New Castle eleven may prove a stumbling block to the Blue and Black of Washington. The Ambridge-Monessen contest should prove a thriller from start to finish. Coach Moe Rubenstein's Ambridge eleven has not been defeated nor scored upon in 15 straight games and it is determined to check Coach Ditty's Monessen team, undefeated in three games so far this season.

New Kensington High football enthusiasts will witness their first night game with their favorites opposed to Regis Heiner's Butler High aggregation. So far this season the Glock machine has defeated Falls Creek, 73-0 and Latrobe, 27-13.

Featuring the drive of New Kensington this season has been the work of Red Sproull, tackle; Clair Nevergoll, guard, and five flashy backfield stars, Charley Suseck, quarterback; Jim Hightower, Gum Nelson and George Peters, halfbacks, and Shyrocks Rybaski, fullback. The kickoff will take place at 8 o'clock.

FAYETTE CITY STRONG

Coach Steve Stephanian's powerful Charleroi eleven engages an undefeated opponent in Fayette City. Charleroi and Fayette City each have scored three straight victories so far this season and one of them will have to fall tonight. The Charleroi team knows how to play football as its record for the season attests, but Fayette City looms as its third real test in a row.

Sport Vignettes

The best crack of the local football season so far was uttered by a wag at the Stadium last Saturday when announcement was made through the loud speaker that Pitt was leading Iowa, 6-0, in the first period of their game at Iowa City . . . Recalling that the Panthers had kicked only one try for point in 10 chances in their opening game against Miami University, of Ohio, the preceding Saturday, this wit yelled back at the press box, "It couldn't be seven?" . . . And Elmer Layden, coach of the Dukes, pulled a good one in practice the other day . . . George Chacko, the halfback, had fallen into the habit of being the last man to report for the workouts . . . Finally, Layden lay in wait for him and, as the player approached, giving his togs a final hitch here and there, the coach, with the other members of the squad lined up about him in midfield, yelled, "Hurry up, coach, we're all set to go!" . . . Chacko hasn't been late since.

The game of the day tomorrow undoubtedly is the Notre Dame-Northwestern frolic at Soldier Field, Chicago, expected to draw a crowd of 120,000, as a result of their hectic battle of last year, in which the great Irish team finally came through to win, 14-0, after being outplayed in the early stages.

The Wildcats are primed to throw the first real obstacle into the path of Hunk Anderson, who has succeeded the late Knute Rockne as head coach at South Bend, and if Hunk gets over this one so early in the season his team will be set to go places. Notre Dame will carry a 20-game winning streak into the fray, starting with the opening game of the 1929 season.

Is Slip Madigan, a former Notre Dame star, destined to be the new Rockne of the football world? He had a great team last year and on successive Saturdays this season already has beaten Southern California and California. Don't overlook that Stanford-Minnesota game at Palo Alto, Cal., tomorrow, an extremely early date for so important an intersectional clash. The teams played a scoreless tie last year.

Carnegie Tech is getting by with one of the smallest squads in years this season and is playing a stiff schedule under a severe handicap, but it has plenty of the old life and fight, as witness its spectacular battle against Wash-Jeff at the Stadium last Saturday . . . Wouldn't it be a real upset if West Virginia should topple Pitt tomorrow, with the Panthers boasting one of their really good teams? . . . Go out and see Greasy Neale direct the Mountaineers . . . It's been a long time since he has handled a team in Pittsburgh, but his feats as coach of Wash-Jeff still are vividly remembered here.

The gent to keep your eyes glued upon as the Dukes battle West Virginia Wesleyan at Forbes Field tonight is Cliff Battles, the running fool of the visitors, who streaked for a touchdown against the locals last season. Battles is slated to wind up at Army after he gets through at Wesleyan, and will be heard from in a big way in the seasons to come.

A sign of the depression is that Pepper Martin, the sensation of the world series, has not yet been called upon to give testimonials for breakfast foods . . . Remember, there used to be a good fighter of the same name? Just because he's fighting Mose Butch at the Garden next Monday night is no reason why anyone should expect Johnny Datto to be slaughtered in that affair . . . Well, let's have the next chapter of the A's vs. the Martin A. C.—HARRY KECK.

Why "Flexsteel" Is Superior

2 "Flexsteel" springs rest ON TOP of the frame, on cloth webbing.
6 Will never cause lumpiness. Flat spring surfaces prevent upholstering.
7 "Flexsteel" will probably outlast the upholstering and frame itself.

'BREAKS' MAY BEAT IRISH TOMORROW—STAGG

NORTHWEST'N FIRST BIG TEST FOR RAMBLERS

By A. A. STAGG
University of Chicago Coach

The football eyes of the nation will be on the Notre Dame-Northwestern game at Soldiers Memorial Field, Chicago, tomorrow. This game, the first real test of the year for the Knute Rockneless Irish, is dramatized by the fact that Northwestern and Notre Dame, a year in advance, contributed $100,000 of the gate receipts toward the unemployment relief fund.

These teams had a great battle last year, Notre Dame winning in the last seven minutes by the score of 14 to 0 after Northwestern clearly had an advantage in the first half. The keying-up for this game, on Northwestern's part, started immediately after the close of last year's contest, and has gone on unceasingly ever since. However, Northwestern's great desire to win is fully matched by that of Notre Dame.

Coming so early in the season, probably neither team is fully prepared from a technical standpoint and in physical condition, but what is lacking in this respect will be more than evened up in intensity of feeling. There will be no need of keying-up speeches in the dressing room. The players will go their limit.

Who will win? I wouldn't hazard a guess. Notre Dame has it on Northwestern in its line, but Northwestern's line is by no means weak. It looks as if Northwestern has better backs, although Schwartz, of Notre Dame, already has made a national reputation and there are other good backs there in the making. Northwestern, as well as the Army, never will forget the brilliant runs of Schwartz for touchdowns last year.

DUKES ENGAGE WESLEYAN

WATCH BATTLES!

Wesleyan, of course, is counting on its own "Pepper Martin," the astounding Battles. Big Clifford is a star of the very, very first water. He picked a ball out of the air that a Duke had punted last year here and raced 78 yards for a touchdown. He's turned in the same feat against other opponents and the tough part of it all is, for the Dukes, that he is just as likely to do it all over again tonight.

Battles' supporting cast this time is better balanced and much stronger than it was a year ago. He is surrounded by a better backfield and a stronger and more fibrous line. I've a hunch he'll go places tonight, whether the Cats win or not.

MOUNTAINEERS DETERMINED

The Bobcats are not the only West Virginia eleven in town this week. Greasy Neale and his Mountaineers are here to take on Pitt in the Stadium tomorrow afternoon. To have Mr. Neale back in town, as chief mentor of a varsity football team, is an honor not to be disregarded.

The last time Greasy showed here was with Wash-Jeff in 1922, when Pitt knocked the Prexies off, 19-0. In 1922, however, W. and J. won, and went on to an undefeated record, deadlocking California on the Coast in the annual Rose Bowl game, 0-0.

Neale's West Virginia eleven so far is somewhat of a puzzle. The team defeated the Dukes, but looked messy in losing to Fordham. It is practically the same eleven that lost to Pitt last year, although Greasy has shifted some of the boys about and has changed the offense.

DOYLE INJURED

Latest reports have it that the Mountaineers will have to stack up against the Panthers minus the services of Capt. Johnny Doyle. Art Smith, the one and only Mountaineer trainer, has informed Coach Greasy that Johnny probably will be unable to start against the Panthers tomorrow. Coming from Art, I think this is the old hooey. Doyle was banged up against Fordham, according to reports, but he's a mighty valuable man and if at all possible, you can bet all the tea in China and all the tees in Scotland that Greasy will have him in there tomorrow.

If not, the West Virginia backfield will be shifted about to contain Stone at quarterback, Sebulsky and either Canich or Parriott at the halves and the husky Homer Whitema, 190-pounder, at full.

Coach Sutherland has just about decided to use Johnny Luch at fullback in the stead of Jimmy Clark. At least, he figures on starting him. Luch is a big powerful fellow, a rip-tearing smasher on the offense and a crackerjack at backing up the line. Otherwise, the Pitt lineup will be the same that started against Iowa.

TECH IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.—Carnegie Tech's varsity football squad stopped here long enough this morning to pick up Judge Steffen, head coach, indulge in some light calisthenics on a railroad station platform, and transfer to an L. & N. train for the last leg of the journey to Atlanta to play Georgia Tech tomorrow.

The Tartans were here only a little more than an hour, but reported another injured player. He is Jim Baushke, substitute tackle and guard, who broke a blood vessel in Wednesday's practice and will be unable to see service tomorrow.

Aside from Baushke, the only other cripple who is absolutely out of it is Tony Kebe, one of the squad's best guards, who has failed to respond to treatment of an injured leg suffered in the Buffalo game.

The Carnegie squad is due to arrive in Atlanta at 8:45 this evening.

RAIL ADVANCES PULL STOCKS UPWARD

Market Leaps Forward After Momentary Sag; Steel Meets Profit Sales

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP).—Restored confidence in the ability of the nation to break the jams in the channels of credit was reflected in further advances in security prices today.

The share market sagged under profit taking at mid-session, but soon rallied upon the leadership of the rails. Steel and other of the earlier obligations featured the mid-day market as well. The markets showed signs of tiring at times, however.

In railroad shares [illegible] advances of 5 to 8 points appeared in such issues as Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, Chesapeake Corporation and Norfolk and Western; but the advance was modified by 2 to 3 points afternoon when buying slackened a time in the industrials and utilities. American Telephone and United States Steel, however, quickly met profit taking sales of advances. Eastman and Case pushed up about 6 and 7 points, then slipped back somewhat. Gains of a point or so were numerous.

The sweeping upturn of the day was accompanied by another flurry of gossip in brokerage circles to the effect that the Interstate Commerce Commission might announce its decision on the plea for higher freight rates over the week-end. While it was reported from Washington, however, that President Hoover was making an inquiry into means of stabilizing railroad bonds, there was a tendency to conclude that whatever relief might be granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission would be limited.

Wall Street was taken by surprise by the increase to 2½ per cent from 1½ in the rediscount rate. The Bank of France quickly put its rate up to 2½ from 2.

Rapid progress in forming the huge banking pool and making the authorized amount of the pool $1,000,000,000 instead of $500,000,000 were viewed favorably. Wall Street expects that the credit pool will be in actual operation within the month.

The weekly Federal Reserve statement indicated clearly the necessity for reassuring action to check withdrawal of bank deposits and currency hoarding. The amount of money in circulation increased $185,000,000, making a gain of $944,000,000 in 12 months despite the fact that commercial use of funds have decreased substantially during that time. The Federal Reserve continued to put out credit in large volume, increasing loans to members by $135,468,000 and buying $112,829,000 in bankers' acceptances.

GRAIN PRICES GO LOWER

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Influenced by stock market setbacks, grain prices averaged lower early today. Agitation for tariff enactments in Great Britain counted as a bearish factor. Opening ½c off to ½c up, wheat later underwent a moderate sag. Corn started ¼ to ½c lower and continued to point downward.

Wheat price rallies after the early downturns were associated with recoveries in securities and with buying based on assertions by a Chicago grain trade authority that never before in the month of October had the world's wheat situation harbored so many substantial possibilities of supply decrease.

U. S. Farm Income Lowest Since 1921

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Estimates of income from farm production in the United States in 1930 indicate a gross income of about $9,347,000,000, compared with $11,911,000,000 in 1929, the Department of Agriculture reports. This is the lowest estimate of gross income since 1921, when it amounted to $8,717,000,000.

Wall Street Surprised By Reduction in Bank Rate

The change in the bank rate is the first since last May when the 1½ per cent rate, the lowest ever in force in any central bank, was made effective. It is the first advance since August, 1929, when the rate was lifted from 5 to 6 per cent in an effort to curtail the headlong speculation then in full swing. In the absence of official explanation various reasons are offered for the action. First reserve credit in use has been rising rapidly, especially in the last few months, though not reflecting in any increasing activity in general business. Enormous hoarding of funds, was cited as having been a powerful influence, while it was held in most circles that the tremendous loss of gold, $428,000,000 since the middle of last month was responsible in no small measure.

The weekly reserve condition statements offer ample explanation it would seem for the move toward a higher bank rate. The combined statement for the system shows the total earning assets practically double those of the same time last year at $1,801,217,000. Reserve note circulation showing a rise of $172,000,000 in the week stands at $2,269,989,000, or $904,591,000 above a year ago. Gold reserves are down $101,000,000 in the week though still $60,000,000 above the same date a year ago. These changes served to carry the ratio of reserve for the system over to 67.1 per cent against 71.7 per cent last week and 81.6 per cent a year ago. At the New York bank changes along the same line dropped the ratio to 68.9 per cent from 76 last week and 83.7 per cent last year.

Some close students of the credit situation were inclined to interpret the action as indicating that the minimum rate, which it replaced proved in the nature of a boomerang. At the time the 1½ per cent rate was invoked last May the bond market was in need of a tonic and bank deposits were heavy and in good part idle. It is probable it was expected then that the lower interest rates on deposits which resulted would serve to turn a part of such funds into bonds in search of more profitable employment. If that was the purpose of the low rate, the evidence is that it failed utterly as far as the bond market was concerned, and by making for lower interest rates influenced to some extent withdrawals of deposits and consequent hoarding. Moreover, it left us at a disadvantage in the world money market and down to just such a pull on gold as we have latterly felt.

Some of the industrial wheels, too, were supposed to lag on the further move. Among such issues were Steel common and American Can, where the latest advance seemed to encounter persistent selling. Steel's backwardness was readily enough explained as the imminence of the month's tonnage report due tomorrow, which is expected to show another contraction in the backlog of orders in the books. Estimates of the probable size of the decrease have been whittled considerably in the last few days and it is now expected the drop will run around 50,000 tons. Such a contraction, while not indicative of any substantial improvement in conditions, considering the low rate of operations would be much more favorable than earlier estimates had suggested.

It is felt in banking circles that abnormally low rates which have prevailed in the rediscount market until now have had no beneficial results on business and have failed to increase the volume of credit in use. While money rates have been unusually low, credit has not been plentiful. It is possible that the new bank rate will have a stimulating effect upon business. It should enable banks to charge higher rates on quick loans and hence to pay more interest on deposits. Some [illegible] that higher rates [illegible] greater risks in making loans.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Profit-taking toned down the curb market today, but trading turned quiet under a moderate amount of selling and the price structure held steady to firm. Volume was moderate.

PRESIDENT HOOVER has hatched one corporation which has done more than all his commissions. And the half-billion organization—it may reach a billion—isn't costing the government a dollar. Isn't this a shining example of what leadership can do? Brainy leadership could and should do much more.

THE GOVERNORS of the New York Stock Exchange instead of hemming and hawing about short selling could make a tremendous hit with the public by prohibiting short selling. They act as if they are averse to responding to public opinion, presumably because they want to save their face. Nothing could be more shortsighted.

The stock exchange authorities should heartily welcome the present opportunity to do something to modify the existing widespread hostility to the stock exchange and everything it represents.

Anybody fulfilling a public function, a function supposedly in the interest of the nation, should not regard it as beneath its dignity to bow to public opinion, especially since public opinion is sure to have its own way in the end.

I UNDERSTAND that highly influential financial pressure was brought to bear upon the heads of our eastern railroads to hasten their consolidation agreements. It is well known that the president of one powerful eastern system objected to one or two points, but he was given to understand that this was no time for stubborn obstreperousness.

The submission of the agreements to the Interstate Commerce Commission has had something to do with the improvement in financial sentiment.

LEADERSHIP COULD and should come without further delay from the Interstate Commerce Commission. This body, like so many other governmental bodies, doesn't function with the celerity of a competent business organization. It is chronically clogged with work. Instead of being able to render prompt decisions, it frequently dillydallies month after month, even years.

The Interstate Commerce Commission should not delay by one avoidable hour the rendering of a decision on the application for an increase in rates.

Then, too, it should labor overtime, if necessary, to rule on the proposed creation of four eastern trunk systems.

NEW YORK BANKERS recently gave an example of how to handle the affairs of closed banks. Instead of letting depositors suffer interminable delay in receiving even a fraction of their money, arrangements were made between public-spirited bankers and the State Banking Department, first, for the prompt payment of half of each deposit, and, second, for having each closed bank's affairs taken over, not by the state bank superintendent, but by a strong, going financial institution.

The New York bank superintendent told me that he figured this arrangement would benefit depositors very substantially—as much as 30 per cent.

Bank leaders in other cities should realize the value of acting along similar lines. Happily, in Philadelphia, responsible co-operation—albeit somewhat tardily—has been arranged.

HERE'S A LEADERSHIP suggestion worthy of consideration: The shares of almost every important corporation are selling far below their real worth. In fact, there are many instances where corporations have on hand cash and government securities totaling more than the total present market value of their stocks.

In all cases where there are no legal obstacles, WHY SHOULD NOT SUCH CORPORATIONS USE PART OF THEIR SUPER-ABUNDANT LIQUID FUNDS TO PURCHASE THEIR OWN STOCKS IN THE OPEN MARKET?

Purchases of this kind would unquestionably serve to raise quotations quite materially. Stocks thus acquired could be utilized in whichever way the directors considered most advisable. Some corporations might allow employes to subscribe for the shares at cost price after confidence has been restored and quotations have greatly advanced.

Or, such treasury shares could be retired, thus strengthening the financial setup. Or again, the shares might be retained until need arose for raising additional money. During a wild boom the marketing of such shares would have a restraining effect—and at the same time net the corporation enormous profit. Or even a stock dividend might be adjudged timely once prosperity has fully returned.

All corporation operations of this nature should be given full publicity so that stockholders and investors in general would know exactly what was being done or planned.

LONDON, PARIS MARKETS UP

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Gains were recorded on the London Stock Exchange today with numerous leading issues gaining from 1 to 4 points. Japanese bond issues slumped, probably because of the war tension in Manchuria.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Prices on the bourse reacted favorably to the increase in the discount rate by the Bank of France, and prices closed firm.

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—(INS.)—Gold holdings of the Reichsbank decreased 81,500,000 marks ($20,375,000) in the week ending October 7, the regular weekly statement revealed today. Reserves now total 1,219,289,000 marks ($304,822,250).

The Reichsbank gained 2,800,000 marks ($700,000) in foreign exchange holdings. The currency coverage continued to decline, reaching 30.1 per cent of the total issue as against 31.2 per cent last week.

Rise in Bonds Is Greatest Result of Hoover Plan

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE RAPID ADVANCE in the bond market has been the outstanding effect of the Hoover plan from the standpoint of immediate results. Several weeks must pass before the bank aid portion of the proposal can be placed into actual operation. Other portions of the plan, such as the suggested changes in the Federal Reserve law, must await congressional action. But the aid to confidence resulting from the administration proposals has definitely changed the financial outlook.

At a time such as the present, a restoration of market values of bonds is of even greater importance than a rise in the stock market. The effect of declining stock prices is largely confined to individual wealth and individual borrowing power while a break in the prices of bonds definitely undermines the stability of banking institutions, insurance companies and corporations with surplus invested funds as well as individual fortunes.

High-Grade Securities Affected

THE DANGER OF THE DECLINE in the bond market, which was arrested early this week by the announcement of the Hoover plan, was made particularly acute by the fact that high-grade issues were suffering along with second-grade securities. After an abrupt decline, almost unprecedented for fixed income securities, the restoration of confidence permitted an advance in bond quotations which materially improved the position of the entire country.

This went a long way toward restoring the best bonds to previous market values. It greatly enhanced the worth of the less favored bonds although most of these second-grade issues still are selling at extremely low levels.

Bank Resources Protected

BANKS AND INSURANCE COMPANIES all place a large share of their surplus funds in bonds. Institutions of this type select issues of the highest grade but the value of even the best issues was threatened with serious impairment by the sudden fall in the bond market. This situation did not trouble banks which were in a position to hold securities for long periods, but organizations which needed to borrow money or to sell securities to meet emergency conditions were faced with serious consequences by the sudden drop in the value of their assets.

The position of both banks and individuals was also helped by the restoration of bond values since a halt was called to widespread calling of collateral loans. While a major portion of loans on stocks represent purely speculative operations, a large share of loans on bonds represent the borrowing of funds for more legitimate business purposes. The calling of a great number of loans might have had serious consequences to business. The closing out of loans secured by bonds would have further hurt banks by undermining the market for securities held for their own accounts.

Bond Market Important

THE HOOVER PLAN has been important since it has prevented the entire financial structure from the demoralization of a panic of the most devastating proportions. It has not greatly improved business prospects for the coming winter but it has established a bulwark against further harm to business by protecting the bond market and giving banks a means for liquidating investments which otherwise might have been frozen assets.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows. Bonds in dollars and fractions of dollars.

Surviving Soldiers Resume Studies at School

CHAPTER XXVI.

The orders regulating the attendance at schools of the returned soldiers have arrived. Our delegates achieved what we wanted—a shortened course, a separate syllabus for the soldiers and an easing of the examination requirements.

It was no simple matter to put through, despite the Revolution; all this commotion has been nothing but a mere rippling of the surface. It has not gone under. What is the good of merely changing the occupants of half a dozen of the top posts? Any soldier knows that a company commander may have the best of intentions, but if his noncoms are against him he is powerless to effect anything. So, too, even the most progressive minister must shipwreck if he has a block of reactionary bureaucrats against him. And in Germany the bureaucrats all have their jobs still.—These pen-pushing Napoleons are invincible.

It is the first hour of lessons and we are seated again at our desks. Almost all are in uniform, three have full beards, and one is married.

On our desk I discover my name neatly carved with a penknife and picked out in ink. I can remember doing it during one history lesson, yet it seems it must have been 100 years ago, so strange is it to be sitting here again. This sets the war back into the past, things have gone full circle. But we are no longer in it.

Hollermann, our literature teacher, comes in and at once sets about what he considers his first duty. He must return to us such things of ours as still remain here from the days before the war. They have too long been a burden on his orderly schoolmaster's soul. He opens the class locker and turns out the stuff; writing materials, drawing boards and, most important of all, the fat, blue notebooks full of essays, dictations and class exercises. A great pile they tower up beside him on the left of his desk. The names are called out; we answer and receive our goods. Willy tosses them over and blotting papers go flying.

MANY MISSING

"Breyer"—"Here."
"Bucker"—"Here."
"Detlefs."
Silence. "Dead," cries Willy.
Detlefs — little, fair, bandy, was plucked in his exam once and left behind. A lance-corporal, killed, 1917, at Mount Kemmel. The notebook goes to the right of the master's desk.
"Dirker"—"Here."
"Dierksmann"—"Dead."

Synopsis

Ernst, who enlisted when a schoolboy, tells the post-war story of a group of friends hailing from the same city and who return when peace is made to find a strange world in which they feel checkmated and at sea. Ernst feels that his friends and war memories alone are real. His family seem like strangers. He walks out into the country to try to recapture his youthful outlook, but in vain. He meets a war friend, George Rahe, bent on the same futile errand. The two reminisce. George has decided to become a soldier again—all that he is fit for. Left alone, Ernst is deeply troubled. What can he do? How fit himself for life—when life seems meaningless? Questions, but no answer.

Now Go On

"Eggers."

"Not back yet," calls Willy. Ludwig supplements. "Lung wound in the Reserve Hospital at Rortmund, to go from there to the sanitorium at Lippespring for three months."

"Fredericks"—"Here."

"Giesecke"—"Missing."

"No, he's not," says Westerholt.

"Well, he was reported missing," says Reinetsmann.

"I know," replies Westerholt, "but he's been in the asylum here for the last three weeks. I've seen him myself."

"Gehring I"—"Dead."

"Gehring II" the master merely murmurs and himself puts the notebook with the others on the right.

"He wrote really excellent essays," he says meditatively, turning the pages of Gehring I's exercise book once more.

Yet many another book goes to the right and when at last all have been called, there still remains a big pile of unclaimed exercises. Professor Hollermann looks at them irresolutely. His feeling for orders rebels, yet he does not know what to do with them. At last he hits on a solution. Let the notebooks be sent to the dead men's parents.

But Willy does not agree. "Think their parents will be glad to see exercise books so full of mistakes?" he asks. "And with your comments. Unsatisfactory, incompetent, poor. Better leave it alone rather!"

Hollermann looks at him with round eyes. "Yes, that's so, but what else can I do with them?"

"Let them stay where they are," says Albert.

Hollermann is almost offended. "But that won't do at all, Trooske," he says. "These notebooks, you see, they don't belong to the school; they can't just be left where they are."

FORGOTTEN LESSONS

"What a fuss you do make!" groans Willy, running his fingers through his hair. "Give them to us then, we'll see to them." Hollermann hands them over reluctantly. "But," he begins nervously, for, of course, it is other men's property.

"Oh, quite, quite," says Willy, "anything you like, all in order, properly stamped and addressed, only for heaven's sake don't fret yourself, whatever you do. One must have order, even though it may cause other people pain." He winks at us and touches his forehead.

When the lesson is over we turn through the pages of our exercise books. The last theme on which we wrote is entitled: "Why Must Germany Win the War?" That was the beginning of 1916. There must be an introduction, six reasons, and a conclusion. Point 4, "The religious reason." I appear not to have resolved very successfully. In the margin, in red ink, there is written: "Desultory and unconvincing." My seven-page effort was rewarded with a grand total of minus two—a very fair result, if one takes present facts into consideration.

Willy is reading over his notes on natural history. "The wildflower and its rooting system!" he exclaims, and looks about him with a grin. "Well, I think the gentleman will agree that that little matter has lapsed—no?"

"Agreed!" says Westerholt.

Yes, it has lapsed, indeed. We have forgotten it all; and by that fact alone the whole system stands condemned. What Bethke and Kosole taught us, that we do not forget.

Plot to Marry Rich Heiress Uncovered by Fiance

"Before that big house was built on th' knoll down there," Ezra Tuttle would say, "and before all them trees were set out we could see quite a lot of the lake. That's why grandpa named this farm like he did."

Ezra Tuttle and his good wife "took summer boarders." They had half a dozen of regular patrons—quiet people, who enjoyed the isolation of the farm.

Kirk Tuttle, their son, who was an assistant professor of English at the small college in the next county, always came home for the summer and helped his parents. His mother had two able young women to help her. Kirk's duties were with his father helping to care for the big vegetable gardens, to get in the hay, to do the many and various tasks necessary.

When Mrs. Carter, who had been at the Tuttle farm for six summers, brought her niece there, the young lady was vastly amused at Kirk.

"I've always wanted to see a real hick," she told her aunt, "and this chap certainly gives me my wish."

That was said on the first day that Miss Carter, the niece, arrived.

AUNT EXPLAINS

Her aunt smiled tolerantly and said nothing. The next day Kirk, having to go to town for his father, came down in a strikingly attractive sport suit. He was neatly shaven, smiling and agreeable. He backed a handsome little car out of the garage.

"Goodness," Miss Carter exclaimed to her aunt, "when did that handsome young man arrive?"

It was at this time that the Hinckley brothers arrived at the farm. They had never been there before. The Hinckley brothers were dapper—extremely so. They were somewhat aloof in their attitude to the others. They let it be known that they were "in Wall street."

That was true enough. They owned a small cigar store down in New York's financial district. They did not explain this, however.

There was another thing that they did not explain. This was the reason why they came to Lake View Farm. It was because they had learned all about the Lawrence girl. Miss Doris Lawrence had inherited the place down across the meadows on the shore of the lake—the one that cut off so much of Ezra Tuttle's view of the lake. Along with this mammoth summer place this Miss Doris Lawrence had inherited her uncle's millions.

OUTLINES PLAN

Willie and Wally Hinckley had an uncle in the city who was a clerk for a big law firm. He told his nephews all about the luck that fell to some people, illustrating it by reference to Doris Lawrence.

"Honest," the uncle said, "this girl was always just a small-time school-teacher in a hick village. She never had a thing in her life—and now she falls plump into millions. I had to go to this summer home she inherited with some papers for her to sign."

"Now," Willie said to his brother, "here's our chance. We can go right down to this place, get acquainted with the girl, work fast, sweep her off her feet and marry her."

"Both of us?" Wally asked sarcastically.

"Listen, of course not. One of us will land this gal and her millions, get me? Here's the dope—and we'll shake hands on it. There's no telling which one of us will win out—she'll grab one of us for sure—you know the type—country gal, gets all fussed over city chaps. All right, one of us will marry her and handle her millions and the other one will be set up in some swell business—something big and sure. Suppose I marry her—"

"Wait—suppose I do?" Wally interrupted.

"All right—all right, suppose you do. You get the handling of her millions. Part of it you can use to stake me in some swell big business, like a grand big hotel or something. You can say it's an investment."

"Put her there!" Wally said. They shook hands again.

And that was why Messrs. Willie and Wally Hinckley arrived at Lake View Farm to board with Ezra Tuttle during the summer months.

A strip of the Tuttle farm ran to the north of the Lawrence estate and abutted on the lake. Ezra had a boat down there.

BROTHERS DISAPPOINTED

"We will stroll across the grounds tomorrow," Wally said. "We will watch until she is out in that garden place where the pool and fountain are. Then we will apologize—say that we lost our way, get me?"

"Away ahead of you," Willie answered, grinning, "we will be most profuse with our apologies and the next day we will bring her something—a swell five-pound box of candy——"

The following day it was ideal for their purpose. They paddled out in the Tuttle boat until they saw, in the distance, a girl go down to this semi-formal garden.

They went ashore and made their way through the shrubbery of the Lawrence grounds. They came upon a high hedge. Over the top of this came the gleam of the stream of water from the fountain. This was the place.

They proceeded noiselessly over the grass to the hedge. Carefully they peered through.

A girl sat there. She was reading a magazine—one of the mushy confession type. The girl wore a black dress. She had tortoise shell spectacles. Her hair was straight and hung down in a most unbecoming way, a sort of half-grown out bob.

"My Gawd!" Wally whispered.

"Fooey!" Willie added.

"Cotton stockings!" Wally hissed.

They retreated and sat down back of a high shrub.

"It's a maid," Wally said, "and if we bust in now we can't ask for the Lawrence girl. If we explain that we got lost she will show us the way out, and we won't have any excuse another time to say we're lost."

The next day they went down again for another try.

The same girl was there, cotton stockings and all. And beside her was sprawled Kirk Tuttle. His floppy old hat was on the back of his head. He still wore his blue overalls.

That evening the brothers Hinckley pressed a cigar on Kirk Tuttle and engaged him in conversation.

"Could she introduce us to the Lawrence girl?" Wally asked.

"It's because we are sure we met her in Paris last winter," Willie added.

"Yes, I guess she could."

"Tell her we'll pay her," said Willie.

"She isn't that sort—she wouldn't accept money."

"Well then, we'll give the girl a dozen pair of real silk stockings—then she can chuck those gosh-awful cotton ones she wears."

He did.

There sat a stunning girl.

"Doris," Kirk said, gravely, "these gentlemen insist that they met you in Paris last winter, but since you were never there they are doubtless mistaken—they are the Brothers Hinckley I spoke to you about. They have a nice hot line all ready for you, apologies for trespassing, talk of mergers and bonds and their friends Morgan and Charlie Schwab—"

"Say—why—why say," Wally cried, "you aren't—yes you are—the same girl — you wore glasses and cotton stockings."

OFFER CONGRATULATIONS

Doris Lawrence laughed gaily. "You must forgive Kirk," she said, "he's an awful cutup. He always was. We've known each other for years. My putting on that rig and the cotton stockings was Kirk's idea—he sort of overheard some of your plans—no hard feelings, boys. You'll hear from me next month—if you leave your address."

"Splendid!" exclaimed the Brothers Hinckley, in unison. It looked like a chance for them, after all.

"Yes," Doris said, "I shall send you the announcement of the wedding."

"Wedding?" gasped Wally.

"Wedding?" repeated Willie.

"Yes, Kirk and I are to be married next month!"

"Er—congratulations," murmured the Brothers Hinckley. Then they hurried away from them, but not so rapidly but what they heard the roars of laughter from both Doris and Kirk.

Mr. Hoover Sees Only the Bankers

Serving public notice that the vast inert financial resources in the United States will be mobilized to protect solvent banking institutions, the Hoover-sponsored half-billion dollar banking pool is an ambitious attempt to restore confidence, reassure the timid and the nervous, and as such it is to be commended.

Wisely, it puts the interests of the banking group above those of the individual institution. It is designed specifically to stop the anti-social practice of hoarding currency.

As an adventure in finance to meet a pressing situation, it has merit because it marks the end of the futile policy of standing aside and letting uncontrolled deflation take its reckless course.

But why limit the constructive activities of the federal government merely to banking relief?

WHY FINANCE ONLY THE FINANCIERS?

Doesn't the fact that six million unemployed walk our streets seeking NOT CHARITY, NOT A DOLE, BUT A JOB, make any impression upon our head servants at Washington?

Why not the consideration of some plan to put these unemployed IN JOBS?

Laudable as it is, the extension of relief to financial institutions alone will not pull the nation out of the vale of the depression. All other classes must have help, must be intelligently directed, if the country is to get back on the path to prosperity.

But President Hoover is a peculiar man.

He seems to sense only the need of extending assistance to the financiers.

He is entirely under the control of the bankers, and he has no vision beyond their interests, local or international, as all his official acts clearly demonstrate.

All patriotic Americans will applaud the gesture to emphasize to the whole world the solidarity and strength behind the American dollar. But the obligation of leadership expected in a crisis goes deeper than merely aiding financial institutions. The great need is to restore economic balance, to equalize the demand for human labor with the supply.

When millions of unemployed are BACK AT WORK, spending their newly-won purchasing power, an economic equilibrium will recur. Then confidence will automatically return, as executives perceive new opportunities for profitable activities.

The man on the street can not thrill over the unquestioned world-wide supremacy of the dollar as long as millions of our nationals are pauperized by unemployment.

If the latest administration move is to be a success, it should be supplemented by a vast federal prosperity loan for social reconstruction and the restoration of normal conditions.

The proposed $5,000,000,000 loan, raised partly through bank credit, would carry with it a program for making use of the fund in job-creating public works.

Then would the depression soon be ended.

Armstrong's Defeat

"The Old Gray Mayor" Failed to Perceive That a New Era Had Arrived.

After 35 years of practically continuous service as a public official of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, is preparing to retire to private life.

He has conceded defeat in his contest for another term as County Commissioner, and says he wants to be "a good sport" about it.

If Armstrong had always been a good sportsman, fair and square, he might not have been defeated. It was his tolerance, if not his instigation, of unsportsmanlike tactics in the management of public affairs that led the people to turn against him.

Armstrong has had a remarkable public career. Starting as a member of Common Council in 1897, he subsequently became a Select Councilman, Coroner, Director of Public Works, Mayor and County Treasurer.

His friends call him affectionately "the old gray Mayor," but he is not old in spirit, and probably will continue to be a factor in local politics.

Armstrong made the mistake of failing to realize that a new era had arrived in local politics—that the people were no longer tolerant of gang methods, election cheating, coercion of the payroll, and the spoils system of filling public offices—that they demanded, in short, a square deal and sportsmanlike treatment.

"Joe the Builder" gave Pittsburgh and Allegheny County many important public works. To his initiative and energy we owe some of our finest bridges, highways and buildings. He is entitled to the public's thanks for these things. They will be his monument.

Queer Logic

It is admitted everywhere that overproduction is responsible for the cut-throat competition, the below-cost prices, the miserable wages, the strikes and bankruptcies.

Yet some of our operators, in explanation of their cold attitude towards invitations to meet with the operators of other states to consider a reduction in the output of coal, say in their opinion nothing will be gained by restricting production.

In the same breath they say what the industry needs is a higher price for coal. It would be interesting to know how they propose to evade the elementary economic law of supply and demand.

In turning a deaf ear to the invitations to the conferences the operators are running true to form. They have consistently declined to attend the meetings proposed by President Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, Secretary of Commerce Lamont and Secretary of Labor Doak.

Their failure to co-operate with others as anxious as they are to rehabilitate the industry is discouraging.

Shoving Them Down!

(Copyright, 1931.)

It is false economy to flirt with fate at the expense of national safety, national security.

But that is just what the Hoover Administration is doing with its "Scuttle" policy towards the United States Navy.

To lop off one-fifth of the fighting force in order to make a paper showing of saving, as our Head Servants at Washington now propose would cripple the effectiveness of the fleets, add to the ranks of the jobless and defeat the very ends sought to be accomplished.

To curb the building program which would maintain our navy ON A PAR WITH THE STRONGEST, as fixed by the London Naval Conference, is to invite disaster, but the Hoover Administration proceeds to do just that.

If the Administration has its way, and England and Japan continue to carry out their plans under the London Treaty, Great Britain will again be mistress of the seas, Japan will trail her a close second the United States will be THIRD in naval strength.

Why cannot our Head Servants think in terms of AMERICA and AMERICAN NEEDS once in a while?

Marry-Go-Round

Woman's Fear-Complex

* * *

When she is a little girl, she has a panic for fear she may not grow up to be a beauty. And when she is a big girl, she lives in a panic for fear she may not be popular. That is what drives her to paint like a fire-alarm, dress like a show-girl, and make a noise like a radio in static.

* * *

Later, she has a panic for fear she may MISS something—love, a good time, experience, or a thrill. She feels desperately that she must snatch at "life"—and she is lucky if she does not snatch a live wire and get her fingers badly burned.

By the time she is 20, she is obsessed with the "marrying panic"—the cold fear that she may not get a husband, while the getting is good. Her mind leaps to the altar before a man has noted the color of her eyes or got her name spelled right, and she often wrecks her chance by jumping at him before he is there to catch her. * * *

At 30, she is filled with a panic for fear she may get fat, or lose her husband to another woman, or acquire a double chin.

* * *

And at 40, she has reached the "dangerous age" and the panicky feeling that she may grow old and die without knowing romance. So she rushes into foolish flirtations, takes up aesthetic dancing, or gets all tangled up with a kindergarten lover half her age.

* * *

It is this eternal and incomprehensible fear-complex which drives a woman to do every foolish desperate and reckless thing she does in life, from dieting herself into consumption to having her face lifted or rushing into marriage with the wrong man.

From going the pace and making a physical wreck of herself at 20, to making a spectacle of herself at 50. * * *

* * *

* * *

A MAN never has a panic for fear nobody will admire him, love him, or marry him. He KNOWS he's "good!" And his only astonishment is that any woman should fail to recognize it.

* * *

What a pity woman can't just BE STILL, and take life and love and men as they come—and let them GO, when they go!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I came across a grand phrase in one of Marshall Maslin's articles. He was speaking on woman's superior faith and courage.

"A man," said he, "may groan and give up and be fretful all his day, but a woman cannot afford such extravagances. She must make a little do and must make both ends of life meet, in a gracious uncertainty that, some time, somehow, all will be well with the Children of Men."

I'm not so sure that I agree with Maslin's notion that woman is a patient, trusting philosopher. When I consider some of the hussies I've known, myself included!

Be that as it may, he certainly scored when he spoke of "such extravagances." The extravagances of groaning and fretting and giving up—

Did you ever stop to think that fretting is an extravagance? Did you ever realize that tantrums and peeves are an actual waste . . . as real and far more serious than the waste of money?

A grouch—that seems an intangible thing—silly and pesty, but not really important. But do you know what actually happens inside you when you have a grouch?

Something does happen. An explosion happens . . . an emotional explosion that wrecks and wastes your nervous energy—leaves you weak and drained.

WHEN YOU HAVE A GROUCH YOU POUR DYNAMITE INTO YOUR BLOOD STREAM AND BLOW YOURSELF TO SMITHEREENS!

Of course the scientists do not call it dynamite. They call it "hermones," but the effect is much the same. Hermones are the chemical secretions of your "ductless glands" . . . the glands which empty their secretions into the blood, instead of externally like the sweat and salivary glands.

You have many such glands. The thyroid, pineal, pituitary, are some of them. The suprarenals—small bodies attached to the kidneys—are others. And what the suprarenals can do to you, when you start a grouch, is PLENTY!

The suprarenals are tied up very closely with your nervous system. When you become angry, excited or frightened, they become tremendously busy. Instantly they secrete greater quantities of their particular hermones, which is called "adrenalin"—and pour this secretion into the blood stream. Then, just as exploding dynamite scatters its force through a large area, so the adrenalin, rushing through the blood, spreads its fierce energy through the whole body.

Why does your pulse pound when you're angry? Why do your pupils dilate? Why do you grow scarlet, then pale? Why do you feel so furiously strong—then so suddenly weak and nerveless? That's why. Your glands have shot a tremendous stimulant into your blood . . . a secret dynamite. You've gone through an explosion . . . literally "BLOWN UP." And now, that it's over, you're "SHOT TO PIECES."

"Such extravagances" . . . Marshall Maslin knew his human chemistry when he used that phrase. There's no greater extravagance in the world than emotional waste. You may throw away your money, but as long as you "keep up your spirits" you can make a fresh start. But if you've wrecked your spirits, you're certainly in a tight spot.

The next time you want to fly into a tantrum, say to yourself—"Can I AFFORD this anger? Dare I use up this much nervous energy? Is it worth it?"

Black Pioneered on Scientific Chemistry

By Archibald Henderson

Chemistry is a distinctly modern science. Two centuries ago, the most fantastic theories were put forward, argued with great acumen, and accepted by highly intelligent men. The gullibility and credulity of the general public of that day, and even of the scientists themselves, concerning such a subject as chemistry, are almost unbelievable. The study of chemistry as a science of weighing and measuring things was virtually unknown. Quantitive analysis was an unborn science.

One of the pioneers in this sort of chemistry was Joseph Black, of Scotch-Irish ancestry. He was born near Bordeaux, France, the son of a Belfast wine-merchant, in 1728. After passing his childhood in France, he was sent to Ireland to school. In 1746 he entered the University of Glasgow, intending to follow a medical career. During his university course he became greatly interested in the subject of chemistry. After leaving the University of Glasgow, he entered the University of Edinburgh, where he completed his medical studies. It was at Edinburgh that Black first displayed his genius and laid the foundations of chemistry as a genuine science.

It was generally believed in that day that when limestone was treated with fire, the quicklime so made derived from the fire a "fiery power." This fiery principle was called "phlogiston;" and discussions and controversies regarding phlogiston, by scientists everywhere, continued for perhaps a century. Black was tremendously interested in the notion of this "fiery power," and proceeded to make an exhaustive search for it. Indeed, he postponed the taking of his degree of doctor of medicine for three years, in his care for accuracy regarding his researches and conclusions. His thesis for his degree is now justly famous in the history of the development of chemistry as a science. Black proved that the causticity of lime and alkali is due to the absence of the carbonic acid which was present in the limestone and certain forms of alkali. Thus, at a single stroke, Black abolished the fantastic notion of fiery power or phlogiston.

In 1756 Black began his academic career as a teacher at Glasgow, where he was appointed professor of anatomy and lecturer in chemistry. His exposure of the fallacy regarding phlogiston was a first-class piece of chemical research. It has been termed the first accurately quantitative examination of a chemical action which we possess. Thus he began his career by transforming chemistry from a fanciful and weak art into a methodical science of universal range and power. Among his famous pupils were James Watt, Adam Smith, David Hume and Hutton, the geologist. One of Black's most important researches was on the subject of "latent heat." From 1766 until his death on December 6, 1799, Black was professor of chemistry at the University of Edinburgh.

England's Unpleasant Talk of Us

THE Evening Post, both in its special financial correspondence from London and in its general dispatches concerning English opinion, has been finding of late frequent reference to "an American collapse."

Mr. Gerald Barry, for instance, the energetic young editor of an independent Tory weekly, the London Week End Review, says roundly:

Our own correspondent, Mr. Raymond Gram Swing, wires us that:

"There is no inside information quoted here about American financial troubles, but British fears of the American position are remarkably widespread."

We think that someone should tell London either to put up or to shut up. By that we mean that those Englishmen who are feeding out the prophecies of an American collapse ought either to specify what they mean or stop spreading vague insinuations.

WE can tell them that the effect over here is not overfortunate either for themselves or for the world situation. In the first place our people are beginning to have their English sympathy changed to antipathy. At the start American opinion admired English patriotism and courage and the way in which Ramsay MacDonald personified both qualities. That feeling is altering decidedly.

Today we find English whispers undermining foreign confidence in America. We find English financiers telling the nations that America has not the technically trained men to become the "world's banker." We hear that we haven't enough world knowledge or world responsibility to call a conference on the gold standard "to draw up rules for its administration," as Barry puts it, "and to assure the world the rules will be kept."

OUR natural reaction to this kind of talk is to re-examine its source. And we can tell England quite plainly that instead of blindly admiring her we are now beginning to ask ourselves why she got us to lend her $400,000,000 to save the pound and then abandoned the pound over night. Why wasn't it enough, and, if it wasn't enough, why did not she know it beforehand and not ask useless credit? Also, why did England plunge off the gold standard in one fell swoop without thought of her creditors or the world at large? And finally, how does England have the nerve to try to force us into a gold conference to save her from the effects of her own act?

There is, in New York, in other words, a growing feeling toward England of what we might describe as half-truculent, half-superior confidence. We know that we are entering upon "our hundred years." We've got to be the world's banker, whether we want to or not. When we need technicians in this line, if we haven't bred our own, we'll buy them from abroad. And we certainly will turn our slow, almost lazy wrath against England, if she continues to break American stock values and put brakes on the pound's descent by what almost looks like a definite propaganda of an "American collapse."

John Golden has the prettiest named secretary in town—Jean Dalrymple. The Park avenue doorman with black ribboned eyeglasses. Broadway seems a little more the real Broadway with Sophie Tucker in town. Kent Cooper, a Columbus, Ind., boy, who made good in the city.

That pair of French hat checkers at Dinty Moore's. And the thick brogue of the Hibernian starter. I'm always seeing Pomeranians that suggest Fritzi Scheff and Sealyhams suggesting Charles Evans Hughes. Arthur William Brown's collars are bluer than Percy Hammonds.

That beauty parlor for hands on W. 45th street. Frank Fay has the most graceful hands I ever saw on a man. And Helen Morgan's on a woman. You can't dine out without seeing Karl Kitchen. Or go to a first night and not see Sailing Baruch and Dennis McSweeney.

Funny anything not modern now looks old fashioned. Roy Howard walks pie footed. The New Amsterdam has not been the same to me since the passing of A. L. Erlanger. Nor has the Empire since Frohman died. Odd how vivid personalities beglamour steel and stone.

Bond houses no longer advertise losses are impossible. And not likely to for years. Those sadly fluting frogs in the south end of Central Park at sundown. And the toss of yellow haze over the White Way. Usually find Damon Runyon around Lindy's at night.

Marie Dressler suggests one of those waddling undershot English bull dogs. Just as Wilton Lackeye does a tired bloodhound, and Joe Frisco a pug. Those glow-worm lights in the cheap dance halls. Midnight foreign language classes. Bon jour, Mlieudame!

Among the characters of deluxe speakeasies is the peripatetic jewelry salesman, about the only fortunate to dispose of jewelry these days. He carries stock in various pockets and makes it his business to horn in on parties that have grown convivial. The head waiter or manager may be the accomplice. The big spender with a beautiful doll as a companion is his meat. He jockeys around to showing her some of his wares—"nothing to sell, of course, just carrying these to show a customer in the morning." Jewelry takes on an added glamour to the tipsy. They always want it and with an equally tipsy companion on hand, usually get it.

At the pinnacle of the bull market there were about 700 branch brokerage offices around town, spreading from Wall street bases. Now they have dwindled to a comparative handful and are as comparatively deserted. The expenses of many branches totaled $4,000 a day.

I am told that the first uptown brokerage branch was in the Hotel Astor. In the closing months of 1929 there was scarcely a hotel of consequence in town that did not have its board room—indeed even some quiet family hotels had them. Hospices like the Pennsylvania, Biltmore and Roosevelt had two and three. The new Waldorf was to have nine.

The expense of operating huge brokerage establishments staggers the imagination even in opulent days when stock gambling was rampant. One of the biggest so called-"wire houses" in the street had an overhead of $100,000 a day. Much of this was due to instant contact with all parts of the world. Members of the firm could pick up receivers among the battery on their desk and be in instant telephonic communication with Cincinnati, Kansas City, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and also London, Paris and Berlin.

From the Musical Courier: "Every night through the thick walls there came the muted strains of the most difficult pieces, played with the skill of only a master pianist. Not until recently was it learned that the artist was one of America's most famous writers who swore them to secrecy."

And they laughed when I sat down at the piano.

League Court Expediency

Springfield Newspaper Is Disillusioned by Austro-German Customs Union Decision.

As a friend of the League Court, and an advocate of American membership, the Springfield Republican has been disillusioned, in part at least, by the Austro-German customs union decision. An editorial in the venerable Massachusetts journal said:

"It is disappointing that the decision was so close, and still more disappointing that it was obviously determined by political rather than legal considerations.

"It would be difficult to feel very enthusiastic about the World Court or very hopeful for its future, if we had to look forward to a long line of 8-to 7 decisions in which law might be subordinated to expediency or politics."
